WILSON BACKS AMENDMENT FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Victory on House Vote Today Expected as Result of His Belated Conversion.

CONFERS WITH DEMOCRATS

Then President Throws Support to Resolution "as an Act of Justice."

DEMOCRATS WERE ALARMED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—President Wilson this evening came out squarely for the proposed amendment to the Federal Constitution giving women the right to vote throughout the Union. Although there had been indications of a change of mind on the part of some of those close to the President, who had maintained with him that the question of woman suffrage should be left to the determination of each State individually, the announcement of the President's adherence to the amendment came as a great surprise, even to some of the leaders of the National Woman Suffrage Association who conferred with him immediately after New York State adopted woman suffrage and who, so it became known tonight, came away confident that ultimately they would have Presidential support for the Susan B. Anthony amendment.

The President's change of heart was made known through a brief statement handed out in typewritten form at the White House and credited to Representative Raker of California, Chairman of the Committee on Suffrage. This statement was issued immediately after the Democratic members of the Suffrage Committee had conferred with the President for an hour. The statement read:

"The committee found that the President had not felt at liberty to volunteer his advice to members of Congress in this important matter, but when we sought his advice he very frankly and earnestly advised us to vote for the amendment as an act of right and justice to the women of the country and of the world."

Democrats Feared Overturn.

The announcement of the President's support of nation-wide suffrage for women came on the eve of a definite and final vote on this important question in the House of Representatives. The House had agreed to vote tomorrow on the resolution providing for submitting to the States the constitutional amendment granting the franchise to women. It will take a two-thirds majority to adopt the resolution of submission, and, as opposition had developed, mainly among Southern Democrats, who are powerful in number and influence in the lower body of Congress, there was a strong probability that the measure would be defeated. From a political viewpoint matters were brought to a crisis this week by decarations from the Republican side of the House that after a canvass it could be said that the resolution would receive the overwhelming support of Republican Representatives.

Democratic Congressmen from suffrage States became alarmed over the situation. They feared that if the resolution were defeated by Democratic votes women who possessed the voting franchise would go over in droves to Republican candidates in the Congressional elections next November. The agitation among the Democrats became so marked that their leaders felt that some action should be taken to counteract the effect in the political campaign this year of the charge that the Democratic Party was responsible for keeping women from expressing their preference at the polls. It was said that women in New York State were preparing to vote against Democratic candidates for Congress because of their opposition to the suffrage Constitutional amendment.

Republican Caucus Acts.

The New York Republican delegation in the House held a conference on the subject yesterday and twenty-three of the twenty-four present agreet to vote for the resolution for submission. Late tonight, after a three hours' session, the House Republicans decided to support the resolution.

It was the panicky feeling on the Democratic side of the House, particularly among the membership from States where women vote, which permeated Administration quarters, that brought about the conference this evening. It was felt that some decision should be reached by the Democrats as to party policy before the Republican caucus came to a determination to stand by the cause of "votes for women."

It was this situation that prevailed in the Democratic ranks when the Democratic members of the Suffrage Committee of the House called on President Wilson this evening. While the statement attributed to Representative Raker indicates that the conference had been held at the initiative of the committeemen, some of the latter stated after they left the White House

General Staff for Navy Is Created by England

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The changes in the Admiralty which were expected to follow the recent replacement of Admiral Sir John Jellicoe by Vice Admiral Sir Rosslyn Wemyss have now been effected, and what will in effect be a Naval General Staff will be created, though probably without any radical titular change in the composition of the Admiralty Board.

In making the new appointments, which have not yet been officially announced, no regard has been paid to seniority, but rather to the selection of officers who during the war have shown themselves to possess the necessary qualifications for staff work.

Under the new arrangement of the staff, operations are divided into three departments—operations in home waters, operations overseas, and trade protection operations. The First Sea Lord will be Chief of the Naval Staff, responsible for the large questions of naval policy, his position corresponding to that of the Chief of the Military Staff. It is understood that the composition of the new board will be published almost immediately.

GARFIELD REJECTS HYLAN'S COAL PLEA

ADMINISTRATOR CRITICISED

Attacked in Committee and National House—Drastic Rule to Meet New England Crisis.

Dr. H. A. Garfield, the Federal Fuel Administrator, yesterday refused to issue priority orders to assure New York City 1,500 cars of coal a day, as Mayor Hylan requested on Tuesday. Following the receipt of this refusal and a report that Dr. Garfield believed the railroads were solving New York's fuel problem, A. H. Wiggin, Federal Fuel Administrator for New York State, sent Dr. Garfield a telegram asking him to change his attitude and calling the situation here "most desperate."

At the same time A. H. Smith, Assistant Director General of Railroads, gave out figures to show that there were standing at tidewater yesterday morning more than 300,000 tons and enough within forty-eight hours haul to bring this total up to more than 400,000 tons.

It was announced at Mayor Hylan's office yesterday morning that Dr. Garfield had refused to issue the priority orders for New York on the ground that it would interfere with the railroad situation. At the same time the priority order that 500 cars of coal must go to New England every day stood unchanged. This is the appeal Mr. Wiggin then sent to Dr. Garfield:

> Situation continues serious. Many sections of the State are suffering acutely. Many complaints have been received regarding the priority order given to New England, which interferes with contracts and deliveries in this section. Situation in Greater New York continues most desperate. Searles gives me the following figures on bituminous: One hundred and fifty cars less received than has been dumped in last twenty-four hours; total dumped yesterday, 32,000 tons. This is about one-half the needs of this port. Anthracite figures show from Jan. 3 to Jan. 8, inclusive, 727 cars per day dumped. One-fourth of this is for New England ports. This is giving Greater New York only 21,000 tons a day, less than one-half its requirements.

If Mr Wiggin's figures that New York port's needs are 64,000 tons of bituminous a day and more than 42,000 tons of anthracite, or a total of more than 106,000 tons a day, are correct, then the railroads have not hauled and are not hauling enough coal and dumping enough coal for the port.

The report made by Mr. Smith to Mr. McAdoo of the condition at 6 A. M. yesterday showed these figures:

	Anthracite.	Bituminous.	Total.
Dumped	47,400	32,800	80,200
In barges	20,580	17,450	38,030
In cars	150,000	83,600	233,600

The figures of the coal dumped in the twenty-four hours up to 6 o'clock yesterday morning mean the coal available for towing to New York yesterday. This would be about 25,000 tons below Mr. Wiggin's figures for the normal. Reeve Schley, County Fuel Administrator, said

INCREASED RATES FOR SOME ROADS IN M'ADOO PLAN

Commerce Board Expected to Study Readjustment and Report to Director General.

WAGE INCREASES ASKED

Anderson Opposes Stipulation of Reversion to Owners as Favoring Stock Manipulation.

STEEL TRADE ASKED TO AID

A. H. Smith Requests J. A. Farrell to Arrange for Recommendation of Service Expected.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Among the problems which Director General McAdoo will have to tackle in the near future, it was learned today, will be a general readjustment of the railroad rate system, involving material increases in many cases, and an impending request for higher wages by nearly all classes of organized railroad labor. Many pending wage disputes will be transferred to the Government from railway executive boards. All these wage matters probably will be dealt with through investigating boards.

Officials in close touch with the railroad situation in its new aspects say that many rate revisions will become necessary now that Government operation has removed competition on which rates heretofore have been largely based. The Interstate Commerce Commission is expected to undertake within a few weeks a special study of rate readjustments for presentation to the Director General.

The commission's attention has been called to a number of abnormally low rate schedules caused by competiton between railroads whose rivalries have now ceased. Temporarily railroads have been left free to conduct their own rate questions, and since the Government assumed control a number of applications for increases have been received by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

No Strikes Contemplated.

Strikes are not contemplated by any labor organization, it is said, and wage questions will not be put up to the Director General as demands. The labor leaders are represented as not seeking to take advantage of Government operations to press for more pay, but rather as pointing out the necessity of wage increases to keep employes from being attracted to other industries.

Up to the present the only general demands for wage increases considered by Director General McAdoo are those presented by the four railway brotherhoods and the Switchmen's Union, whose President, S. E. Heberling, conferred with Mr. McAdoo today. The brotherhoods' case will be investigated by a board of four to be named by the Director General tomorrow, and he also may ask this body to inquire into the switchmen's demand, which now is being considered by a committee of railway executives representing all roads.

The Director General announced tonight that he expected to name railroad directors for certain sections of the country to assist him in administering Government operation, but said he had not determined how many would be appointed nor what territory each director should supervise. It is considered probable, however, that not more than six or seven will be named. Mr. McAdoo said specifically that he did not plan to name State directors. Thousands of applications for positions as State railroad supervisors have been received within the last few days.

Favors After War Control.

George W. Anderson, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and author of the Administration Railroad bill, declared firmly this afternoon that the section of the bill which provides that the railroads shall not revert to their owners until Congress shall so provide must not be amended. Commissioner Anderson appeared as a witness before the House Interstate Commerce Committee.

Representative Montague of Virginia, objecting to the provision of indefinite control after the war, asked if it were

Germans Torpedo British Hospital Ship Without Warning, 3 of 550 Aboard Lost

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The hospital ship Rewa was torpedoed and sunk in the Bristol Channel on Jan. 4 while on her way from Gibraltar, it is officially announced. All the wounded were saved. There were three casualties among the crew. The announcement follows:

"His Majesty's hospital ship Rewa was torpedoed and sunk in the Bristol Channel at about midnight on Jan. 4, on her way home from Gibraltar. All the wounded were safely transferred to patrol vessels. There were only three casualties among the crew, three Lascars being missing.

"She was displaying all the lights and markings required by The Hague Convention. She was not and had not been within the so-called barred zone, as delimited in the statement issued by the German Government on Jan. 19, 1917."

Most of the survivors of the Rewa were landed at Swansea, Wales. Many of them were without clothing of any kind. The wounded were removed immediately to a hospital. The torpedo which sank the Rewa went directly through the red cross painted on her side.

The hospital ship was torpedoed without warning and sank within an hour. According to custom the vessel was lighted up after dark, so that there could be no possibility of submarines mistaking her identity. The torpedo struck the vessel with a terrific crash, and was so effective that there was no chance of saving her. There were 550 persons on board, including 30 bed-ridden and a number of soldiers suffering from malaria.

The lights on the hospital ship were put out by the force of the explosion, and the wounded and sick had to grope about in the dark for their clothing. Many of them were unsuccessful in their quest and had to leave the ship without clothing. While in the boats and on rafts they had little or no protection from the piercing cold wind.

All the patients, the ship's staff and the members of the crew, with the exception of three Lascars who were killed by the explosion, were safely rescued from the boats and rafts. They had hardly left the Rewa, which was sinking on even keel, when the steamer suddenly plunged forward and disappeared. The rescued men were two hours adrift before they were picked up.

21 British Ships Were Sunk by Submarines Last Week

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The British Admiralty reports the sinking in the last week of eighteen merchantmen of 1,600 tons or over by mine or submarine, as well as three merchantmen under that tonnage. Four fishing vessels also were sunk.

The week's arrivals were 2,085 and the sailings 2,244. Eleven merchantmen were unsuccessfully attacked.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—One French merchantman of more than 1,600 tons was sunk by mine or submarine in the week ended Jan. 5. None under that tonnage was lost.

The Admiralty report of Jan. 2 gave the sinkings of British merchantmen for the preceding week as twenty-one, eighteen being vessels of 1,600 tons or over. This was a material increase over the previous week, when the sinkings numbered twelve, eleven of the vessels being of more than 1,600 tons. Thus the increase in the submarine sinkings has been maintained in the last week.

SHIP BOARD VOTES BIG HOUSING FUND

Will Expend $1,200,000 at Once at Newport News at Senators' Urging.

POLICY TO BE EXTENDED

Board Diverts Material from New York Owing to Lack of Freight Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Immediate expenditure of $1,200,000 to provide housing accommodations for shipyard workers at Newport News was decided on today by the Shipping Board after a Senate sub-committee had presented the urgency of the situation. Housing facilities will be provided at other plants engaged on Government work as soon as possible after Congress passes a bill now pending providing money for the purpose.

The sub-committee appointed by the Senate Commerce Committee, investigating shipbuilding, took up with the board the subject of housing workers at Newport News after Homer L. Ferguson, President of the Newport News Shipbuilding Company, a witness at the inquiry yesterday, had declared his yard could take on no more men until housing was obtained.

The inquiry continued today with Edward F. Carry, Director of Operations for the Board, on the stand. Freight congestion at New York, Mr. Carry said, had greatly delayed sailings, and the board now was diverting much material to Southern ports. Lack of coal for bunkers, too, he said, had slowed up overseas transportation.

In executive session Mr. Carry outlined the Shipping Board's policy respecting the furnishing of vessels to the Allies for transportation of their goods and gave the committee the number of Government ships now operated by the army and the navy.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—Conditions in all the shipbuilding plants along the Delaware River are being investigated by the Shipbuilding Labor Adjustment Board, meeting in this city. The board, a Federal body, recently completed an extensive investigation along the Pacific Coast.

A big percentage of the merchant ships which the Government expects to be the deciding factor in winning the war are now being constructed along the Delaware, which is skirted by more shipbuilding yards than any other river in the country.

Standardization of wages and piece work pay throughout the country for shipbuilders is the aim of the board.

CRIME IS RAMPANT IN PETROGRAD

Burglary, Robbery and Murder Common—Food Supply Is Giving Out.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—The Petrograd correspondent of The Times telegraphs:

"Starvation seems to be staring us in the face. Bread riots may occur at any moment. We receive the small quantity of three-fourths of a pound of black bread per head for two days. Workmen, soldiers, and other privileged persons receive more. Some days we get none at all, and have to make shift with a few potatoes, which are also getting scarce and dear.

"Flour and the various grains which used to be so abundant in this granary of Europe it is quite impossible to find, unless some occasion offers for secret purchase at ruinous fancy prices. Black and sometimes dark brown bread is doled out by card system—sticky, gritty stuff, only half baked, composed of millers' refuse mixed with straw, of the consistency of putty; and looking very much like it. Meat is a rare luxury. The poorest people—not the factory workers, who are receiving enormous wages—sometimes buy roots of cow horns and stumps of tails. Horseflesh is in common use.

"Burglary, robbery, and murder in most audacious forms prevail to an extent hitherto unknown. Men and women are stripped of overcoats and shoes in the streets. At night armed marauders in military uniforms enter houses under pretext of official searches and perquisitions. Thieves in stolen motor cars hold up persons driving in sledges.

"Printed notices with the stamp of the British Embassy issued to British residents by the Consulate, stating that their holders are under the Embassy's protection, seem to have little effect. The other day an armed band entered an Englishman's apartment while he was at home and appropriated 11,000 rubles. Crowds of British subjects who are returning to England visit the British Military Control Office and the British Consulate daily for passport visés, and many old-established British industrial enterprises here have been liquidated or sold, as it is quite impossible to put up with the ignorant control and exorbitant demands of the Russian workmen."

BRITISH LABOR FOR WILSON PROGRAM WHICH HEARTENS ALLIED CAPITALS; TROOPS URGE TROTZKY TO BE FIRM

PLEA BY RUSSIAN SOLDIERS

TROTZKY REASSURES THEM

"We Did Not Overthrow Czar to Bow to German Imperialism," He Says.

NEGOTIATIONS ON AGAIN

Teutons Hold Separate Conference with Ukrainians—Mobs in Germany Clamor for Peace.

PETROGRAD, Jan. 8.—As the Russian Peace Delegates passed along the way to renew the negotiations with the Germans, the Russian troops in the trenches near Brest-Litovsk cried to Leon Trotzky, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister:

"Be firm. Don't make a dishonorable peace."

Trotzsky replied:

"We did not overthrow the Czar to bow to German Imperialism."

A dispatch, detailing this and other important facts, was received at the Smolny Institute, the Bolshevist headquarters, this afternoon. The tenor of the dispatch indicated that the Russians would continue to insist upon the transfer of the conference to a neutral State in order to gain more publicity, which the Russians consider extremely important.

The Bolshevist headquarters is receiving by telegraph the comments of the German press, among others that of the Frankfurter Zeitung, which, in an editorial, declares that Germany should not hesitate to move the conference elsewhere, as the question of place was no rock on which to break off this most important conference.

Peace delegates of Ukraine conferred yesterday at Brest-Litovsk with the Bolshevist delegates, and reached an agreement whereby the Russian authorities consent to consider Ukraine an independent factor in making such terms as its leaders deem advisable with the Germans.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 9.—The leaders of the delegations representing Russia and the Central Powers held a preliminary discussion yesterday, disposing of questions of procedure, a dispatch from Brest-Litovsk reports. The meeting was attended by Leon Trotzky, Bolshevist Foreign Minister; Dr. von Kühlmann, German Foreign Minister; Count Czernin, Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, and Talaat Bey, Turkish Grand Vizier. A plenary session of the delegates was arranged for this morning.

Later, represetnatives of the Central Powers held a conference with the Ukrainians.

Peace Riots in German Cities.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—According to a Geneva dispatch to The Daily Express the Démocrate of that city learns from Stuttgart that when news of the interruption of the Russian peace negotiations became known in Germany serious riots took place in the principal towns, especially Berlin, Cologne, and Munich. The rioters marched through the streets on Saturday shouting, "We must have peace!"

KAISER POSES AS HUMANITY'S CHAMPION

Always Has Upheld Principle of Peaceable Co-operation of Peoples, He Tells Poles.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 9.—Referring to himself as having been throughout his reign the champion of the principles making for the welfare of humanity and peaceable co-operation of peoples, Emperor William gave assurance of full support to the delegation of the Polish Regency Council which he received a day or two ago, a Berlin dispatch says. In reply to the address presented by the delegates, who expressed gratitude for the restoration of the independent Polish Kingdom, the Emperor said:

"It is a sincere joy to me to be able to greet you, as the appointed representatives of the Polish State, in my capital. I gather from your words, with lively satisfaction, that you see in the acts carried out by my exalted allies and myself fulfillment of the long-cherished desire of the Polish people for re-establishment of the independent Polish kingdom and that you believe you will be best serving your fatherland if in common with the German Empire and Austro-Hungarian Monarchy, you pursue the aims which guarantee the weal of humanity and peaceful co-operation of peoples.

"As against the calumnies of the enemy, I feel grateful that my unremitting efforts in my reign of nearly thirty years to be the champion and protector of these principles will meet with deep sympathy on your part.

"May it be granted to you, gentlemen, in successful labor to give the Polish State foundations which will guarantee its further peaceable development as an element of order, progress and civilization. You may hereby be assured of the full support of myself and my Government."

Reveals Austro-German Agreement to Hold Alsace, Regain Colonies, and Make Balkan Annexation

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Reuter's Agency learns from a Czech source that the Imperial German Chancellor, Count von Hertling, and the Austro-Hungarian Minister of Foreign Affairs, Count Czernin, arrived at an agreement in December whereby Austria-Hungary engages to support the German view regarding Alsace-Lorraine and the German colonies, and Germany engages to support the Austrian view preserving the integrity of the Dual Monarchy and the Austro-Hungarian aspirations regarding the Czechs, Southern Slavs, and other nationalities, namely, that no rights be granted to the various nationalities except in a lawful way which will not permit those peoples to separate from the monarchy, and also that after the war Albania, Montenegro, and Serbia shall be annexed to Austria-Hungary, but preserve their outward autonomy.

Concerning other war aims, Germany and Austria, according to this information, agree to study them in common, and, in the event of disagreement, each reserves freedom of decision. Finally, Germany consents to the Austrian solution of the Polish problem.

BERLIN SURPRISED OVER HENDERSON

British Labor's Support of Lloyd George's Speech Comes as a Blow.

SEE PROGRAM OF CONQUEST

Socialists Assert British Premier Violates Their Policy of Self-Determination.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Jan. 9.—The general view of German public opinion and the German press is that Premier Lloyd George's terms are absolutely unacceptable, but Henderson's approval of the terms comes as a blow. It is learned here that one of the most prominent Socialists expressed hmself in the Reichstag lobby yesterday as follows:

"We would never consent to such a one-sided arrangement as is proposed in Lloyd George's program. The resolution adopted by our party yesterday that we are determined to resist energetically all attempts at the improper use of the right of self-determination for purpose of veiled annexation must certainly apply to Lloyd George's intentions, especially concerning Alsace-Lorraine, certain parts of Austria-Hungary, and the German colonies, to say nothing of his attempt to pick Turkey to the bone."

Owing to the intense interest taken in the Brest-Litovsk negotiations and the ensuing differences, a large number of members assembled in the Reichstag, though there was no plenary session, only the main committee holding meetings. Lloyd George's speech aroused such angry resentment that even the antagonism between the Conservatives and the majority party caused by the Pan German intrigues against the latter and against the government seemed obliterated.

Fears "Strangling of Germany."

The semi-official Cologne Gazette's Berlin correspondent says that in whatevery way Lloyd George's program is viewed, the general opinion in Germany is that it would mean the strangling of Germany for an indefinite period and England's world domination. The paper hopes that the Premier's speech will have a good influence on the political differences in Germany.

"We know how we stand," it says, "and those not too blind will once and for all recognize the value of the words of this Minister, who hitherto always protested that he did not wish to wage an offensive war."

The paper says that it is natural that England should want a democratic Austria, but asks why she is so interested in the South Slavonic States, asserting that the interest proceeds from a desire to interfere in Austria, and that for the same reason an independent Poland is greeted with sympathy in England.

It is remarkable, says The Gazette, that Lloyd George should make such an important speech to English labor leaders, who approved it, as Henderson's utterance shows. The paper considers that the fact that Henderson uses the "worn out" phrase "destruction of Prussian militarism" indicates that England labor, in so far as it is represented by the unions, approves the imperialistic program of the present cabinet. It calls Lloyd George's announcement of war aims world treachery to democracy, to which the attention of the Socialists of the whole world should be called, asserting that English labor is also to blame.

"When will the generous idealists, who are plentiful among the French and Russian Socialists," the Gazette asks, "finally learn that they are being made tools of by English labor? No common bond of interest exists between English laborers and those of Europe. The English workingman is just as interested in exploiting the world as the capitalist class. He thinks imperialistically, and all his phrases about a democratic peace are catchwords.

"It is well for us that the man who speaks is vanquished, and, thanks to our weapons, will remain so. It is well for us that the world will be divided anew, not according to empty, sanctimonious, humbugging phrases, but upon that most ancient principle of might

WASHINGTON LOOKS FOR NO PEACE BID

BUT MAY HEARTEN RUSSIA

Reference to Alsace-Lorraine Expected to Strengthen Berlin War Party at First.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—President Wilson's restatement of war aims has not paved the way for any peace negotiations in the immediate future, in the opinion of officials best qualified to judge. His address delivered before the Congress yesterday is regarded as the final word to Germany and her partners to take it or leave it, as they see fit.

This means that the Central Powers now know or will know soon in definite form the things that the Allies have set out to achieve and that it is the intention of the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, and Japan to fight for those declared objects until the very end.

There is little if any expectation here that Germany will construe the President's declaration as affording an opportunity to initiate conversations looking to peace parleys. In some quarters it is suggested, but not with any indication of confidence, that Germany might interpret the President's terms as the maximum demands of the allied nations and thus worthy of being used as a basis for inquiry that might lead to negotiations looking to concessions. But officials well informed as to the situation in Germany and the disposition of the various prominent elements in the Reichstag are inclined to the view that the President's outline of war aims will at the outset tend to anger the more important and influential factions and lead them to demand a continuance of the war.

Such German newspaper comment on the speech of Mr. Lloyd George as has reached the State Department furnishes no hope that the German Government is encouraged to hope for peace. The war party is incensed over the terms laid down by the British Prime Minister. It is believed also that the President's statement regarding Alsace-Lorraine will bring many German Socialists into supporting the war party. Officials here believe that the Socialists will be divided over the proposals of the Allies as set forth by the President, and that this condition will have the effect of prolonging the fighting until the German people awake to the realization that the Allies intend to keep up the struggle indefinitely.

Regard Speech as Well Timed.

But there seems to be a general opinion in Washington that the President's address has cleared the atmosphere and made plain to the world that the Allies are fighting for certain well-defined objects which they intend to obtain without regard to cost in men and treasure. It is just as generally believed that the President's address was well timed. It was delivered at the moment when many Germans were beginning to believe that peace was in sight, and a peace that would be based on German possession of much enemy territory. The President has dashed this hope to the ground.

Many officials are encouraged to believe that the constant reiteration of the desire of the United States and the other nations at war with Germany to bring about an end to all wars, a peace based on government for, by and of the people of all the nations involved, ultimately will have its effect on the Kaiser's subjects. They are led to this opinion by the advices they receive of the character of discussion in Germany and the dissatisfaction in the Austro-Hungarian Empire. There is reason to believe that all the allied nations have entered into some sort of an agreement to keep up agitation for the attainment of democratic ideals throughout the world, and in line with this the sentiments expressed by President Wilson and the statesmen of allied countries on many

BRITISH WORKERS PLEASED

HAILS VIEWS ON RUSSIA

President's Position in Regard to Freedom of the Seas Not Misunderstood.

CALL FOR GERMAN ANSWER

London and Paris Applaud the Vigorous Statement of American Executive.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—British labor has been prompt to indorse President Wilson's statement of war aims. A declaration was issued today signed by C. W. Bowerman, Arthur Henderson, and Henry J. May, respectively representing the Parliamentary Committee of the Trade Union Congress, the National Executive Committee of the Labor Party, and the Co-operative Parliamentary Representation Committee, supporting Mr. Wilson's position unreservedly, and aligning the workingmen's organizations of Great Britain for a continuation of the war in defense of the principles laid down.

The declaration lays stress upon the President's advocacy of open diplomacy in the peace negotiations and upon his references to Russia, which are welcomed with eagerness. It sets forth that the democracies of the world now have a program to which all of them can subscribe.

Text of the Manifesto.

The manifesto reads:

"We warmly welcome President Wilson's authoritative declaration of allied war aims. Within the last few days the whole international situation has been transformed, first by the speech of the Prime Minister to the conference of labor delegates and second by the great pronouncement of President Wilson. The moral energy and breadth of vision exhibited in the latter's address to Congress is particularly evident in his declaration that the peace negotiations when they begin must be absolutely open and that they shall involve or sanction no secret understandings. This is the only kind of diplomacy that the democracies of the world can tolerate. Humanity has had to pay dearly for secret covenants entered into by governments, and we rejoice that Mr. Wilson has so decisively proclaimed the democratic doctrine of open diplomacy.

"The leaders of revolutionary Russia, as Mr. Wilson recognizes, have initiated a new method of diplomacy, the results of which are apparent not only in the knowledge we have of the negotiations at Brest-Litovsk, but in Mr. Wilson's frank approval of the claim that the Russian representatives have acted justly and wisely in insisting on the conference being held with open doors and with the whole world as an audience.

"British labor will also welcome very heartily Mr. Wilson's expressions of sympathy with Russia's agonized efforts to achieve full freedom. He has responded, as we believed he would, to Russia's appeal for countenance and support by an earnest affirmation of the heartfelt desire and hope that some way may be opened by which we may be privileged to assist the people of Russia to obtain their utmost hope of liberty and ordered peace.

"Let us take care that this message reaches the ears of Russia. The British democracy desires nothing more earnestly than that the Russian democracy shall be convinced that the whole of the Allies are with them in their struggle for peace and freedom and in their effort to preserve the beneficent fruits of the revolution.

"In our judgment these two declarations of President Wilson in favor of open diplomacy and in support of revolutionary Russia will make his Congress speech one of the classic utterances of allied statesmanship during the war.

Finds No Point of Disagreement.

"In the detailed program of world peace outlined by Mr. Wilson we find no point upon which there is likely to be any disagreement among the allied democracies. His reference to 'freedom of the seas' is to be welcomed on the ground of its lucidity and breadth of definition. It embodies the doctrine of freedom of navigation both in peace and war, except in so far as it may be necessary to close the seas in whole or in part by international action for the purpose of enforcing international obligations violated by any nation.

"With that interpretation of the doctrine of the freedom of the seas to which the Central Powers attach such importance we are all free to agree, and the Central Powers cannot challenge it, if indeed they are sincere in their repudiation of aggressive intentions.

"No other formula that we have seen meets so fully the stipulations that an island power like Great Britain is bound to make to insure its own safety and that of the Empire in time of war. It seems to be a natural corollary of a League of Nations that freedom of navtion must be denied to any nation that violates international covenants for the maintenance of peace.

"We welcome President Wilson's assertion of the moral issues involved in the claim that Belgium must be evacuated and restored. No one single act, as he justly said, will do more to restore confidence among the nations in the integrity and sanctity of treaties and the obligations, resting upon all nations individually and severally, to maintain inviolate the principles of international law.

Trade Equality Advocated.

"Mr. Wilson's pronouncement in favor of equality of trade conditions among all nations consenting to peace is a step in the direction of universal free trade, which, as Cobden insisted, is a necessary condition to universal peace.

"Russia, in the midst of the negotiations which at the moment seem to menace her natural patrimony, will be strengthened by Mr. Wilson's demands that Russian territory must be evacuated and that all questions affecting her must be settled in a manner that will assure her an unhampered and unembarrassed opportunity to determine her own political development and a sincere welcome into the society of free nations.

"This is a test of the faith of peoples and governments in democratic principles, that they will be willing to agree to recognize the fact and effect of Russia's revolution, and be ready to give her every kind of help she needs to consolidate the revolution and to establish true democratic self-government in accordance with her own peculiar genius for freedom.

"Finally, we may say in a sentence, President Wilson's program is in essential respects so similar to that which British labor has put forward that we need not discuss any point of difference in detail. The spirit of this historic utterance is the spirit to which democracy all over the world can respond, and if it reaches the peoples of the Central Powers, we believe it will reinvigorate the popular movements toward peace in those countries, now under the yoke of the Prussian militarist autocracy, and give their demand for peace a weight and authority that cannot be denied.

"In fact we may say that peace negotiations have been begun and that the world awaits proof that the Central Powers are sincere in their desire to carry them to a conclusion which will be acceptable to the peoples of the world."

Germans Waking, Says MacDonald.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—James Ramsey MacDonald, Socialist and Labor Member of Parliament for Leicester, in a speech at Dumbarton, Scotland, asserted today that the Allies might have hammered Germany for a generation without producing that uprising among the German democracy which apparently already has occurred as a result of Premier Lloyd George's clear statement of war aims.

President Wilson's message, the speaker added, had reinforced this work, and the next step was an international conference at Stockholm. The Labor Party, Mr. MacDonald said, would ask the Government to grant passports for this conference.

The joint labor congress has decided to recommend that the Labor and Socialist Parties of allied nations, including the United States, hold a further conference for the consideration of the allied war aims. It is suggested that the conference be held in London, Feb. 20.

While considering President Wilson's speech to Congress a very fine pronouncement, Henry M. Hyndman, leader of the British Socialists, thinks it took a mistaken view of Germany's present position.

"There is no democracy in Germany at present," said Mr. Hyndman. "Equality instead of mastery is just what the German nation will not accept.

"I think also that the President misunderstands the position of Russia. The majority of the Russian people and a complete majority of the Constituent Assembly are not represented by the Bolsheviki at Brest-Litovsk or by the Leninite section in Russia. The Russian Social Revolutionary majority is neither disposed to surrender to Germany nor to have German or Bolshevist tyranny at home."

CALMS BRITISH FEARS OF ANY REACTION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 10.—President Wilson's address to Congress is regarded here as putting the seal of American approval upon the war aims of the European Allies, as restated in the speech of Premier Lloyd George on Saturday. The necessity for any restatement of war aims for America is a question which America can best determine, but so far as Great Britain was concerned, there is a practical consensus of opinion here that the need was urgent and that it has been met in a manner which completely satisfies all sections of the public.

Frequent reference had been made in public and private to depreciation of the morale with which the British nation went into the war. Three and a half years of war have entailed upon this country an expenditure of effort and sacrifice only now coming to be realized to the full, and the prospect of further and greater burdens to be carried were not the predominant cause of that change of morale, though they naturally contributed to the questioning widely prevalent as to the future prosecution of the war. Britain was prepared to wage war to the death, in Lloyd George's phrase, provided it was made clear that the unselfish ends it had in view at the outset had not been lost sight of or distorted.

War weariness played an infinitesimally smaller part in this decline of morale than the suspicion of reactionary influences. The enlightened democracy of Britain looked to America for guidance and assistance, and President Wilson's message has stamped with American approval the objects which the liberal opinion of this country placed in the forefront of its purpose in this war.

Such comment as the newspapers have yet had an opportunity of making indicates whole-hearted agreement with the President's message in its main lines. Here and there reservations are made respecting such points as "freedom of navigation alike in peace and in war," and "removal so far as possible of all economic barriers," but even in these instances it is recognized that the President's program of world peace is a structure based on the formation of a league of nations.

Misgivings regarding the limitation of armaments, in so far as that implies reduction of the British fleet, are corrected by the assurance that President Wilson does not contemplate admittance to the league of nations of a Germany still controlled by that military and imperialistic minority which has so far dominated Germany's whole policy and which rendered nugatory Britain's overtures to Germany for the restriction of naval armaments.

Sea Power in the Future.

In such a world as Wilson foresees, the reduction of armaments will not be merely a possibility, but a necessity which the democracies of the world will insist upon. On this point The Westminster Gazette says:

"Until we know whether at the end of this struggle we shall be living in a world dedicated to war and warlike preparations or in a world which is honestly seeking peace and civilized progress, we shall not reach permanent or acceptable settlement of the tangle of territorial questions which now confronts us. One kind of settlement belongs to an assumed peaceful world and quite another to a world preparing for the next war.

"Here is our fundamental difference with Prussian militarism. We have no reason as yet to believe that the ruling class in Germany are at all disposed to abandon the system which has made war the chief of their national industries, and until we have such reason we are bound in any settlement to regard insurance against their designs as vital to our safety.

"We can test this in the concrete case of President Wilson's own demand for absolute freedom of navigation alike in peace and in war, except as the seas may be closed in whole or in part by international action for the enforcement of international covenants. In the world to which the President looks forward, combined in an association of nations affording guarantees of political and territorial independence for all States, a world governed by open covenants, disarmed by mutual consent and freed as far as possible from economic barriers, this aspiration could have no terrors for us; but in the fighting world of today it would mean the disarming of sea power without any corresponding diminution of military power on land, to the great advantage of the militarist land powers and the great disadvantage of all others, America included.

"Let us be careful to understand, and to make the enemy understand, that Wilson's proposal depends on an association of nations, which alone gives us a guarantee of peace, and that it would involve the abolition of the submarine, as of all other forms of attack on commerce."

That section of opinion which disbelieves in the possibility of a regenerated world naturally maintains the view that Wilson is an idealist rather than practical, but their arguments are countered by the query, If the end of the war is not to make the world safe for democracy, what is the good of going on with it? Both camps are united for the prosecution of the struggle, and the roots of Wilson's speech strike deep into the aspirations and ideals of humanity.

As The Star says: "The supreme gift of Wilson to the world is the gift of articulating and interpreting its anguished vision of the future. We implore our politicians to emulate the spiritual insight and divination of the greatest American President since Abraham Lincoln."

Berlin Cuts Lloyd George Phrases.

The Daily Chronicle says this morning:

"It would be difficult to have framed a more moving or sympathetic appeal to the best instincts at work, whether among the Russian revolutionaries or the non-militarist element in the Central Empires. The world will wait anxiously to see what response in one case and in the other the appeal has received. Of course, in part the response must depend upon the extent to which the appeal is heard by those to whom it is addressed, and here one would do well to recognize the tremendous power which the German and Austrian censorships wield over their respective peoples.

"To take the most recent instance, the speech of Lloyd George was printed in German newspapers with the phrases in which he disowns any harsh intentions toward the German nation completely cut out—a circumstance which renders the German newspaper comment on the speech a good deal easier to understand. It will be interesting to see whether Wilson's phrases receive similar treatment. We believe they have not been immune from it in the past, but be that as it may, his utterance is on record and difficult as is the percolation of such news into Germany, even from neutral countries, in the long run it may exert some influence.

"The Russian censorship under the Bolshevist régime has been similarly exercised again Lloyd George, regarding whose speech even Trotzky himself seems to entertain some extraordinary misconceptions. It would be a tragedy if the intense and transparently sincere sympathy of Wilson encountered the same obstacles in Petrograd."

The Chronicle thinks that the single point on which British opinion may feel some disagreement with the President's view is in regard to his claim for "absolute freedom of navigation upon seas outside territorial waters alike in peace and war." It says on this point:

"It is true that this is qualified by the proviso that the league of nations may withdraw such freedom from international transgressors. It is true that it vetoes a German submarine blockade no less than a British surface-going blockade. It is true also that a world in which freedom is foreshadowed is one from which war would be largely eliminated. Nevertheless so long as any wars remain and the phrase 'in war' implies that it is difficult to see why naval action should be specially tabooed while the corresponding military action is not, but we should be inclined to take a broader ground and say that the present war has shown the futility of trying to limit war by any rules which the belligerents have a strong interest in breaking."

The Morning Post says that in so far as the conditions which President Wilson demands of Germany are concerned, the Allies are absolutely at one with America, but it adds:

"Before we can subscribe to the freedom of navigation upon the seas outside of territorial waters alike in peace and in war we must consider the matter in more detail. As matters stand, the English are justified in claiming that by them the true freedom of the seas was won and given freely to the world, nor can we understand what better guarantee is proposed.

"In regard to the proposed League of Nations, we again require information. In the meantime we may accept the idea as an aim for the future, with certain reservations. In any case, it is not a matter with which any country has time to deal at the moment. Under existing conditions the Allies recognize with immense gratitude that America, presented the greatest opportunity to strike for freedom ever given to any nation, is rising nobly to the height of the occasion."

Times Questions Sea Program.

The Times commenting on the Wilson address, says:

"The chief criticism which cautious thinkers among us are disposed to make upon it is that in its lofty flight to the ideal it seems not to take sufficient account of certain hard realities of the situation. We should all rejoice to see some such splendid vision as he beholds actually clothed with flesh and blood. We are all working toward it, according to our lights, but some of the proposals which Mr. Wilson puts forward almost appear to assume that the reign of righteousness upon earth is already within our reach.

"They are admirably adapted to such a system of international right as they presuppose, but they do presuppose what is still very far from accomplishment, and there is a measure of risk that by some enthusiasts this limiting condition may not be understood. Mr. Wilson, for example, desires to establish absolute freedom of the seas in peace and war, except in the event of international action for the enforcement of international covenants. The fulfillment of that desire would be a natural corollary to the creation of such a general association of nations as he contemplates. Meanwhile, the Allies constitute the nucleus of such an association, and we must assume that there is nothing in the President's doctrine to prevent naval States like America and ourselves from resisting such gross breaches of international right as we are now resisting in Belgium."

The Times concludes by saying that the President's address is "a frank and simple announcement of the largest democratic faith, and relization of this faith, as all America sees it, is wholly dependent upon an unmistakable victory for the Allies."

Accepts Outlook for Free Seas.

The Daily News says:

"We can take exception neither to Mr. Wilson's reference to the question of freedom of the seas nor to the prominence he gives it. The phrase has been invested with wholly imaginary terrors and the outcry against its use by Lord Lansdowne and others was well calculated to encourage the belief in Germany that this country refused to entertain proposals that might involve some limitation of its mastery of the sea.

"Apart from the fact that the submarine has altered the whole perspective of naval warfare, it is time to recognize that once the principle of a league of nations is accepted such terms as freedom of the seas become meaningless. The seas are free in peace time, as it is. They will be no less free under a league of nations. The blockade is a weapon of war today. It will be a weapon of war under the league of nations, but the weapon then will be used by the league as a whole against some single recalcitrant power, and for that power and for that power alone will free commerce on the sea be restricted.

"So far as there is anything here or in the demand for universal reduction of armaments that will limit the striking power of the British navy, it will be accepted with that loyalty to agreed principles that must form the root and basis of an international society."

Welcome Accord with Premier.

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 10.—Comment on President Wilson's address on war aims holds first place in the London papers, which welcome it as identical in general meaning with Premier Lloyd George's recent speech to the British Labor Conference. The general view expressed is that it is one of the President's greatest state papers, and embraces a program which can leave no doubt in the German mind of the principles for which America is marshaling her vast resources in war.

Some of the papers say that the Germans are only shamming and that their successes in arms have rekindled their old ambition for the domination of Europe. The question is being asked everywhere: "Will the censorship permit all the German people to read President Wilson's message?"

It is not expected that in the present chaos of Russia the President's words can reach the ears of all the Russian people.

Several of the evening papers in their comments observe that the President deals more sympathetically with the Bolsheviki than did the Premier, but it is pointed out that America has not suffered from the Russian collapse as the western allies have.

Under the heading, "The Parallel Offensive—a Second Blow," the Evening Standard heralds the President's address as "another notable contribution to the drumfire on the enemy's moral position." It hopes that no opportunity will be lost in future "to rain blows on the system whose creed, in Mr. Wilson's words, is imperial domination."

This paper says that the surrender of the German ruling class may be nearer than some think; therefore the Allies must continue to drive home to the German people the fact "that their sufferings will continue in ever-increasing severity until the Kaiser accepts the principle of right above might."

Lord Northcliffe's Evening News, while of the opinion that President Wilson's declarations regarding the removal of economic barriers and the freedom of the seas need further elucidation, indorses enthusiastically his attitude toward Russia. Summing up, the paper says:

"President Wilson is for a free world on lines indorsed by all the Entente Allies, but it means the surrender by Germany of all her ambitions, and she will need to be in a very chastened mood before she accepts."

The Pall Mall Gazette says President Wilson's message constitutes an effective model of frank and open diplomacy, to which he accords first place in his catalogue of things requisite for the world's peace. It remarks that the strongest German microscope will be taxed to find evidence of discord between his words and those of Premier Lloyd George.

occasions of a lack of intention to destroy the entity of the German people probably will be repeated whenever occasion arises.

From now on it may be expected that every declaration from any authoritative source in Germany or Austria as to the willingness of the Central Powers to enter into peace negotiations will be met by a statement from some authoritative source among the allied Governments. The Allies will continue to point out, it is believed, that they are insistent upon respect for the rights of small States, the restoration of self-government to peoples who are separated by race and ideals from those who govern them, the reduction of armaments, and the other general principles to which the Allies have subscribed, and intend to fight on until these objects have been achieved. There is a feeling in certain influential quarters that the reiteration of these sentiments will have their influence in Germany in time.

How far off that time is nobody here is willing to hazard a guess. Some think it is not far distant, but the greater number are convinced that the war must continue for a considerable period before the beginnings of peace are in sight.

Purposes of the Address.

Washington, diplomatic and administrative, discussed with interest today the President's declaration of war aims. There was a rather general opinion as to what he expected to accomplish by his outline of the conditions for which the Allies would continue to fight, which may be summarized as follows:

1. To assure Russia of the sympathy and support of America, amending a possibly injurious impression which may have been gained by Russians from Premier Lloyd George's references to that country, and to promise Russia, even though she concludes a separate peace with the enemy, the support of the United States in the final peace and in the rehabilitation of the nation.

2. To subscribe, informally, but not the less determinedly, to the treaty of London, which engaged the individual allied powers not to conclude a separate peace, thus removing all possibility of doubt of the intention of the United States to continue in the war until the objects for which this country and its associates are fighting are attained.

3. To inform the German people and the peoples of Austria-Hungary of the minimum and maximum peace terms of the United States, so that they may realize the basis upon which peace can be obtained by them and be able to assess both the justice of their enemies' cause and the imperialistic designs of their own Governments.

4. To remove any apprehension in France, Italy, and other allied countries respecting the attitude of the United States toward their respective claims, France to Alsace-Lorraine, Italy to Italia Irredenta, &c., the doubt concerning the position of America on these questions having been employed by the German Government in an effort to create disunion among the Allies themselves and between the United States and the Allies.

5. To consolidate opinion in the United States, permitting the people to obtain a complete knowledge of the ends for which the country is at war, so that all discussions may give way to effort, and that every soldier may realize not only the broad principles, but the very application of those principles for which he is or may be called upon to fight.

Puzzle Over Word "Should."

There was some questioning among Congressmen of the precise meaning of President Wilson's reference to Alsace-Lorraine, when he said the wrong done to France in 1871 "should be righted," there being an omission of the word "must," which the President employed in regard to the evacuation and restoration of Belgium. But in diplomatic circles this was held to be a distinction without a difference, and other passages in the President's address were cited to sustain this view. "All French territory should be freed and the invaded portions restored," "a readjustment of the frontiers of Italy should be effected," "Rumania, Serbia, and Montenegro should be evacuated, occupied territory restored," "an independent Polish State should be erected," the President said in speaking of other specific cases. Officials declined to comment upon or to interpret President Wilson's statement concerning Alsace-Lorraine, which had been of particular interest in connection with the qualifying statement of Lloyd George, which pledged England to the principle of the "reconsideration" of the annexation of the two French provinces by Prussia. The general opinion here, however, is that President Wilson used the word "should" in a legal sense, the courts having construed the word as appearing in statutes to mean "must."

French officials and diplomats here accepted the President's declaration regarding France and Alsace-Lorraine as a matter of course. A high French authority said:

"Foreign Minister von Kuehlmann, early in November, in an address to the Reichstag, referred to Alsace-Lorraine as the shield and the symbol of German unity, and added that Alsace-Lorraine was the only obstacle to peace. His object was to create disunion between England and France and between the United States and the Allies. My impression is that, instead of creating disunion, he precipitated the declarations of Premier Lloyd George and President Wilson. Lloyd George undoubtedly had von Kuehlmann's assertion in mind when he made his declaration, and probably President Wilson also.

"Alsace-Lorraine has now become a symbol of the unity of the Allies and America. It will become more and more so, and if public opinion wants a touchstone with which to test the moral revolution in Germany, there is no better one than the question of Alsace-Lorraine. It is a moral, fundamentally, not a political question, a question of simple principle, involving the very loftiest moral issues of this war."

Everywhere it was remarked that President Wilson employed the term "restoration" for "indemnity," but State Department officials, while declining to comment upon the President's address, asserted that where it followed the word "evacuation," restoration might legitimately be construed to have the meaning of reparation. This application of the principle of indemnity, limiting it to restoration of occupied territories, is expected to have no critics in Russia.

"Russia," it was said, "has been told that there is no difference between her declared peace terms and those of the United States. The President has declared America's aims and they are not different from Russia's."

WILSON PLEASES ARGENTINA.

BUENOS AIRES, Jan. 9.—The Argentine papers comment at length on President Wilson's address before Congress. La Epoca says:

"It is admirable, clear, and convincing, breathing sincerity, justice, and fraternity toward humanity—even toward enemies. It is only necessary to compare this message with that of Count Czernin and the German proposals to see on which side are truth, loyalty, and justice."

La Nacion says that President Wilson's utterances indicate a long duration of the war, as he proposes peace principles which Germany will not accept as long as she can fight.

"It is especially significant," adds the paper, "as showing that the United States intends to intervene directly in the settlement of each and every European problem presented by the war and the future peace, even though these are not necessarily universal problems."

The Argentine newspapers are almost unanimous in praising the message, as removing doubts as to the cause of the war and because it puts the situation plainly up to Germany.

VIENNA VIEW CALMER.

A "Step Forward" Seen in Lloyd George's War Aims Speech.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 9.—A Vienna dispatch to the Cologne Gazette represents Monday's editions of the newspapers of the Austrian capital as commenting on Lloyd George's speech in a rather different vein from the official agency.

While remarking that the papers in question are pacifist, the Gazette's correspondent says that the whole tone of Lloyd George's speech seems to be viewed as more conciliatory than his previous utterances.

The Vienna newspapers regard the absence of "rude personal attacks" as a step forward, and think they perceive a certain approach to the viewpoint of the Central Powers, particularly in the use of equivocal terms in dealing with the most important questions. At the same time they are doubtful whether the speech is fitted to serve as the foundation for immediate negotiations, saying that although it is less rude, the essence of the old war aims is in nowise altered.

Assembly Indorses Wilson.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Jan. 9.—The Assembly tonight adopted a resolution indorsing the message President Wilson delivered before Congress yesterday setting forth the war aims of the United States.

BERLIN SURPRISED OVER HENDERSON

which has governed the world at all periods of its history."

Vorwaerts Rebukes Henderson.

Vorwärts, the Socialist organ, commenting on Lloyd George's speech, is more interested in Henderson's attitude than in the actual speech, saying that the Premier chose his words all the more carefully because he was talking to the labor party. The paper is surprised and hurt by Henderson's approval of the speech, saying that the German workingmen could hitherto indorse Henderson, but since his latest utterance it is uncertain how much further he will go. It argues that Lloyd George's speech, which was meant to please the labor party, ought to have been able to obtain partial approval from the German labor party, at least on a question such as international organization.

The paper refuses to recognize the Alsace-Lorraine question, saying that if it was wrong for Social Democrats to support the annexation of these States by might it would be a worse wrong to disannex them by might. It remarks on Henderson's statement regarding the destruction of militarism everywhere, asserting that the English Labor Party is adopting a cloak of phrases which covers an English imperialist peace. Germany is the only country, says Vorwärts, where annexationism openly parades the streets. It concludes pessimistically:

"Here was ground on which the labor of all countries should have met to complete the work which could not be finished with the sword or with diplomacy. The resolutions drawn up by the German Social Democratic Party on Sunday could attain world fame if they were only recognized by Russia, England, France and Italy."

Charges Delusion of Labor.

The Mittags Zeitung, commenting on Lloyd George's speech, says:

"It is a mistake to believe that Lloyd George gave way to the pressure of the political pacifists. He had never considered them important enough, but he had too much statesmanlike discernment not to know that in an industrial country during an industrial war the technical and mechanical bases of which are umistakable, what a brusque threat by millions of workers meant. Instead, he humors them and makes them his allies.

"Therefore Lloyd George's speech must not be taken as the repeatedly announced solemn reply of the Entente to Brest-Litovsk, though the latter may now fail to appear or perhaps only individual answers by other Entente members may be forthcoming. The principal purpose of his peace program was simply to comply at least formally with the demands of the workers as to war policy and by pleasingly polished phraseology to persuade them that the contrast between his and their views disappeared. He intended to delude the workers and, having silenced them, to chain them anew to the chariot of war.

"This seemingly new melody was meant for the benefit of English workers, not for us. Lloyd George will not take us to be so stupid, but he reckons with the ignorance of the English workers as to all European problems, while at the same time he knows that the English laborer is not without sympathy for a certain measure of well-masked colonial imperialism which he secretly approves. We, however, know that only the key, but not the melody, is changed; that Lloyd George is attempting nothing less than to mask the whole aims of imperialism with the phraseology of the pacifists.

"As a practical politician, Lloyd George asks more than he really expects. His peace aims appear not on an equal footing, but are arranged in first, second, third, and fourth classes, and that is done from an exclusively British point of view. That explains the vague way in which he speaks of the 'reconsideration' of the Alsace-Lorraine question. The Labor Conference asked only for a plebiscite, and the average Englishman doesn't trouble even about that. That explains why the demands of Italy and Rumania are partly dropped, and the reuniting of the Serbs is not even mentioned.

"But must we conclude from that that Lloyd George is planning to make peace at the cost of his allies? Surely Paris and Rome will be notified that these peace aims are intended only for English workers and that at the conference table England will prove a true confederate.

"Like Carson, Lloyd George demands the evacuation of occupied territory before he will talk peace, and demands that we return everything, while he will not give us anything—not even the smallest colony—not announcing that he will sell us any raw product whatever. But he will generously permit us to retain 'our grand position in the world.' That grand position would resemble very much one made for us by Kant and Beethoven; but we cannot live on grandeur.

"Well, there is one good thing, and that is that peace will not come until after Lloyd George has gone."

Finds Little Change of Purpose.

The Cologne Volkszeitung, Catholic annexationist, says:

"Lloyd George does not usually appeal to the reason but to the feelings and instinct. He can and does achieve positive work, as we, his enemies, must acknowledge, but he lacks political farsightedness and recognition of the great causal connections.

"Hence, it is somewhat surprising to read his latest speech, in which he speaks as a diplomat. We believe the explanation lies in his admission of conversations with Asquith and Grey. He has consulted Mr. Sibyl and obtained illumination. Hence we will not dispute the importance which he himself attaches to his speech.

"The kernel of the whole speech clearly lies in Lloyd George's reference to Britain's willingness to discuss with her allies changes of program consequent upon changed circumstances, such as those in Russia. This means that England is the guarantor of all the promises made in secret treaties between various members of the robber band.

"Naturally, conclusions to be drawn from this statement may be various. Is England's object in declaring her readiness to revise war aims tactical or positive? Is it merely a concession to the Lansdowne group and to the opposition to secret treaties? Is it intended to restore domestic unity or to free England of the charge of prolonging the war endlessly? Is Lloyd George perhaps seeking reinsurance in the event that things go wrong, or does England earnestly desire to suggest revision of war aims to her allies?"

The paper then argues that the speech is proof of the difficulties of the Allies in making their desires accord with their power of accomplishment, and says that the terms as laid dow are in effect the old objectives revived.

"It is simply," says the Volkszeitung, "a deliberate play upon words calculated to deceive."

The paper then enumerates Lloyd George's terms and argues that they spell ruin for Germany as well as Austria, and that his phrase about self-determination is made only to apply to the Central Powers, not to countries in the power of the Allies.

"Unless and until the Entente subject their war aims to thorough reconsideration," says the Volkszeitung, "every attempt of enemy statesmen to convince us of the honorable and upright nature of their intentions will be labor lost. We shall watch with interest to see whether Lloyd George makes serious efforts to improve himself and fellow Landsdowne's footsteps."

In a subjoined paragraph the paper discusses Lloyd George's reference to Alsace-Lorraine. The original text of the speech as cabled to Germany apparently used the word "restoration" instead of "reconsideration" in this connection. "Such finesse carries no great weight," the paper says. "It matters less what he thinks on this point than what the French desire."

Nevertheless the Volkszeitung thinks it is worth while to call attention to this shading of language because of the importance apparently attached to it by the London press. "May their minds be easy," it says. "We cherish no illusions."

Yielding to Military Party.

The attitude of the Reichstag majority toward the Brest-Litovsk "incident" is still not defined. There has been much talk in the press of the formation of a new Reichstag bloc and the rejection of the July 19 resolutions by the majority, but no definite declaration has been made. The Social Democrats have been holding long conferences, and have given repeated assurances that their policy is adherence to the July resolution and self-determination of nations, and have protested energetically against the annexationist policy.

There is undoubtedly a gradual surrendering to the military party on all sides, the military party being now openly identified with the annexationists. The Reichstag has apparently once more proved its impotence by being incapable of any opposition to this current. The National Liberals have declared that in the matter of frontier rectifications in the east and west the military must have the deciding word. The Lokal-Anzeiger talks of a rapprochement of the Centrists, National Liberals, and Independent Conservatives. The Conservative Deutsche Tageszeitung says that the Brest-Litovsk incident changes the political situation, and that the parties must finally shake off "the dangerous and aimless 19th of July resolution."

Political differences undoubtedly have been exaggerated by the annexationist party, which hopes to strengthen its position by this means and the Brest-Litovsk fiasco.

The resolution of July 19 referred to in the above dispatch set forth that the Reichstag "labors for peace and a mutual understanding and lasting reconciliation among the nations," adding that "forced acquisitions of territory and political, economic, and financial violations are incompatible with such a peace."

German Pride Is Stung.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

AMSTERDAM, Jan. 9.—(Dispatch to The London Times.)—Lloyd George's speech evidently came as a shock to Germans, among whom the illusion had recently been assiduously fostered that the entente was on the verge of breaking up.

Count von Hertling's recent assertion that Germany would not negotiate with Lloyd George was regarded in many German quarters as equivalent to giving him notice to quit. Germans find it difficulty, if not impossible, to realize that Lloyd George represents the whole British nation and speaks also for all the Allies. They call him the inciter to war, adding "but every Englishman and Frenchman is naturally much more sensible."

Having been assured for three and one-half years that Germany is victor, they cannot now understand how Lloyd George can have the audacity to formulate war aims inconsistent with this conception. This is all the more disappointing to Germans since the Russian negotiations were regarded as the beginning of the liquidation of the war. So far as my information goes there is not the slightest reason to suppose that the German Government has abandoned any of its ambitions. Pan Germans like Admiral Von Tirpitz and the Fatherland Party are still in the ascendant, impenitent and resolved to retain everything they hold, while expressing surprise at their own moderation. Lloyd George's speech, therefore, is likely to have a most salutary effect, especially as it receives the support of the British labor representatives as well as the entente governments.

STOCKHOLM LEADERS GREET BRITISH LABOR

Sending Huysmanns to Enlist It in the World Working-Class Revolution.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 9.—At a meeting of the Organizing Committee of the Stockholm Conference, the following resolution was unanimously passed:

"The Russian, Swedish, and Norwegian members of the Organising Committee of the Stockholm Conference send to the organised workers of Great Britain their brotherly greetings.

"We were glad to receive the invitation to the conference at Nottingham, and we are sending our Secretary, Camille Huysmanns, to lay down there the views of the organizers of the Stockholm Conference, these having during several months been in contact with Socialist parties all over the world and being thus able to endeavor to express the aspirations of the working class as a whole.

"The organizers of the Stockholm Conference have a right to claim now that events have confirmed the view of the situation which they have taken since May, 1917. The Stockholm movement took shape and was brought about because of the Russian revolution, but it was in reality the transformation into action of the decisions taken at the international congresses at Stuttgart in 1907 and at Copenhagen in 1910, which decisions at the time were supported even by British workers.

"Its aim was and is to re-establish the International, which by bringing about a general agreement on a democratic program would create lasting peace in Europe. The Stockholm Conference is the idea of the working class itself. It never was, is not, and never will be the vehicle of any Government. It carries on its own aims, which at the same time are the objects of the whole of humanity.

"From the very beginning Stockholm understood that the Russian revolution, which is a revolution for the whole world, could not conclude its work without very severe internal conflicts if it could not within a short time secure an honorable peace. The summoning of the International at Stockholm would have brought to the Russian working class the unity and power which it needed to escape the dangers of separate action and to carry on the fight for a general peace.

"This policy, however, was not understood. The courage of Russia was crushed, and the hope of solution by summoning the International to Stockholm vanished. Thereby Russia was put in extremities. The result of the policy of refusing passports now appears in the dangers which a separate peace must cause and in the spectacle of reaction strengthened, lifting its head in Germany and Austria, while on the west front such a state of balance is effected that the war perhaps will last two or three weary years more before one of the belligerents can hope to have the decisive predominance. This would mean the sacrifice of millions of human lives and hundreds of billions in money.

"Shall the situation be saved? Can the probability of a separate peace be turned into the prospect of a general peace? The possibility of this is to be found in the tactics you have adopted. You have fixed your war aims; you will appeal to the Socialists in the allied countries to agree to these. Thereafter you will propose that your solution of the question shall be the program of the International. Thus you must come to a general conference which will be able to fill this historic task under the presumption that it will not allow the development of events to pass out of its control."

ALSACE DECLARATION CHEERS THE FRENCH

Temps Applauds Wilson for Presenting the Problem as a General Peace Condition.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Only a summary of President Wilson's address to Congress had reached Paris, by way of London up to noon today.

The Temps says it is awaiting the arrival of the full text of the Wilson declarations before commenting on his peace program as a whole. Meanwhile it says of the passage in the address dealing with Alsace-Lorraine:

"It is the first time the President of the United States has declared himself on the Alsace-Lorraine question. We had no doubts as to his sentiments, but we are profoundly glad that he has expressed them. We thank him also for placing the problem on its true ground, in presenting the restitution of Alsace-Lorraine as a necessary condition for a general peace and not merely as a special claim of the French people."

La Liberté says that "a new page had been added to the so many noble and generous pages from the President's pen," and then analyses the address briefly. The paper says the address will show that Germany is full of annexation folly and will refuse to subscribe to it, as even the advanced Social Democrats refuse reparation for the inequity which the Frankfort treaty consecrated.

NEW CABINET CRISIS TALKED OF IN GERMANY

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—The Matin will publish tomorrow the following special dispatch from its Zurich correspondent:

"The German party chiefs have again been convened in special session at the home of Chancellor von Hertling. The National Zeitung affirms that the parties of the majority have somewhat modified their attitude and considered the advisability of not recognizing further the political movements of Dr. von Kuehlmann at Brest-Litovsk.

"This action has resulted in diminishing the confidence in the Foreign Minister which the Reichstag has shown up to now, and in some quarters there is open talk of a new governmental crisis."

GERMAN MIND MUST CHANGE, SAYS TAFT

Sees No Peace Till Masses of German People Give Up Hope for Military Domination.

Ex-President Taft told 2,000 persons at the Tompkins Avenue Congregational Church in Brooklyn last night that he believed peace would not be restored until a change of mind had been brought about among the masses of the German people.

"This great nation has a greater objective in the war than revenge for the murder of innocent American citizens," he said. "That objective is the absolute necessity for ending the military domination of Germany if we are to have peace in the world. We cannot do that unless we work a psychological change in the German people.

"The German people are the subjects of their history. They gained great victories in former wars and the success of German arms completely turned the heads of the German people. Their system of national efficiency known as kultur—described by some learned men as a species of national insanity—gradually grew up in German literature. National morality was eliminated. Their doctrine is that the only State sin is weakness and that State virtues lie in force and power."

The speaker told of the loyalty and good citizenship of the descendants of the Germans who came to the United States under Carl Schurz and other leaders in search of liberty and freedom, and said he believed they were loyal to the "sacred cause of the Allies." He compared their ideals to the militaristic doctrines gradually grafted upon the German people by the "Potsdam crowd" and said that the German people, "tractable as individuals, differed in the mass, under cruel military leaders, as the spirit of an individual differs from the fury of the mob."

INDICTED MILK MEN PLEAD NOT GUILTY

BEGIN NEW SUGAR INQUIRY

Food Board Hears of Illegal Traffic in Product Between New Orleans and New York.

Roswell D. Cooper, President of the Dairymen's League, and four other officers who were indicted Monday on charges of violating the anti-trust law of the State by an alleged conspiracy to fix an arbitrary price for the milk supply of New York City, surrendered at the District Attorney's office yesterday. Others surrendering besides Mr. Cooper were Frederick H. Thompson of Holland Patent, N. Y., Vice President of the league; Louis M. Hardin of Sussex, N. J., Treasurer; Albert Manning of Otisville, N. Y., Secretary, and Jiohn E. Miller of Thompson, Penn., a member of the Executive Committee. Two others have been indicted, and they are expected to surrender in a few days. When the accused men were arraigned before Judge Wadhams in Special Sessions they pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $1,000 each, which was furnished by a surety company.

District Attorney Swann said that the evidence he had against the league warranted him in asking for trial as quickly as possible. The prosecutor asserted that the fact that the Federal Committee had approved a selling price for the league in advance of the price on which the indictments were found would be no bar to action in the State courts. Mr. Swann declared that the league managers had deliberately broken an agreement made to him to provide cheaper milk for the poor of the city, and while this agreement was pending had obtained Federal approval for increasing the price of the product. This agreement, Mr. Swann said, provided for retailing milk here at 10 cents a quart, and arrangements were under way for its distribution through co-operating grocers, dealers, and stores when the producers obtained permission from Washington to raise the price.

It was said that the indictments were based on a selling price of $3.10 a hundred pounds of milk, or at the approximate rate of 7 cents a quart. The Federal Committee allowed the producers to sell at $3.52 a hundred pounds for January.

The Federal Food Board yesterday began an investigation of a report that sugar was being shipped from New Orleans to New York by a route of which the International Sugar Committee and the United States Food Administration had no knowledge. According to the information received by the Food Board, the sugar is being hoarded here by men not connected with the retail or wholesale grocery business, who make a practice of distributing it quietly to members of the retail trade and private consumers at excessive prices. These distributions are said to include clothing merchants, booksellers, and small shopkeepers.

P. A. Johann, head of the Complaint Bureau of the Federal Food Board, examined witnesses regarding this report yesterday. He said their statements purported to show that an illegal traffic in sugar was being conducted between New Orleans and New York. As the result of their testimony, he sent out investigators to interview an east side bookseller who is alleged to have obtained possession of several thousand pounds of sugar through agencies other than the International Sugar Committee, which alone has the authority of the Food Administration to distribute sugar at the present time.

Mr. Johann said the evidence that he had at hand directly bore out the statements made before the Food Board yesterday at the hearing against Michael Rosenberg of 161 Ludlow Street, accused of selling sugar at an excessive price. Rosenberg informed the board that he received five barrels of sugar from an agent who said he got it direct from New Orleans. Rosenberg said he paid 13 cents a pound for sugar and sold it at 14 cents per pound. Rosenberg admitted that his prices did not conform with the Food Administration prices.

The Executive Committee of the Food Council adopted a resolution yesterday urging the Board of Aldermen to grant to the new Commissioner of Public Markets, Jonathan P. Day, funds by which he will be enabled to buy and sell food and fuel for the city in the present emergency. Dr. Day yesterday obtained possession of 600 crates of Spanish onions, which were refused by consignees because they were frozen. Some of the onions were found to be edible and were turned over to settlement centres in the poor districts of the city to be sold at a cent a pound.

Two American steamships arrived yesterday from Cuba, bringing 15,297,-750 pounds of raw sugar. The first steamship brought 25,000 bags of sugar from the western part of Cuba, and the second vessel had 22,070 bags from the eastern section of Cuba.

Earl D. Babst, President of the American Sugar Refining Company, in a statement issued last night, said it was not the aim of his company to put the brokers in refined sugar out of business out of selfish motives. "The announcement that this company would deal direct with its customers," said Mr. Babst, "has had the widespread approval of the trade. We have as yet to receive a single letter of protest from a customer or consumer. The efforts of myself and my associates have been directed against speculation, manipulation, hoarding and wasteful practices in the sugar business. We have sold our sugars at a lower average price than any of our competitors. We have no quarrel with the broker personally. We regard the system of brokerage as nonessential. It is wholly incompetent to provide an equitable distribution of sugar."

In dealing directly with its own customers, the company, Mr. Babst said, was carrying out the policy of President Wilson to keep all food commodities moving in as direct a line and with as little delay as practicable to the consumer.

INCREASED RATES FOR SOME ROADS

not an implied promise to the people that Government operation or ownership would continue indefinitely. Mr. Anderson admitted this might be true. But, he declared, to create a situation where a bill must pass, say a year after the war closed, returning the roads to their owners or failing to return them, would open an unheard-of opportunity for stock market manipulators and speculators.

"We have taken over," said Mr. Anderson, "the largest business ever assumed by any Government. We have taken a larger property than when we annexed the Philippines. We are operating the roads with an entire disregard for private competitive rights. If we were to turn back the roads after the war is finished, with traffic conditions and habits confused and disarranged, it would mean injustice to many roads and destruction to some. It would mean chaos to the holders of securities."

"This is a war measure; what is the difficulty of setting a definite date for its automatic repeal?" asked Representative Mantague.

"In the first place," answered Mr. Anderson, "this Congress cannot bind the course of future Congresses. Admitted that we need some legislation, we cannot fix the date when any Congress shall desire to effect that legislation. Then, in my opinion, the Congress will not want to have a stop-watch held on it while it deliberates such great questions."

Government ownership members of the committee asked questions which plainly showed their intention of using Government operation as an argument for further control. Although denying that he was an ownership advocate, Mr. Anderson made these two answers to separate questions:

"Oh, of course, the fact that the Government was forced to take railroads over in the stress of war will be used as an argument, and a rightful argument, by those who favor national control permanently.

"Certainly the old status ought never to be re-established."

He was referring in his last answer to the control of property by what he called irresponsible directorates. It was such as they, he said, who had wrecked the New Haven. Never again, he predicted, would investors put their money into railroad enterprises in a large way unless the Government in some way protected them against such boards.

Mr. Anderson submitted an amendment to the Administration bill to determine depreciation and maintenance "by the respective average rates charged on such classes of property during the three years ended June 30, 1917."

President Wilson's action in taking over the railroads was indorsed by Julius Kruttschnitt of the Southern Pacific before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee. The railroads, he said, were going to be "good soldiers" and continue to work loyally.

"We consider," he said, "that what has been done has been done because it was the opinion of the Commander in Chief, the President, as necessary, and we are going to work as loyally as in the past. We think the President must have had good reasons for his action and we are going to support his policies to the best of our ability.

"I think the railroads could have done more by voluntary agreement with their own organization if there had been greater Government support in many directions. There is certain assistance, however, that probably could not have been given under private ownership. All the railroads, however, have accepted the situation, and we have no criticism to make."

REQUESTS STEEL TRADE TO SPECIFY ITS NEEDS

A. H. Smith Asks Head of United States Corporation to Co-operate with the Railroads.

An important step in accommodating the capacity of the railroads to the war and business needs of the nation was taken yesterday when A. H. Smith, Assistant Director General of Railroads, asked James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, to effect an organization which would be able to report from day to day during the war on the needs of the steel and munitions industry, and to make recommendations as to the prior service the railroads should render.

The steel traffic situation is a complicated one, involving the movement of ore by lake boats and by rail, the supply of coal, the hauling of steel in the making from one point to another, the assembling of the different parts of munitions, and the transport of the finished product. Along with food and fuel, the transport of steel and its munitions products forms the most important job for the railroads. The needs of the shipyards, of the French railroads, of the army of the United States, and the fighting forces of the Allies must be coordinated in such a way, Mr. Smith and Director General McAdoo believe, that there will not again during the war be stored at Atlantic ports, clogging transportation, 500,000 tons of steel antiquated by the rapid development of modern warfare. Mr. Smith, in the following telegram to Mr. Farrell yesterday, called on him for the aid of the steel men in keeping the transportation machine greased:

Office of Assistant to the Director General of Railroads, Room 3627 Grand Central Terminal.

New York, Jan. 9, 1918.

J. A. Farrell, President United States Steel Corporation, New York, N. Y.:

Will you take up with the steel industries the organizing of such committee or committees as will gather information and furnish me with reliable statistics from day to day or two or three times a week as to what the situation is as concrete as possible at all mills and furnaces in all districts of the eeastern territory so that we can convey it to the railroads for coordinated effort to serve what, in their opinion, is most essential? If the information to be furnished us can be put in order, as to what is most crucial it would be helpful, assuming that the last on the list is the least essential. Please answer.

A. H. SMITH.

Sends Report to Mr. McAdoo.

Mr. Smith then sent the following report to Mr. McAdoo of his request to Mr. Farrell:

W. G. McAdoo, Director General of Railroads, Washington, D. C.:

I have asked the steel industries to join in an organization that will designate one man who will speak to us for all of them and who will gather reliable information as to the steel manufacturing situation throughout the Eastern territory and to give us in a concrete form from day to day, or periodically, what the situation is and their recommendation as to what is least required so that the railroads can do the most possible for them in the interests of what is required.

A. H. SMITH.

Mr. Smith's daily report to Mr. McAdoo yesterday showed that the freight situation at Eastern ports was not improving. While westbound freight was cleared up some, the eastbound freight increased by more than 10,000 cars in twenty-four hours. Yesterday's report gave these figures for freight above normal:

	Eastbound.	Westbound.	Empties.
Pennsylvania	22,200	550	400
Erie	5,657	390	...
N. Y. Central	12,336	900	1,816
Balt. & Ohio	10,936	...	...
Other roads	21,200	250	200
Total	72,329	2,090	1,916

This emphasizes the need for strenuous efforts next week, named by Director General McAdoo as "Freight Moving Week," to clear up the situation at Atlantic ports. A special suite of seven offices has been opened at the Grand Central Terminal, and a staff of twenty-five men put to work to assist Mr. Smith. They were busy yesterday on plans for the freight-clearing week. Orders were issued to all yards and requests sent to all consignees who have freight at Atlantic terminals, to work night and day next week to bring the freight situation as near normal as possible.

The movement of freight since the Government took hold of the railroads augurs that much work will have to be done next week to attain the desired result. It also indicates that the increased demurrage charges Mr. McAdoo has ordered to be imposed for failure to unload freight promptly will need to be invoked.

Mr. Smith reported to Mr. McAdoo yesterday that, despite the cold weather Monday in the Chicago district, there was a good movement of stock eastbound from Chicago. He reported that the prospects are for extreme cold weather in the Chicago territory.

Big Reduction in Train Service.

The New York Central Railroad announced yesterday curtailments of passenger train service, which brought the reduction in the service of the system up to a total of 5,000,000 passenger miles a year.

A statement issued yesterday from the offices of the New York Central announced further curtailment of train service. Of interest to New York commuters are the following reductions in suburban service:

No. 471, Grand Central Terminal and Mount Vernon; No. 1,039, Grand Central Terminal and North White Plains; No. 473, Grand Central Terminal and Mount Vernon; No. 477, Grand Central Terminal and Mount Vernon; No. 445, Mount Vernon and North White Plains; No. 449, Mount Vernon and North White Plains; No. 1,053, Grand Central Terminal and North White Plains; No. 414, North White Plains and Mount Vernon; No. 418, North White Plains and Mount Vernon; No. 1,030, North White Plains and Grand Central Terminal; No. 488, Mount Vernon and Grand Central Terminal; No. 1,036, North White Plains and Grand Central Terminal; No. 490, Mount Vernon and Grand Central Terminal; No. 492, Mount Vernon and Grand Central Terminal; No. 1,058, North White Plains and Grand Central Terminal; No. 496, Mount Vernon and Grand Central Terminal, and No. 498, Mount Vernon and Grand Central Terminal. These trains being taken off means a reduction in service of 7,061 train miles.

Following its elimination of eighty-two trains last Sunday, the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad announced yesterday that on next Sunday, Jan. 13, further changes would be made in its schedules. The changes mostly affect local trains, although a number of the more important trains will have their schedules rearranged.

PAY OUR FIGHTERS $100,000,000 A MONTH

Disbursement to 300,000 Officers and Men of Navy Alone Totals $17,000,000.

TWO PAY DAYS A MONTH

Each Man Gets Cash or Check as He Chooses — Machinery Simplifies Accounting.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The payroll of the fighting forces of the United States is now nearly $100,000,000 a month. This sum includes pay of officers and enlisted men in the army and navy serving both in this country and abroad, family allotments and compensation for certain services rendered, but does not take into account family allowances paid by the Government toward the support of families of enlisted men under specified conditions, nor does it include any of the special compensatory features of the Military and Naval Insurance act.

Details of the pay received by soldiers and sailors and of the operation of the War Risk Insurance Bureau have been compiled by the several departments for the information of the public. Those relating to the navy were made public tonight by the Committee on Public Information. The others will be made public later and separately.

The committee's statement shows that in December approximately $17,000,000 was disbursed as monthly compensation for the services of some 300,000 officers and men who constitute the uniformed force of the navy. This did not include any amounts that might have been paid under the War Risk act as family allowances or other compensation provided for by that law.

The system of pay in the navy is complicated by a large number of ranks and ratings, as well as financial rewards for special merit and service and allowances made for quarters for officers serving on shore duty. The salaries range from the $32.60 a month paid mess attendants and apprentice seamen to the $833 a month paid to an Admiral commanding a fleet. Added to the officers' regular pay is graduated compensation for length of service and 10 per cent. additional for duty beyond the continent limits of the United States.

Payments to officers and enlisted men are made twice each month, to officers on the 15th and last days and to enlisted men on the 5th and 20th. It is optional with each man whether his payment is in cash or by check on the Treasurer of the United States. On foreign stations payments are made in the currency of the country the ship is visiting at the time of payment, the money being issued and charged at its official, or custom house, equivalent in United States currency.

Family allotments of men of the navy are paid by the Navy Disbursing Officer, calling for the writing of some 100,000 checks per month, payable to relatives in all parts of the country. Because of the multiplicity of detail attached to this feature of pay a system of automatic accounting by means of stamping machines has been devised, and a few Government clerks now transact this business.

The law demands that there be on all Government checks the actual handwriting of an official, so all of these checks have to be signed by an employe in the Disbursing Officer's Department. For this an electric duplicating pen is used, the officer putting a fountain pen signature on ten checks by one movement of his hand. A rapid writer may sign 4,000 checks an hour by these means.

last night that he estimated the arrivals of anthracite coal in New York City yesterday for New York's use at 17,000 tons. This would be less than half of the normal, according to Mr. Wiggin's figures.

Mr. Smith's report to Mr. McAdoo showed that the 500 cars ordered daily for New England were not being sent there in full. There were 426 cars delivered into New England, 236 cars dumped for New England, and 350 cars in transit for New England.

In a telegram to the Director General of Railroads, Mr. Smith reported yesterday that there was practically a full supply of cars at the mines.

Twenty-four ships waiting at this port for fuel were coaled yesterday. On Tuesday thirty received coal. There are still about 100 ships waiting for coal here. The shipping situation shows improvements, for on Sunday there were 155 ships held up here for lack of bunker coal.

Joseph F. Ahearn, Fuel Administrator for the Bronx, asked yesterday that priority orders be given for coal for the Bronx, on the ground that New England was getting coal by that means. He said that the Bronx was getting about one-half the coal it needed.

After hauling no coal for twenty-four hours, about fifty cars were sent through the tunnels by the Pennsylvania Railroad yesterday morning to Long Island City, and it was said last night that more would likely be sent today. It is the wish of railroad officials to use the tunnels for coal hauling as little as possible. The danger of coal falling from the cars and causing short circuits on the third rail was pointed out yesterday.

It was announced at Police Headquarters yesterday that 995 tons of coal had been collected by the department and that 684 tons had been distributed to 20,763 needy families. In the Fifth Inspection District, Harlem, 134 tons have been distributed to 6,078 families. On the lower east side, which is the First Inspection District, 71 tons were collected and 68 tons given to 2,615 needy persons. Between 300 and 400 persons in that district gave one shovelfull of coal each to the police collections. The owner of a large office building gave fifteen tons in this district.

Marine Superintendent Pollock reported yesterday that ice was piling up in Prince's Bay, shutting in coal barges. He reported that he was keeping Kill van Kull open at all costs. Most of the coal ports serving New York are dependent on the Kill van Kull channel to get their coal to the city.

President Arthur S. Somers of the Board of Education, in a letter to Fuel Administrator Gunnison of Brooklyn yesterday, said that unless the schools were supplied with coal before the end of the week from 200,000 to 300,000 children would be on the streets in Brooklyn alone. Sixty-one elementary schools and three high schools remained closed, the majority of them in Brooklyn, for lack of coal and on account of bursting pipes. C. B. J. Snyder, Superintendent of School Buildings, estimated yesterday that because of lack of fuel damage exceeding $150,000 had been caused to school buildings.

Charles A. Annett, the Fuel Administrator of Bayonne, yesterday ordered the police to seize twenty carloads of coal at the Central Railroad yards in West State Street.

The Fuel Administrator said that he could give fifteen carloads today to the wholesalers for distribution and five carloads to the small dealers who sell coal to the poor. There were no tags on the cars, it was said. They were part of 100,000 tons of coal which have been lying in the yards for two weeks.

NEW ENGLAND CRISIS CALLED 'DANGEROUS'

Aid Wires Appeal to Garfield for More Coal—Issues Drastic Conservation Order.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—The coal situation in New England is "absolutely dangerous and has reached an immediate crisis," James J. Storrow, Fuel Administrator for New England, telegraphed Dr. Harry A. Garfield, National Fuel Administrator, tonight. The National Fuel Administration "still wholly misunderstands the crisis here," the message added.

Mr. Storrow said he had just received information that 5,100 tons of coal now loading at Hampton Roads for the Great Northern Paper Company, which manufactures newsprint, had been commandeered for bunkering British steamers.

"We were relying upon diverting two thousand tons of this for hospitals, schools, and other absolutely vital purposes," the telegram said. "Unless the Government will withdraw its order commandeering the coal steamers or instruct me that it wishes most of the newspapers in the North Atlantic coast to suspend publication, I cannot be responsible for conditions in New England. It is absolutely necessary that more coal should be rushed here at once."

Three coal carriers arrived in port today with approximately 21,645 tons of soft coal.

In a public statement Mr. Storrow said it would be at least two weeks and probably three before Boston would get its allotted 500 cars of coal a day by rail.

Drastic measures for the conservation of fuel and light are provided in an order issued today by the Fuel Administrator, applicable throughout Massachusetts, and applicable on Monday next. They include the opening of business houses at 9 A. M., and the closing at 5 P. M., and the closing of theatres, bars and all places of amusement at 10 P. M.

Under the order every night except Saturday shall be a "lightless night" as defined by the United States Fuel Administrator's order of Dec. 15. It is also recommended that:

1—Business for the day end at 5 P. M.

2—Evening activities end at 10 P. M.

3—Many public institutions desirable under ordinary conditions should be closed and others curtailed.

4—Schools should be put on a one session basis as far as practicable.

5—Churches, forums, night schools, clubs, and other religious, educational, and social organizations consolidate their activities.

6—All inside and outside lighting and all heating not covered by specific orders be reduced to the minimum.

7—Factories should arrange their hours to save daylight and to relieve peak load.

Consternation was caused in some quarters when Mr. Storrow's order became known. Literally interpreted and obeyed, it would mean the suspension of publication of morning newspapers and the interruption of other industries which require night work.

GARFIELD ATTACKED FOR COAL SHORTAGE

Made Ohio Conditions Worse, Witness Tells Auditors—Criticised in House Also.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Investigation of the coal shortage by the Senate Manufacturers' Committee turned today to conditions in Ohio, Missouri and the national capital. Suffering and a general disruption of the coal business in Ohio were charged to Fuel Administrator Garfield and priority orders carrying more coal to lake ports than vessels could handle by James B. Dugan, Chief Inspector of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. He said that Ohio officials feared trouble in getting coal this Winter, and last Summer inaugurated a system of supplying the small consumer. The system was working out as expected, he declared, until superceded by the State Fuel Administration.

Mr. Dugan charged that Dr. Garfield "made no apparent effort" for relief and that "common sense" used in issuance of the lake priority order would have prevented much of the trouble. Just before Governor Cox of Ohio seized a quantity of coal to keep certain public utilities from closing and for distribution to towns where people were suffering, the Governor tried to get Dr. Garfield on the telephone, Mr. Dugan said, and was informed that the Fuel Administrator could not talk, but that a "young lady in the office" would speak to him. Governor Cox did not talk to the assistant, but "called the White House."

Frank W. McAllister, Attorney General of Missouri, told the committee investigating coal conditions in his State showed that production this year was reduced about 30 per cent., caused by many miners working only four days a week. As they could earn as much in four days now as formerly in six, and by shortage of cars at mines, prices had doubled, and in some cases trebled, he testified. Wallace Crosley, Lieutenant Governor of Missouri and State Fuel Administrator, gave similar testimony.

More coal has been brought to Washington this Winter than ever before, but the great population increase has more than used up the surplus, John L. Weaver, local Fuel Administrator, testified.

The Fuel Administration came in for sharp criticism in the House today in debate that preceded the adoption of a bill authorizing the Interior Department to draw plans and report to Congress on the cost of establishing Government fuel yards in Washington for the storage of coal to be purchased in the Summer at lower prices for use of Government departments.

Representative Campbell of Kansas said people in New York, Washington, and other cities were suffering and dying for lack of fuel because of the Fuel Administration's admonition to consumers last Summer to postpone buying until after Government prices were fixed. Representative Madden of Illinois said the "coal operators are getting rich at the expense of the overburdened taxpayers," and Representative Foster of the same State declared that if the Government could not control prices it should take over the mines.

GARFIELD REASSURES CITY.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—While the request of Mayor Hylan that 1,500 cars or 75,000 tons of coal be consigned under a priority order to New York City in addition to its present allotment will not be granted, the announcement was made by Fuel Administrator Garfield today that definite steps would be taken to supply immediate needs and avert the danger of another severe shortage.

The decision was made today after Dr. Garfield had talked over the telephone with Mayor Hylan and Albert H. Wiggin, Fuel Administrator for the State. Dr. Garfield said that both officials seemed to him to be satisfied with his attitude.

The situation was gone over thoroughly by Dr. Garfield with A. H. Smith, Assistant Director General of Railroads. Mr. Smith asserted that further priority orders would but add to his burdens and result in confusion of traffic without accomplishing the results desired. He said that he could handle the 500 additional cars for New England provided for by the Fuel Administration, but that an expansion of that policy to include New York and possibly other cities would prove dangerous.

In the meantime, however, Mr. Smith will bend every effort to obtain for New York, without the imposition of drastic orders, a supply which will meet all requirements if enough workmen are obtained to unload the coal cars at the terminals. Dr. Garfield selected W. J. Searles, Deputy Commissioner of the New York Tidewater Commission, as his representative to co-operate with Mr. Smith in regard to the diversion of coal shipments to meet emergency cases.

"Both Mayor Hylan and Mr. Wiggin thoroughly understand my attitude in the handling of this problem," said Dr. Garfield, "and I am sure they are satisfied that nothing will be left undone to provide the needs of New York. We will endeavor to keep a steady stream of coal heading for the city area, and the present indications are that traffic conditions soon will be much more favorably under Government control."

Officials of the Fuel Administration insisted that thehe was a sufficient supply at the New Jersey terminals to meet the immediate needs of New York if the local problem of distribution was solved, and that, with the milder weather, there was an excellent prospect of large additional supplies being available within a very short time.

"Lightless Night" is Dark.

"Lightless Night" was well observed last night. The State and Federal Fuel Administrations had a large number of inspectors out watching for violations. It was reported that only a few had been recorded. A restaurant in West Fifty-first Street which failed to obey the order Tuesday night was given a warning, and was in line last night.

WILSON BACKS WOMAN SUFFRAGE

that the suggestion for the meeting came from the President.

Those who conferred with Mr. Wilson were Representatives Raker of California, Taylor of Colorado, Cantrill and aBrkley of Kentucky, Brumbaugh of Ohio, Hayden of Arizona, Maise of Utah, Gregg and Jones of Texas, Ayres of Kansas, Linthicum of Maryland, and Carroway of Arkansas.

The President told the committeemen that he felt that, in view of the fact that Great Britain had granted the franchise to women and the general disposition among the Allies to recognize the patriotic services of women in the war against Germany, this country could do no less than follow that example. He spoke of having had the Duke of Devonshire, Governor General of Canada, at luncheon today and of having been told that if the wives of soldiers had not received the right to vote in the recent election, in which Canadian conscription was the issue, conscription would have failed.

In view of the President's attitude and the action of the Republican caucus tonight, no doubt remains that the resolution submitting the amendment to the States will be put through the House by a round majority. Shortly before midnight the caucus adopted this resolution:

"Resolved, That the Republican conference recommends to the Republican members of the House of Representatives that they give support to the Federal suffrage amendment in so far as may be consistent with their convictions and the opinions of their constituents."

In his talk with the delegation today the President not only urged his visitors to vote for suffrage, but he gave them a series of definite reasons why they should do it. And after giving these reasons he authorized them to tell their friends in the House exactly how he stood and why he took such a stand. Briefly, these reasons are:

First—The party platform, which declares woman suffrage to be a question for each State to decide, was adopted before the present exigencies arose—exigencies which make it all-important that the women be allowed to vote. Therefore, strict adherence to that platform cannot now be expected of Democrats.

Second—The President does not regard this as a matter of State rights, therefore it is to be differentiated from the prohibition amendment. He holds that the matter of suffrage is primarily a national question and a constitutional question and has been so decided in frequent decisions of the Supreme Court. Prohibition, on the other hand, in his judgment, is a legislative question and not necessarily national.

Third—The President insists that if the members of Congress believe, that the women should have the right to vote they should accept the first favorable opportunity to grant them that right. The manner of application of such a principle, he contends, should not be the main question.

Fourth—A large part of the civilized world is favorable to woman suffrage, many countries having granted it and England having promised it.

Women leaders in both rival suffrage organizations are jubilant tonight over the President's declaration. Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, said:

"We are thrilled by the President's statement to the delegation of Representatives who waited on him seeking his advice about the Federal suffrage amendment. Most of all do we appreciate his setting forth that the passage of the amendment is an act of right and justice at this time to the women of this country and of the world. The President's statement is the most important he has yet made on the suffrage question, and, coming when it does, ranks as a war utterance with the statements of Premier Lloyd George, Mr. Asquith, and the Premier of Canada on this same subject."

Miss Alice Paul, Chairman of the National Women's Party and leader of the militants who picketed the White House, made this comment:

"It is difficult to express our gratification at the President's stand. For four years we have striven to secure his support for the national amendment, for we knew that it and perhaps it alone would insure our success. It means to us only one thing—victory. Six-sevenths of the Republicans have already pledged their votes. The Democrats undoubtedly will follow their great leader.

"It is only the women who have labored and sacrificed who know fully what victory means, but all Americans must be proud to have our country join the liberal nations of the world in which women share full liberty with men."

This came from Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Honorary President of the national association:

"Washington, Lincoln, Wilson!"

MAX MAY RETIRES FOR PERIOD OF WAR

Guaranty Trust Co. Relieves Foreign Exchange Expert at His Own Request.

Max May, who is regarded as the best foreign exchange expert in America, has been temporarily relieved of his duties as Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company. The Board of Directors took this action at Mr. May's request, and it is understood that after the war is over he will be asked to resume his services at the bank.

Mr. May, although born in Germany, has lived in the United States for twenty-five or thirty years and is an American citizen. His superior officers have never questioned his loyalty, and, in fact, were very enthusiastic in their praise of Mr. May's patriotism when questioned yesterday. They said that the bank regretted losing Mr. May, as he had no equal in the foreign exchange business, but that he wanted to be relieved of his duties for the duration of the war, and the board could not see its way clear to deny his request.

Fourteen years ago Mr. May resigned his position with the First National Bank of Chicago to become manager of the foreign exchange department of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York. In 1908 he was elected Vice President. Mr. May built up the foreign exchange business of the trust company to astonishingly large proportions, his daily transactions having averaged as high as $20,000,000 a day. His total turnover in busy years has amounted to more than $6,000,000,000—a total not approached by any banking institution in the country.

The Guaranty Trust Company has done a very large business with Germany as well as with other countries. At the outbreak of the European war the company's transactions with Germany were particularly heavy, but it was one of the first American institutions to terminate its German connections when this Government broke off diplomatic relations with the Kaiser. All of the foreign exchange business was handled by Mr. May, who is well known to bankers in England, France and Germany. The London bankers particularly have had extensive dealings with him, and they have a high regard for his ability and character. Sir Edward Hopkinson Holden, head of the London City and Midland Bank, Ltd., the largest commercial bank in the world, once remarked that in his opinion Mr. May is "unquestionably the greatest foreign exchange expert in the world."

NAVY CUTS RED TAPE, M'GOWAN TESTIFIES

AGAINST CIVILIAN CONTROL

Secretary Baker Will Appear Today to Answer Criticisms and Discuss Proposals.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—How the Navy Department eliminated red tape methods and speeded up the work of equipping its ships and men after the United States went into the war was explained to the Senate Military Affairs Committee today by Rear Admiral Samuel McGowan, Paymaster General. Instead of a system of secrecy, said Admiral McGowan, his department, which controls the supply of all equipment to the navy except ordnance, worked on a policy of the broadest "open door" so as to get the most advantageous prices the market afforded.

As opposed to the evidence given before the Senate committee concerning the methods of the War Department, working through the Council of National Defense, the Navy Department system impressed the Senatorial inquisitors as more direct.

Admiral McGowan said that the moment the United States declared war, a survey of the wool market was made by his department, so that the navy knew precisely what supply was available. At once bids were sought from manufacturers and without delay prices were fixed for the wool product and for making uniforms.

"You didn't wait for any supply committee of the Council of National Defense to hand you specifications and then decide what you wanted?" asked Senator Frelinghuysen.

"No, we didn't deal with any organization," replied Admiral McGowan. "The entire responsibility for ordering supplies of clothing, blankets, and food for the navy was in my hands and I went ahead to equip the navy."

"You don't favor having a supply committee do that work for you?" asked Senator McKellar.

Admiral McGowan leaned forward in his chair and replied:

"Absolutely not, Sirs. The navy's system is as nearly perfect as it can be made, the result of twenty-five years of hard study and work. I have to account only to the Secretary of the Navy and the President. I do not have to bother my head about advisers outside my own department. I may listen to advice, but that doesn't mean I have to follow it."

Senator Wadsworth asked Admiral McGowan if he did not think the navy purchasing and that for the army could be co-ordinated.

Admiral McGowan saw no harm in having a triumvirate to confer over supplies to both the navy and army, the third member to be a civilian or an official from the army or navy, but he would not take away from either the army or the navy authority to make its own specifications and do its own buying.

Admiral McGowan was asked if the navy used shoddy in uniforms for its men, as the army does.

"No, Sir, not a bit of shoddy," he replied.

"Why don't you use it?" asked Senator Frelinghuysen.

"Because there's no occasion to use it—there's plenty of wool in the market," said the Admiral.

The Admiral was reminded that experts before the Military Committee had testified that the army was forced to use 65 per cent. wool and 35 per cent. shoddy in its uniforms because of a scarcity of wool.

"Well, we have found all the wool we want," answered the witness. "We went out in the market and got it."

Senator McKellar wanted to know what the Admiral would have done if the Council of National Defense attempted to pick out the firms from which the navy was to buy uniforms and had asked the navy Paymaster General not to sign any contracts except with those firms.

"I'd have refused to consent to any such thing," was the reply.

When asked by Senator Kirby if the navy would object to having its supplies bought by one agency, which would act also for the army, the Admiral exclaimed:

"Decidedly we would object, sir. I ask you, gentlemen, for the sake of the navy, not to interfere with the system that had proven its effectiveness in time of war."

In preparing to close up army clothing questions the committee heard A. L. Scott of Boston, a textile expert on the Supply Committee of the Council of National Defense; Lincoln Cromwell, a knit goods expert of the committee, and David Kirschbaum, a Philadelphia manufacturer having army contracts.

Mr. Scott asserted that the Supply Committee's system had saved the Government many millions of dollars. He said General Goethals, now Acting Quartermaster General, was inviting civilian members to join his new organization for army buying, and while indorsing centralizing authority for purchase of Government war materials, insisted that expert civilian assistance was imperative.

The climax in the war inquiry of the Senate Military Committee will be reached tomorrow, when Secretary Baker appears to discuss the proposals for establishing a separate department of munitions and the criticisms of army preparations offered in the investigation.

PROFITEERING IN UNIFORMS.

Resolution Urges Government to Supply Officers at Cost.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Alleging that reserve officers were "gouged" by profiteers in buying uniforms, Senator Jones of Washington today introduced a resolution providing that the Secretary of War see that all clothing equipment be issued to officers at cost price of manufacture and that all uniforms be of the same quality for officers of equal rank.

The Senate referred the resolution to the Military Affairs Committee, which is expected to embrace the intent of the measure in its forthcoming report to the Senate.

Senator Jones spoke of protests that have come to Senators from various sources against dealers' charges for officers' equipment.

"The dealer imposes on the officer and the Government allows the dealer to do it," he said. "The crookedness of the profiteer touches every avenue of likely profit."

Senator Jones said a recently appointed reserve officer wrote that he had been forced to pay $500 for equipment. More than $3,000,000, the Senator alleged, had been paid to profiteers by reserve officers.

SPEED WAR WORK, ROOSEVELT URGES

First Need Is Building Cargo Ships, He Says, Then to Send Armies to France.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 9.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, delivering the annual address at the fifty-second graduation exercises of Peirce School in the Academy of Music tonight, called upon the people of all business pursuits and religious creeds to speed up the task of winning the war.

In opening his address the Colonel said that a permanent policy of preparedness in advance was America's ultimate necessity, but the prime work was to put our armies on the fighting front "thoroughly armed, equipped, and trained." He declared the first need was to put every energy to the building of cargo ships and explained that the troops then must have machine guns, cannon, hospitals, and other features of military organization.

"So much for the soldiers," he continued. "We civilians have our duties also, for we must have an organized nation back of our organized army. We must cut out extravagance and waste in our households and personal enjoyments. We must subscribe to the loans to the limit of our ability, pay our taxes cheerfully and heartily support the Red Cross, the Y. M. C. A., the Knights of Columbus and all organizations doing similar work for the men at the front and their families at home.

"Above all, the question of money-making should be treated as wholly secondary to the question of service to the nation, for at this time serving the nation may literally mean saving the nation. There is one form of money-making that is peculiarly abhorrent at a time like this, and that is the making of excessive profits out of anything connected with the war. There should not be more than a legitimate profit for any man, and above all not for any big man, out of anything in any way connected with the war."

ROOSEVELT FAVORS PROHIBITION IN WAR

Would Bar Sale of Liquor to Workers in Railroads, Factories, Mines and Shipyards.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—A copy of the letter written by Colonel Roosevelt to the Rev. Dr. Clarence True Wilson of Washington, favoring prohibitoin during the war, was made public tonight by Deets Pickett, Research Secretary of the Board of Temperance Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of which Dr. Wilson is General Secretary. The President of this board is Bishop William F. McDowell and its headquarters are in Washington.

In his letter to Dr. Wilson, Colonel Roosevelt says that one of his sons in France has been made a permanent prohibitionist by his experience in the army. The text of the letter follows:

Metropolitan,
482 Fourth Avenue,
Office of Theodore Roosevelt.
New York, Dec. 12, 1917.

Dear Sir:

In answer to your question, I wish to state that at the outbreak of the war I advocated prohibiting the use of all hard grains, of all grains that can be used in food products, for the making of alcoholic liquor. I am sure that this would have eliminated much of the evil of intemperance which now seriously handicaps our preparations for war. When we must feed our army and help the armies of our allies not a bushel of grain should be permitted to be made into intoxicating liquor.

Neither the men in the army nor the men engaged in doing vital work for the army in connection with railroads, factories, mines, and shipyards should be allowed to waste strength and health in drink at this time. The same reasons that render it necessary to prohibit the sale of liquor to soldiers in uniform, or within a given number of miles from a military camp, and to stop its use on battleships, apply to extending similar protection for all citizens engaged in the work of railroads, factories, mines, and shipyards.

I may mention that my sons, who are now in the army in France, write me most strongly (just as General Pershing has expressed his public opinion most strongly) as to the harm done to the men of the army by permitting the sale of liquor to them, stating that they believe in absolute prohibition for the army in wartime—and one of them adding that his experience has made a permanent prohibitionist of him.

I wish your board every success in its effort to stop all waste of food, men, labor, and brain power during these days when the nation needs every energy of every man at his best.

Sincerely yours,
THEODORE ROOSEVELT:

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, 204 Pennsylvania Avenue S. E., Washington, D. C.

DRINK CHARGES ANGER AMERICANS IN LONDON

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Keen resentment has been expressed by representative Americans here at Dr. J. Fort Newton's attacks last Sunday on the sobriety of American sailors. Preaching at the City Temple, he described "American boys staggering in the streets, drunk," and said "every trap is set to debauch our boys."

Americans here feel that this accusation not only misrepresents the true condition of affairs but is likely to cause quite unnecessary anxiety to parents of American soldiers and sailors. London, of course, is a great city, and must present the same kind of temptations as New York; but women workers at Eagle Hut, the great gathering place of Americans in uniform, indignantly deny that the men are misbehaving themselves. Indeed, the wife of one of the most prominent Americans in London as she discussed the charges said:

"We always find that the Americans are the nicest of all the men we serve at Eagle Hut. They take off their caps as they come to the counter and treat us with the utmost consideration. In fact, they act like perfect gentlemen."

The American sailors now in London also feel aggrieved. They do not deny that now and then a man will run a little wild, but they point out the fact that, considering the few hours during which the saloons are open and the mildness of the liquor sold, a man must exercise both perserverance and celerity in getting intoxicated. They strongly object to the suggestion that they are doing anything to disgrace the name of America.

It is also the view of Americans who have been here for a long time that Dr. Newton's strictures were grossly unfair to the British authorities. Since the war began they have tackled the drink problem with determination and success. Arrests for drunkenness have diminished, and very severe restrictions have been placed on the sale and manufacture of drink. When a committee of American women called on the Government officials to suggest methods of dealing with the problem of drink in garrison towns they received the most courteous treatment.

PORTUGUESE REBELS BOMBARD LISBON

Mutinous Crew on Battleship Surrenders to the Army, Which Remains Loyal.

LISBON, Jan. 9.—A mutinous outbreak on the Portuguese battleship Vasco de Gama was checked by artillery fire from a fort in Lisbon harbor, after the warship had fired a few shots at the land battery, according to a Government announcement today. The crew, in part, was landed and disarmed, surrendering to the army and the Republican Guard, and Government forces later gained possession of the battleship.

Measures taken to insure the maintenance of order are declared to have been effective.

GETS $5,000 FOR WAR AID.

Women's City Club to Use Fund for Ford Carrying Trucks.

More than $5,000 was raised last evening at a meeting of the War Service Committee of the Bien-Etre du Blessé of the Women's City Club of New York.

The committee is to furnish eight motor trucks to carry nourishing food to the men at the first aid stations at the front in France. Two of the trucks have been sent abroad and four women chauffeurs will depart shortly.

The money raised will be used in purchasing the other six motors. A collection was taken in a hat and pledges to aid the fund were made from the floor. One of the trucks for which the money was raised is to be called the Edith Cavell.

Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, Chairman of the committee, who presided, said that her secretary's entire time was occupied answering questions of women who wish to become chauffeurs and drive trucks. As far as possible women filling the conditions in other ways will be chosen where they can support themselves.

Mrs. Harriot Stanton Blatch said the country must work hard to make good its three-year-lateness in entering the war [illegible] its lateness in getting into war work. She urged the women to give up knitting by hand, as, she said, the work could be done more quickly by machine and asked that warm clothes be made for the American soldiers. A surgical dressing committee and knitting unit was appointed for the club.

In less than THREE HOURS the first cold day, every heater in New York was bought up and every store literally "CLEANED OUT" of its small supply, with but ONE exception:

GIMBELS!

With hardly a single heater to be had elsewhere at any price, GIMBELS were ready with 3,500 oil, gas and electric heaters at VERY LOW PRICES.

Since then Gimbels secured 10,000 more and sold all, while other stores stood aghast and asked: "HOW DO THEY DO IT?"

This wasn't just an ACCIDENT—a merchandising FLUKE, or a stroke of good LUCK.

New York can thank Gimbels PARIS organization and Gimbel "INGENUITY" for this splendid evidence of preparedness.

Last summer, when folks were thinking about anything but "COAL" or "HEAT," WE were studying the conditions of Paris and London the previous winter and what the stores THERE did to meet the need.

After considerable cable advices, Gimbels, with its powerful THREE-STORE INFLUENCE in the markets, combed the country "CLEAN" for all sorts of heaters.

We not only PREPARED, but we PREPARED TO ADVANTAGE. We studied to get the best KINDS of heaters, the best PRICES, the best DELIVERIES.

And as a result, it is frankly acknowledged that Gimbels will sell close to $100,000 worth of heaters this season—and AT MOST REASONABLE PRICES.

Plenty of heaters here NOW. People are coming to Gimbels from cities and towns a hundred miles away.

Gimbels stocks of oil, gas and electric heaters today are complete, and yet outside of Gimbels the shortage is just as evident as before.

We mention the incident as an evidence that the Gimbel Organization feels itself a quasi-Public Service institution with A DEFINITE RESPONSIBILITY to the community.

And, we have come to EXPECT New York to look to us in emergencies.

AMERICA ASSURED OF SUPPLY OF LABOR

ONLY 3% FOR ARMY IN YEAR

Advisory Board to be Named Today—Unions' Apprentice Rule May Be an Obstacle.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—"There is an ample supply of labor both for the army and for industry; the problem is one of proper adjustment," Secretary Wilson said today in discussing plans of the Department of Labor for mobilizing workers. He estimated that in the first year of the war the army would take only about 3 per cent. of the country's workers, less than the number of unemployed under normal conditions.

Establishment of a clearing house for the woman labor of the nation, under the supervision of Secretary Wilson, was announced here today. Mrs. Hilda Muhlhauser Richards, named as chief of the bureau, outlined as its principal function the task of recruiting women to fill the ranks of the industrial army wherever men are released for military duty.

The Secretary will announce probably tomorrow an advisory committee to assist him in handling mobilization problems, including one representative of the general public, two of labor, two of commerce and industry, and one economist or sociologist.

"Most of the anxiety in this country regarding the labor question has been a reflex of Great Britain's experiences in the war," Mr. Wilson said. "Of 20,000,000 persons engaged in gainful occupations in England, 5,000,000 were taken for the army, leaving labor supply 25 per cent. short. This necessitated withdrawal from the army of skilled workmen to maintain the industrial life at home.

"America's situation is very different. Of course, the draft will interfere with industry to some extent, but we have 35,000,000 workers, of whom approximately 1,500,000 will be taken in the first year of war, less than the normal number of unemployed. Our problem, then, is one of readjustment to supply the demand for workers in those trades which are expanding rapidly, such as shipbuilding and munitions factories."

Mr. Wilson was asked what opposition was expected from the unions to dilution of labor.

"If the apprentice rules of the unions are adhered to," he replied, "it doubtless will cause friction if we attempt to introduce unskilled workers. That is one of the questions which we will have to work out."

PERSHING LOSES FIVE MEN.

Also Reports Engineer Seriously Wounded in Action on Dec. 31.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—General Pershing reported today that Private Arthur J. Snedeker of the engineers was seriously wounded in action on Dec. 31. No details of any engagement were given. E. O. Snedeker, his father, lives at 205 South Sixth Street, Columbia, Mo. The following deaths of these privates also were reported:

LUMSDEN, JAMES L., pneumonia; sister, Mrs. J. F. Loucks, Kermit, N. D.

ROBINSON, JOSEPH F., fractured skull; wife, Mrs. Livinia Robinson, Huntington, Penn.

Harry Graham, fireman, was drowned from a transport Jan. 3, the Navy Department announced tonight. His father lives in Cincinnati.

GET GERMAN DYE SECRETS.

British Obtain 257 Recipes From the Badische Works.

LONDON, Thursday, Jan. 10.—A group of men in the British textile trade has captured the secret recipes of the German dye industry, according to The Daily Mail, which displays the item under large headlines. The recipes, numbering 257, belonged to the Badische Works, and are now in the keeping of a London bank. The Mail says:

"The capture is of first importance in the economic war against Germany and will free the British textile industry and scores of other important industries from the bonds of Germany. It means that when the war is over Great Britain will be in a position to compete equally with German dyed goods in every market in the world."

CO-ORDINATION PLAN AIDS PERSHING'S WORK

New Department Saves His Time, and Effects Considerable Financial Economies.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Jan. 8.—(Delayed.)—(Associated Press.)—A new Department of Co-ordination, created since the war, is functioning in a most satisfactory manner and is contributing materially to the building up of the war machine which General Pershing desires to see running automatically, whether or not he is present. Since the establishment of the Co-ordination Department it has removed the necessity for the General seeing fifteen staff heads daily and has cut down his necessary interviews to about four a day and has given him greater liberty in which to plan operations.

This department passes on and has authority to settle questions from other departments. Its efficiency was shown recently when the Quartermaster's Department wanted storage plants built with a capacity of 90,000 tons of meat. The Co-ordination Department figured that the demand was based on the old army allowance of twenty ounces of fresh meat daily for the troops, but did not take into consideration that smoked meats and fish could be substituted for fresh meat on some days. Such proved to be the case, the Co-ordination Department deciding that storage plants with a capacity of 12,000 tons would suffice.

9 LUCKENBACH MEN MISSING

Sims Reports 22 of the Crew Were Rescued.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Nine men of the American steamer Harry Luckenbach, torpedoed and sunk on Jan 6, are still missing, the Navy Department announced today, based on a report from Vice Admiral Sims.

The report states that twenty-two members of the crew have been rescued.

CHARGE ACCOUNT

Are You Paying the Piper?

You are, if you trade where the music of the credit account is paid for by both the "charge it" and cash customers. You are paying more than your share, no matter whether you belong to the thrifty, economical cash class or the easy-pay-it-at-the-end-of-the-month caste, if you trade where a charge account is a "privilege."

The piper of the "charge it" store is more than a one-man band. He is an organization of credit men, clerks and collectors. He watches over the purchases of the few—his salary is paid by "pay-cash" and "charge-it" folks alike.

But—this sixty-year-old cash buying and cash selling store through the Depositors' Account (D. A.) extends to you the advantages of the charge account system by a method in greater harmony with modern, economical merchandising and war-time thrift.

The D. A. does not ask you to pay the piper. On the contrary, it pays you interest at four per cent. on the money you deposit, up to the moment you exchange it for the dependable merchandise one always finds here.

The D. A. plays no favorites. It offers to everyone the same privileges—making possible one price to all without calling upon one man to pay for courtesy extended to another.

There is no mystery attendant upon the opening of a D. A. Just deposit any sum you wish, sign a signature card and receive a number to facilitate shopping.

When you make a purchase give the salesperson your name and D. A. number and the purchase will be charged to your D. A. At the end of the month you will receive a statement showing the purchases you have made and the amount still unspent. How different from the usual first of the month bills!

PENETRATE GERMAN LINES HALF A MILE

Exetnsive Raid by French Troops East of St. Mihiel Cost the Enemy Dear.

KILL MANY, CAPTURE 178

British Regain Two Outposts Soon After They Had Been Won by Germans.

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Jan. 9, (Associated Press.)—One of the most successful and extensive raids into the German lines in some time was executed yesterday by foreign legionaries and sharpshooters, who attacked and penetrated the foe's positions along a front of a mile and to a depth of half a mile in front of Flirey and westward toward St. Mihiel, capturing 178 officers, noncommissioned officers, and men.

The troops returned to their own positions after completely clearing the German defenses. They reconnoitred both the first and second German lines, killed or captured every occupant and carried off numbers of machine guns and trench mortars.

The surprise was so complete that the German artillery did not come into action until the French victory had been accomplished.

The French casualties did not reach a dozen, while German bodies cover thickly the positions overrun by the attackers.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Last night's War Office report, which gave the first word of the raid near St. Mihiel, reads:

In the Woevre, in the region north of Seichepray, we carried out an extensive surprise attack which succeeded completely. Our detachments penetrated the enemy position on a front of about 1,500 meters. The German defenses were demolished and the shelters destroyed. In accordance with orders our troops afterward returned to their own lines, bringing back 150 prisoners and a number of machine guns and hand grenades.

Today's afternoon statement says:

The total number of prisoners brought back by the French to their lines in consequence of their incursion into the German lines north of Seichepray is 178, including one officer and eighteen non-commissioned officers.

BERLIN, Jan. 9, (via London.)—Strong French forces yesterday attacked the German positions on a front of more than a mile west of Flirey, and penetrated the line of German posts, the German General Staff announced today. During the night the Germans counterattacked and forced the French back at all points to their former positions. The statement reads:

Army Group of Prince Rupprecht: Under a strong protective fire British reconnoitring detachments launched an attack against the southern edge of Houthulst Wood. A few companies attacked the Boesinghe-Staden Railway. The enemy was unable to reach our lines at any point, and his losses under our fire were very heavy.

Army Group of Duke Albrecht: West of Flirey in the afternoon the French, after violent artillery preparation, launched a strong attack on a front of four kilometers. At isolated points the enemy penetrated our line of posts. Attempts to gain ground beyond it broke down. Our counterattacks during the night threw back the enemy at all points to the positions whence he set out.

British Expel German Raiders.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—German raiders on the Ypres front last night entered two British advanced posts, but were immediately ejected. Artillery activity on both sides south of the Scarpe is reported from the sectors in northern France. Canadian troops south of Lens captured two machine guns in a raid this morning.

Tonight's bulletin from headquarters says:

During the day our own and the enemy's artillery was active at a number of points south of the Scarpe. The hostile artillery also has shown activity northeast of Ypres.

The afternoon report reads:

At dusk yesterday evening the enemy succeeded in entering two of our advanced posts north of the Ypres-Staden Railway, but was immediately ejected by a local counterattack. Early this morning Canadian troops carried out a successful raid south of Lens, capturing two machine guns.

BLIZZARD BLANKETS FRANCE.

Blockaded by Snow, British and Germans Await Statesmen's Decisions.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, Jan. 8, (Delayed.)—There is a blizzard on the western front, and the melting ice of yesterday has hardened again, and is covered deep. It is as heavy a snowstorm as I have seen in France since the Winter of 1914, and there is a wild wind which comes moaning and whining across the fields with ghostly plaint. It is sweeping the surface of the snowfields with invisible brooms as though white witches were dancing there and raising a whirl of flakes in their mad mazurka.

There is not much war in progress, except in the air, where the flying men find it hard to get the touch of their machine guns, because an ungloved hand is like a block of ice, but where every day they challenge the Germans to single combats or squadron encounters, and lately have had the luck to drive many of them down.

Nature has arranged an armistice in her white palace of peace, and the fighting men are standing to and waiting with their rifles ready, but inactive. For the time war seems to have passed out of the hands of the armies into those of the statesmen, and powers are at work greater than high explosives, if ideas and the psychology of nations and the stress of peoples have any force in the decisions of destiny out here. The armies in the field are waiting for those decisions, which one way or the other will hold the fate of thousands of men. The newspapers that come out to the dugouts and billets, and the wireless that gives the first clew of what is being said by the allied and enemy statesmen provide conversation which goes on during day and night, wherever two soldiers have a chance to talk. The men of the armies never say a word outside those private conversations in holes in the ground and in the draughty barns, where they sleep on straw, or in billets behind the lines. They are as silent as death in the great world discussion of war aims and peace terms, although it is their lives which hang in the balance and their courage which will win whatever is won.

OIL ADMINISTRATOR CHOSEN

Garfield to Announce Policy for Control of Fuel Supply.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Fuel oil supply of the nation will be put under direction of the United States Fuel Administration within a few days to stabilize prices and insure a sufficient supply for war needs. Fuel Administrator Garfield announced today that he had selected the man who would direct the work, but withheld his name pending the preparation of a comprehensive statement of policy.

Until the last few weeks the fuel oil situation has not been an embarrassing one, but heavy demands by Great Britain for supplies for its navy and the transportation tangle have made action imperative in order to furnish the legitimate war needs and prevent the price to the public from soaring.

ARTILLERY FIGHTING LIVELY IN ITALY

Piave and Brenta Valleys Scenes of Spirited Fire — Bad Weather Continues.

ROME, Jan. 9.—Spirited artillery engagements on both sides of the Brenta River are reported in the War Office statement today. The Piave front above Montello was also the scene of artillery exchanges across the stream. Italian batteries effectively shelled enemy troops in the neighborhood of Noventa on the Lower Piave. Bad weather still prevails on the whole battlefront.

The text of the report follows:

There have been lively bursts of artillery firing on both sides of the Brenta River and a harassing fire across the Piave. Between the heights of Val Dobbiadene and Montello. A small attack attempted by the enemy in the direction of Monte Melago on the Asiago Plateau, was frustrated by our barrage fire.

There have been patrol engagements, which resulted in the capture of some prisoners in the Asolone region and a hand-grenade engagement on the Sapordpo.

On the plain, enemy working parties were dispersed in front of Palazzon and hostile movements effectively shelled around Noventa, [both towns on the Lower Piave.]

DEEP SNOW IN ITALIAN HILLS.

Defenders Expect It to Bring Austro-Germans to a Complete Halt.

ITALIAN ARMY HEADQUARTERS IN NORTHERN ITALY, Jan. 8. (Delayed.)—(Associated Press.)—Snow was falling along the mountain front and an intermittent artillery fire was in progress during the visit which B. Harvey Carroll, Jr., American Consul at Venice, has just paid to the Asiago Plateau on that front as a guest of the Italian General Staff.

It was a difficult and dangerous climb up the slippery mountain heights to the summit of a hill 4,000 feet high which Consul Carroll ascended. The enemy positions on Monte Meletta di Gallio and Monte Badenecche were seen to be heavily covered with snow, which extended down to the Frenzela Valley, through which the Austrians are trying to push their way to the plain. The Consul visited the bersaglieri brigade which had borne the brunt of the mountain fighting, finding the men well conditioned and rationed, in fine spirits and confident that they would be able to hold any further attempts of the enemy to advance. The Red Cross had distributed mountain hoods among the bersaglieri, who were loud in praise of the thoughtfulness of the American organization.

Nearly a foot of snow fell in the course of the consul's visit, and several officers predicted a three-foot fall, which they considered would bring the enemy to a complete halt.

ALIEN RESTRICTIONS TO INCLUDE WOMEN

Bill Being Drafted to Register All Unnaturalized Germans — Parole Stories Denied.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Enemy alien restrictions probably will be extended soon to German women by the Government. Legislation to this end is being drafted, and Congressional leaders have assured the Department of Justice that it will be enacted promptly. If this is done before the week of Feb. 4, when a nation-wide registration of unnaturalized Germans is to be made under supervision of the Department of Justice, women probably will be included in the census.

Regulations to govern the registration were sent today to police officials in cities and postmasters in small towns, to whom the active administration of the registration has been intrusted. The rules differ from those already made public only in the fact that Federal court districts, not county or local court districts, are to be considered units for gathering census returns.

Of the hundreds of Germans who have been interned since the United States entered the war, only six have been paroled permanently and ten freed for a limited time, according to John Lord O'Brian, Assistant Attroney General. The announcement was made in refutation of widespread reports that the Government had released hundreds of dangerous aliens. In the cases of men paroled temporarily, it is understood the action was taken in order that they might obtain valuable information to aid Government agents in ferreting out plots or propaganda against the United States.

Purdy Heads Charity Organization.

Lawson Purdy, who ceased to be President of the Tax Board after eleven years' service with the expiration of Mayor Mitchel's term, yesterday was unanimously elected General Director and Secretary of the Charity Organization Society. Mr. Pudry is to combine the executive functions of Dr. Edward T. Devine, formerly General Secretary, now in France for the Red Cross, and W. Frank Persons, former Director of the Department of General Work, now serving the Red Cross in Washington.

GERMANS RAZE 130 TOWNS.

Widespread Destruction on the Western Front Reported.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—The Rome correspondent of the Matin says that by order of Field Marshal von Hindenburg, according to reliable information which has reached him, 130 villages behind the western front, mostly in the region of St. Quentin, have been leveled to the ground so as to afford better opportunity for defense of the German lines to the rear.

Notwithstanding denials, the correspondent adds, only one-third of the 300,000 Belgians deported to Germany have been permitted to return to their homes.

The demolition of the villages east of St. Quentin may mean that the Germans are contemplating a long-range bombardment of the Allies' lines with their new direct-fire 14-inch traction guns from the Oise and the Feronnelle.

German Ban on Fishing Fleet.

YMUIDEN, Holland, Jan. 9.—Germany has put the Ymuiden steam fishing fleet on the blacklist. All supplies of coal for the fleet are prohibited by the Germans.

"You're as dear to me as Dixie was to Lee"
For snappy team-work in harmony the Avon Comedy Four hold all records on the vaudeville circuit. Now these record-breakers are making records for Columbia. Their second Columbia record shows their clever art at its best. A2433—75c

8 Big War Song Hits on a Single Record
All the winners: "It's a long way to Berlin," "Keep the home fires burning," "Where do we go from here?" "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag," "For your country and my country," "Good-bye Broadway, hello France," "I don't know where I'm going, but I'm on my way," and "Over there." A2428—75c

"Long Boy" One Step
There has been such a clamor for this great Western war song in dance time that we have had Prince's Band record it as a rattling, rapid-fire one-step. Introducing "Sailing Around" and "Down by the Old Red Mill." On the back, "For You a Rose" in fox-trot tempo. A2424—75c

"Hello, Jack! I have tickets for that Russian ballet tomorrow night. Want to go?"

"Thanks, old scout. Better get some one else. I'm feeling rotten."

"'Some one else, your grandmother! Why, a glass of Pluto Water will make you fit as a fiddle. I tell you that water is a wonder."

PLUTO
America's WATER Physic

Not only as a curative agent in actual illness, but in practically every walk of modern life, PLUTO WATER is an invaluable aid to health.

Its gentle, antiseptic stimulation of the digestive and eliminative system keeps you "fit"—vigorous—alive. No chance for harmful toxins to accumulate and poison the system if PLUTO is taken at regular intervals. Physicians indorse and prescribe it in the treatment of kidney, liver and stomach troubles, rheumatism and nervous disorders.

If you are thoroughly run down and out of condition—go to French Lick Springs—the source of PLUTO. There rest and recreation will make you over—the waters will be of inestimable value—and the hotel service is unexcelled.

For all ordinary laxative purposes, however, buy PLUTO. Large bottle, 35c; smaller bottle, 15c.

BAR SEES DANGERS IN DRY AMENDMENT

GIVES DIVIDED AUTHORITY

Geo. W. Wickersham Points to Possible Conflict—Congress Asked for New Amendment.

The Bar Association of the City of New York has adopted a resolution calling for the substitution for the present prohibition amendment to the Constitution of the United States, now before the State Legislatures, of an alternative measure which shall be free from the much-discussed provision that "Congress and the several States shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation." Congress was urged to make this change and the State Legislature to refuse to pass the amendment in its present form. While expressing no opinion on the merits of national prohibition in itself, the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, whose report was adopted by the Bar Association at its meeting on Tuesday night, says that "the preservation of national supremacy in all matters confided to the Federal Government is of paramount importance."

Former Attorney General George W. Wickersham, who is Chairman of the Committee on Constitutional Amendments, said last night that this provision for concurrent powers was "a return to Calhoun's theory of the concurrent sovereignty of the nation and the States. This theory was disposed of by the civil war," Mr. Wickersham continued, "which made the United States a nation. But now comes this amendment expressly reviving the concurrent power theory and writing it into the Constitution itself—the first provision tending to disintegration that has ever crept into a Constitutional amendment. It is more because this seems to be an entering wedge for breaking down the power of the National Government than because of the specific effects in this particular case that the Bar Association is opposed to it.

"This specific effect, however, is likely to be the production of considerable confusion. It is quite clear from the phrasing of the amendment that some power is to be conferred on the nation and on the States. The nation is given the control of manufactures within the States; the States individually are given some sort of power to control matters of commerce between the States. This provision will certainly give rise to conflicting legislation between State and nation without the certain supremacy of the Federal power to reconcile this conflict. For example, under this amendment some State might pass a law regarding the importation of liquors in bond, which now is a power belonging exclusively to the nation. The Legislature of the State and the National Congress, acting under their concurrent power, might pass laws which conflict in prohibitions, penalties and methods of procedure—as, for instance, the State law might make any importation in bond punishable by confiscation, where the Federal law allowed some leniency under certain circumstances.

"It is held by some lawyers that the Supreme Court would construe the clause in question in the light of the provision that the Constitution of the United States and the laws of the United States which shall be made in pursuance thereof shall be the supreme law of the land, and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, anything in the Constitution or the laws of any State to the contrary notwithstanding. But I am far from certain just what the Supreme Court would do in the matter.

"The motives for the insertion of this clause do not appear from a study of the Congressional record. It was proposed at the end of a long discussion on other matters, and while Senator Borah made a long speech on the constitutionality of the clause providing that ratification by the States must take place within a limited time, nobody seems to have debated this feature at all."

The Committee of Sixty on National Prohibition, of which Professor Irving Fisher of Yale, is President, announced yesterday that a number of prominent women had declared themselves in favor of prohibition as a war measure, among them being Dr. Katharine B. Davis, Mrs. Henry Bruere, Mrs. William Grant Brown, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. William J. Schieffelin, Mrs. V. Everit Macy, Mrs. Marcus M. Marks, Mrs. Ernest Poole, Mrs. R. HONOR TO E. H. SCHIFF.

Banker's Nephew Made Member of Order of British Empire.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—Ernest H. Schiff, a member of the English family of that name and nephew of Jacob H. Schiff of New York, appears in the list of supplementary New Year honors. He has received an appointment as member of the Order of the British Empire for his services in connection with Belgian refugees in London.

His brother, Otto Schiff, is now in an English hospital suffering from a shrapnel wound received in France, where he was serving as a private in an artillery regiment.

No definite news has been obtained regarding Captain Mortimer Schiff, another nephew of Mr. Schiff, who was serving in the British Army and was reported missing some months ago. Members of his family have received from brother officers some account of the circumstances in which Captain Schiff came to be reported missing, but no information settling the question whether he is dead or a prisoner.

SAVED FROM JACOB JONES.

Fireman Rogers's Home Town Was About to Erect a Monument to Him.

LOWELL, Mass., Jan. 9.—The current issue of Our Navy, a publication devoted to news of the Navy Department, contains the name of George F. H. Rogers, a fireman of this city, as among those saved from the destroyer Jacob Jones.

When the Jones went down the Navy Department notified Rogers's family that he had perished, and the Municipal Council recently voted to erect a monument to his memory, plans for which were being drawn today.

RECORD RESOURCES IN NATIONAL BANKS

$18,553,000,000 on Nov. 20 Last, $3,033,000,000 More Than Previous High Figure.

BIG GAIN IN DEPOSITS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The reports of the national banks of the country in reply to the bank call issued by the Controller of the Currency for a statement of business as of Nov. 20, 1917, show another high record of prosperity throughout the country. The total resources of the 7,656 national banks responding to the call are shown to be $18,553,000,000. This is greater than the total resources shown by the call for Nov. 17, 1916, by $3,033,000,000, and an increase over the resources shown by the last previous bank call, for Sept. 11, 1917, by $2,009,000,000, the resources then shown being the largest ever reported in the history of American banking.

"These resources," states the Controller, "exceed by more than $500,000,000 the total resources of all State banks doing a commercial business, all private banks, and all trust companies in the United States as of June 20, 1917—the latest date for which State bank returns have been compiled—including also the total resources at that time of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks.

"Total deposits on Nov. 20, 1917, amounted to $14,798,000,000. This was an increase over Nov. 17, 1916, of $2,309,000,000, and an increase as compared with Sept. 11, 1917, of $1,564,000,000.

"Of the $1,564,000,000 increase in deposits since Sept. 11, 1917, $641,000,000 was with the national banks of the central reserve cities; $446,000,000 with the national banks in other reserve cities, and $477,000,000 with the country banks.

"The only States whose banks showed no increase between the September and November calls were Maine, Illinois, Michigan, Iowa, and Nebraska.

"The State in which the banks outside the reserve cities showed the largest increase was Texas, whose increase was $83,000,000. The next largest increase was in Oklahoma, of $45,000,000. The country banks in New York State increased $40,000,000 The next largest increases were in New Jersey and North Carolina, of $22,000,000 each, followed by Arkansas with $19,000,000, South Carolina and California with $18,000,000 each, and Massachusetts and Pennsylvania with $17,000,000 each. These figures indicate that the growth in deposits in our national banks is wide and general, and not confined to any particular section or locality.

"Loans and discounts on Nov. 20, 1917, amounted to $9,535,000,000. This was an increase of $1,189,000,000 as compared with Nov. 17 the previous year and an increase as compared with Sept. 11, 1917, of $480,000,000. The proportion of loans and discounts to total deposits on Nov. 2, 1917, was only 64.43 per cent., as against the proportion of loans and discounts to deposits on Nov. 17, 1916, of 66.83 per cent., and as compared with 68.42 per cent. on Sept. 11, 1917.

"Cash in vaults and due from Federal Reserve Banks, including items in process of collection, on Nov. 20, 1917, amounted to $1,759,000,000, as compared with $1,507,000,000 on Nov. 17, 1916, and as compared with $1,666,000,000 on Sept. 11, 1917.

"United States bonds and certificates of indebtedness, including Liberty bonds held by national banks Nov. 20, 1917, amounted to $2,354,000,000, an increase as compared with Nov. 17, 1916, of $1,629,000,000, and an increase as compared with Sept. 11, 1917, of $1,195,000,000. The increase was very largely reported by Government short-term certificates of indebtedness, a large proportion of which have been paid off since Nov. 20, 1917.

"Bills payable and rediscounts Nov. 20, 1917, amounted to $600,000,000, an increase over Nov. 17, 1916, of $526,000,000, and an increase over Sept. 11, 1917, of $314,000,0000. This increase is mainly explained by temporary loans made with Federal Reserve Banks in connection with the Second Liberty Loan, which since Nov. 20 have been largely paid.

"Bonds, securities, &c., other than Government bonds amounted Nov. 20, 1917, to $1,906,000,000, an increase since Nov. 17, 1916, of $196,000,000, and an increase over Sept. 11, 1917, of $43,000,000.

"Capital, surplus, and undivided profits on Nov. 20, 1917, amounted to $2,236,000,000, an increase over Nov. 17, 1916, of $93,000,000."

ON TRIAL FOR COLLISION.

Captain Mowbray Commanded Panama When She Hit Transport.

Captain Norman W. Mowbray, who was in command of the Panama when she collided with an American troopship off Tomkinsville, S. I., on July 30 last, was arraigned before United States District Judge E. S. Thomas yesterday on an indictment charging him with neglect of duty. Francis P. Van Pelt, a Sandy Hook pilot, was also named in the indictment. The indictment states that the transport had 1,200 soldiers on board when rammed by the Panama and that Kenneth K. Kellens lost his life. Captain Mowbray and Van Pelt are charged with inattention to duty and neglect of the navigation laws.

Captain Mowbray said the collision was due to a misreading of signals in the engine room of the Panama. His order for full speed astern, he added, was not properly complied with and the collision was the result.

Captain Mowbray, with the consent of the Government, was paroled so he might get the $5,000 bail fixed by Judge Thomas.

Balanced Power

HARROUN

Promise is good, but Performance is better.

A year ago you saw in the Harroun Motor Car a promise—one brilliant with possibilities yet a promise only.

But this is 1918.

Fulfillment

The Harroun car you so admired at the show a year ago was new and untried. But this year you see a Harroun car bearing a proud record of efficiency, endurance and buoyant power—a record won by the Harroun output in the strenuous test of USE.

On the streets of the city, through the mud and rough going of the country, over the tops of the Rockies and the Sierras, these Harroun cars have made good all the promise you once saw in Ray Harroun's original design.

A Champion

The powerful little racing-type motor, the new and revolutionary application of the cantilever spring principle, the non-freezable radiator core, the shock-absorbing steering wheel—the whole Harroun car—HAS MADE GOOD.

In economy this Harroun car is a champion—46.6 miles to the gallon on the Indianapolis Speedway; 66.4 miles to the gallon on Detroit streets and neighboring roads.

Achievement

To make possible all this fulfillment of promise, Harroun men have, in the same single year, built a great new factory, equipped it with the most highly specialized labor saving machinery known, and begun the large quantity production of Harroun Motor Cars.

Two million dollars, invested with these men by the public, has been built into a great and well-founded business.

Harroun MEN, as well as Harroun CARS, have made good.

Be Ready!

A great fleet of Harroun Motor Cars will be purchased by New Yorkers this year.

SEE TO IT THAT YOUR 1918 CAR IS A HARROUN.

WAR MENU SERVED AT AUTO DINNER

Wines and Liquors Barred at Annual Feast of Accessory Manufacturers.

BIG ATTENDANCE AT SHOW

Many Motorists from Out of the City View the Exhibits—Satisfactory Sales Reported.

Attendance at the automobile show at the Grand Central Palace reached its high-water mark yesterday, which was resignated as Society Day. Many motorists from out of town view the exhibits, and those representing the accessory side of the industry attended the annual dinner of the accessory manufacturers last night at the Waldorf-Astoria. The dinner was attended by 1,000. It was different from previous banquets, as a war menu was served, without wines or liquors.

From the exhibitors' and dealers' standpoint the show has demonstrated its utility as a stimulus of optimism in the trade. While many owners who have usually bought a new car every year are keeping the old one for another season, actual sales and contracts for future deliveries have been satisfactory.

Several dealers from the South have arrived, among them the Anderson brothers, who are showing their car, made at Rock Hill, S. C., for the first time in New York. Southern dealers brought word of a demand greater than the supply. High prices for the cotton crop have made motor vehicles common in many small Southern towns, and a good trade is reported from the negroes. In December the Saxon factory shipped 336 of its 985 touring cars to Atlanta, which was more than had been sent to the South for a year up to last September. It is said there are two or three higher priced cars which have had a greater sale last year from the Atlanta distributing agency than were sold in the New York territory. W. A. Anderson told of a recent visit to the delta lands of Mississippi where he said he found the wealthy planters using Packards, Hudsons, Oldsmobiles, and other higher-priced automobiles. The Anderson car, which has been manufactured in South Carolina for three years, turned out 1,200 last year, all of which were sold, many going to Cuba and South America. The car sells for $1,480 to $1,925, according to the various models.

New Roadster Model.

The little Saxon, which was so popular a few years ago, has been abandoned in favor of the $935 model which is shown in a roadster for four passengers, and a five-passenger touring car. A five-passenger sedan, with divided front seats and upholstered, is a new model, selling for $1,395. It has six cylinders.

The Hudson Super-Sixes form an attractive exhibit, being shown in four models on the standard chassis, practically unchanged from last year, with a 124-inch wheel base. The closed types, including the sedan at $2,860, and the touring limousine at $3,275, present many refinements in artistic body lines.

One of the aristocratic cars in the show is the big blue Pierce-Arrow roadster with an ample rear compartment for additional tires and a valise compartment back of the seat. It sells for $5,400, while the Pierce-Arrow sedan, with every equipment that could be desired, sells for $6,800. It is the most expensive car in the show. The Packard display is equally as aristocratic, the closed cars representing the best designs in most approved body construction.

Among the new makes being put on the market for the first time are the Moore and Templar cars. The Moore is an entrant in the low-priced field, a five-passenger touring car and a roadster on a 106-inch wheel base, with a thirty-horse power, four-cylinder motor, selling for $695 each. Besides these a unique creation in body work is shown in a covered touring car with wicker chairs and a wicker basket adjoining the driver's seat, providing a receptacle for fish, if the motorist is a devotee of the rod and line. The Moore Company has completed a large factory in Danville, Ill., and plans to make 25,000 cars in 1918.

The new Templar is a higher-priced vehicle, its most characteristic model being a roadster selling for $2,255. The motor is four-cylinder and the wheel base 118 inches. It is also made in four and five passenger touring models at $1,985.

New Accessory Device.

One of the new devices in the accessory exhibit to prevent loss of cars by theft is the Nulock, which has attracted considerable attention. It has been designed to meet the requirements of the Fire Departments by making it possible to lock the car and yet permit the front wheels to be moved by hand in case it is necessary to move the car quickly. The device, a small cylinder of steel and bronze, attached to the hub of the steering wheel, makes it possible, by locking, to disconnect the steering wheel from the post. It is latched in such a position that it cannot be returned to its normal position in engagement except by the person having the key for the lock. The device is of simple construction and is made in four sizes for different car equipment.

The show presents some interesting comparisons from former exhibits relating to the tendency in motors. Half a dozen years ago the four-cylinder was the prevailing type. Although more cars of that type are now manufactured, the four-cylinder engine is now used by barely one-third of the makers. There is a distinct gain in the six cylinder motors, as they now constitute more than half of the total designs. Eight cylinders are used in 10 per cent. of the makes, while the five cylinders are represented by 3 per cent. The twelves have an average piston displacement of 386 cubic inches, the eights and sixes average 282 cubic inches and the fours 221 cubic inches.

The thermo-syphon water circulation shows a decline in favor of the thermostats for temperature regulation of water. The front unit of transmission and engine is also increasing.

The L-head cylinder shape has fallen from its 1916 lead of 75 per cent., and is being followed in favor steadily by the overhead valve type. The T-head type shows some gain. Single ignition and electric starting are two features that have consistently shown gains for the last half-dozen years, until the former is now found on 91 per cent. of the cars and the latter on 99 per cent.

AUTOMOBILE SALON CLOSES.

Many Cars Will Be Shipped to the Chicago Exhibit.

The Automobile Salon which opened in the ballroom of the Hotel Astor on New Year's Day closed last night. Many of the cars with their richly designed bodies will be seen at the Chicago automobile show the week of Jan. 27. Robert W. Schuette, American agent for the English Rolls-Royce cars, announced last night that Frederick Royce, the designer of the Rolls-Royce motors for airplanes and motor cars, had received an officer's commission in the British Army in recognition of the performances of British airplanes equipped with his motors. One of them, a big twelve-cylinder engine which was shattered in falling within the allied lines, after a successful combat with three German airplanes, was one of the features in the salon exhibition.

MRS. TOLER INCOMPETENT.

Widow of Broker Who Escaped Asylum Twice Tried Suicide.

The fact that Mrs. Virginia W. Toler, widow of Henry Pennington Toler, attempted suicide by shooting herself twice at her home, 122 East Eighty-second Street, on Oct. 11 last, and that she was removed to New York Hospital until she recovered, and is now in the Sandford Hall Sanitarium, at Flushing, was revealed yesterday when a Sheriff's Jury declared her insane and unable to care for her property. The application for an inquiry was made by her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Pennington Auerbach, wife of John H. Auerbach, a broker, son of Joseph S. Auerbach.

Dr. James A. Hitzrot testified that Mrs. Toler fired one bullet through her body and that the other broke a rib. Dr. Hitzrot said Mrs. Toler constantly asked: "Will you tell me where my heart is and why I did not succeed in hitting it?" The testimony also showed that in the santarium she kept inquiring about her heart so that her next attempt might be successful. She also showed resentment against members of her family, including her daughter and son, Henry P. Toler, now at the front in France, and made threats against her son.

Mrs. Toler is 54 years old. Her property includes $40,000 in bonds deposited with J. P. Morgan & Co.; $13,026 in cash, a residence at Short Hills, N. J., woth $10,000, and the contents of her apartment, $5,000.

The body of Mrs. Toler's husband, who had been a broker, was found in the East River at Sixtieth Street in May, 1910. He had escaped from the Manhattan Hospital for the Insane on Blackwell's Island on February 1, and was identified by a letter in his pocket from Adam H. Dickey, secretary to Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, head of the Christian Science Church.

COSMOPOLITAN stands supreme among all magazines because everybody naturally wants to read the work of the best writers.

That is why more than a million people prefer Cosmopolitan and buy it every month.

If you are not among this million—if to you Cosmopolitan is only "another magazine"—glance at the great names on this page and see what you have been missing.

Who writes more entertaining novels than Robert W. Chambers, Owen Johnson, Booth Tarkington, or Elizabeth Robins?

Who tells a better story than John Galsworthy, Sam Merwin, Theodore Dreiser, George Randolph Chester or Arthur B. Reeve?

Is there a more interesting tale of adventure than Rex Beach's story of his and Fred Stone's pursuit of the cowardly cougar?

What essayist writes more cleverly than Arnold Bennett?

Whose memoirs are more interestingly told than those of Lillie Langtry?

If George Ade isn't the greatest American humorist—who is?

Cosmopolitan pays the most to get the best—and gets it. Most of these authors write exclusively for Cosmopolitan. You will find their work in no other publication.

Then, this evening, enjoy the favorite magazine of more than a million good Americans.

WE ANNOUNCE the Initial Appearance on Sunday, March 3, 1918, of the GRAVURE SECTION SUPREME—the perfection of pictorial Sunday sections—a newspaper without words which will be the FINEST PICTURE PRESENTATION of WORLD NEWS ever offered. Produced by the Intaglio Process.

HEARST'S
PICTORIAL GRAVURE
SECTION

To Appear EVERY SUNDAY Simultaneously in

The New York Sunday American

The Chicago Sunday Examiner

The Boston Sunday Advertiser and American

→ With a Combined Circulation of Over 1,500,000 ←

THIS great "Newspaper Without Words" will be unique in its class, with a fund of vitally interesting pictorial matter at its command not possessed by any other publication in the world.

The events of the world's news—great works of art and interesting scenes—will be reproduced in the matchless form afforded by this wonderful engraving and printing process. The fidelity of the reproduction is unsurpassed.

It is interest-compelling and insures the advertiser one hundred per cent reader attention.

Imagine over 1,500,000 copies, with at least three readers to each copy—the assured attention of over 4,500,000 people!

The International Film Service

The International News Service

The Hearst-Pathe Weekly

And the Great News-Gathering Organizations of the Hearst Newspapers

THIS is a time when cost of advertising and actual productiveness must be taken into account as never before.

It has been proved that for certain lines of advertising which demand photographic perfection in illustration, the Gravure Section of the Sunday newspaper is peculiarly productive.

This new section provides the best of this character of advertising available to either the national or local advertiser.

And it can be bought at a lower rate, per line per thousand of circulation, than has ever been asked for advertising space in a gravure section.

CONTRACTS already scheduled indicate the rapidity with which the advertising space available in the HEARST PICTORIAL GRAVURE will be taken up.

The largest national advertisers, who heretofore have been unable to utilize this most attractive form of advertising, because it did not provide sufficiently large, national circulations, are already contracting for and reserving space in liberal quantities.

The space necessarily is limited, and will be kept limited.

It is advisable for advertisers and advertising agents to make reservations as far in advance as possible. Forms close fifteen days before publication.

Important to Advertisers

Advertising space in Hearst's Pictorial Gravure will be sold in each of the three papers separately, or in the three papers combined, giving both national and local advertisers an opportunity to use this valuable medium.

HYLAN APPOINTS TAMMANY LEADERS

Best Deputyships Go to Wigwam, and Still More Are to Follow.

AHEARN MAY GET PLACE

Borough President, Removed by Governor on Charges, Mentioned for Street Cleaning Head.

Tammany district leaders continued yesterday to gather in many plums in the shape of appointments as deputy commissioners in the various city departments. During the day Mayor Hylan handed several of the best deputyships in the city to men who have long proved their allegiance to the Fourteenth Street Wigwam and it was said that many more leaders are to be similarly favored. Tammany has always looked upon the deputyships during a Democratic city administration as its particular share of the spoils, but it was said yesterday that even Charles F. Murphy will be surprised at the new Mayor's generosity.

William Dalton, Tammany leader of the Third Assembly District, was appointed Deputy Commissioner of Correction at $5,000 a year. John Mara, leader of the Twenty-third District, and long the right-hand man of Thomas F. McAvoy, got a deputyship in the Department of Plants and Structures at $5,000. John J. Dietz, leader of the Eighteenth District was made a deputy in the Water Department also at $5,000. Mr. Dietz is joint leader of the district with Warren H. Hubbard. Stephen J. Nugent, leader of the Fourth Bronx District, was made Third Deputy in the Charities Department, also at $5,000. He succeeds Stanley H. Howe.

Other leaders who cannot be placed in the city departments will be taken care of in the county offices. One of these to obtain an appointment yesterday was Edmund P. Holahan, leader of the Twenty-first District, who was appointed First Deputy Register by Register James A. Donegan, at $5,000 a year. One of the best deputyships in the city slipped through Murphy's fingers, Mayor Hylan making the appointment on his own personal account. It was that of Cornelius M. Sheehan of Brooklyn as Deputy Water Commissioner at a salary of $6,000 a year. Mr. Sheehan was credited with being one of the first to "discover" Judge Hylan as Mayoralty timber, and he represented the Mayor at the final meetings of the Mitchel Board of Estimate before Mayor Hylan took office. The new appointee will succeed Delos F. Wilcox of Elmhurst, who [illegible] thority on city problems. The Mayor made another personal appointment in Edward G. Nelson, made Assistant Corporation Counsel, and assigned to the Mayor's office. The position pays $6,000. Mr. Nelson lives in Mayor Hylan's own assembly district and he will take up the work of William B. Crowell, who is a Major in the United States Army. Mr. Nelson, while a Democrat, is not connected with any political club.

Mayor Hylan, who arrivd at his office at 19 minutes to 9 o'clock yesterday morning, put in a busy day, not leaving the City Hall until 7 P. M. He wrote to Police Commissioner Bugher and Fire Commissioner Drennan complimenting them upon the work they did during the recent cold spell.

The Mayor also sent a letter to Miss Doris Stevens, New York member of the Executive Committee of the National Women's Party, in which he stated that he is "heartily in favor of the passage of the Federal suffrage amendment."

The Mayor has not yet filled the offices of Health Commissioner, Street Cleaning Commissioner or Commissioner of Accounts. It was rumored that the appointment of Street Cleaning Commissioner may go to John F. Ahearn. Mr. Ahearn was Borough President of Manhattan during the McClellan administration, and was removed from office by the Governor after charges had been filed against him. Louis F. Haffen, who was removed as Borough President of the Bronx during the same administration, has already been appointed a consulting engineer at $7,200. H. Milton Kennedy, a contractor, is also being mentioned as Street Cleaning Commissioner.

Chairman Oscar S. Straus of the Public Service Commission had an hour's conference with the Mayor. Later Mr. Straus said he had discussed public utilities, and the Mayor and the commission would work in close co-operation for the benefit of the city. At a meeting yesterday the Board of Aldermen made up its committees for the next two years. There is one Socialist member on every committee. The Committees on Apportionment and on Departments were eliminated, and in their places was established a Committee on Labor and Industry and one on State Legislation. Regarding the work of this latter committee, President Smith of the board said:

"The Board of Aldermen proposes to keep track of legislative proposals affecting the City of New York and by resolution duly adopted will make known to the legislative leaders the attitude of the city as represented by the board on legislation of any kind that affects the City of New York."

One Socialist member, Alderman Valdeck of Brooklyn, introduced a resolution calling on the Corporation Counsel to report to the board in not less than six weeks on the means of "taking over the B. R. T. system, with or without State authority." The resolution declares that the service of the B. R. T. "grows always worse," and adds: "There is regard only for profits. To put it plainly, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit has been getting away with murder, and the time is ripe for the city to act decisively and at once. The people of Brooklyn are sick, sore, and disgusted with the whole miserable business."

Mayor John F. Hylan is to become an Elk. With Borough President Edward Riegelmann, Sheriff Daniel J. Griffin, and Register Richardson Webster, he will be initiated as a member of the Brooklyn Lodge of the order at the clubhouse in South Oxford Street on Jan. 18.

BUGHER APPOINTS DEPUTY.

Cambridge A. Livingston Will Try All Police Cases.

Police Commissioner Bugher yesterday appointed Cambridge A. Livingston, a lawyer, of 20 Fifth Avenue, as Third Deputy Police Commissioner. Mr. Livingston will be the trial deputy, presiding at the hearings of policemen accused of departmental offenses. He is expected to begin hearings today or tomorrow, as there is an accumulation of some 125 cases waiting decision. He is a Harvard man and an independent Democrat.

F. J. SHEPARD OPERATED ON.

Finley J. Shepard, who was operated on at New York Hospital ten days ago to relieve pressure behind his left eye, will not lose the sight of his eye, according to his Secretary, C. C. Hultt. Mr. Shepard, the husband of Mrs. Helen Gould Shepard, is engaged in the management of the Gould railroad properties. He will be able to return to his desk in about two weeks, it was said.

"Dr. Arnold Knapp performed the operation, which was the removal of pressure behind the left eye," said Mr. Hultt. "Of course, all operations are attended by more or less danger, but there is no truth in a report that Mr. Shepard was at any time in danger of losing his sight. His sight is very keen and his eyes have always been in the best of condition."

Drops Women Letter Carriers.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 9.—Women letter carriers are not a success, according to Postmaster Colin L. Selph, who, after giving them a fifteen days' trial on several city routes, announced today their services would be required no longer. Work was too heavy for them, he said.

CHICAGO OPERA REPERTOIRE

"Isabeau" to Open Season Jan. 22—Galli-Curci in Second Week.

The Chicago Opera Company last night made public the opening bills for its New York season of four weeks, to start Tuesday, Jan. 22, at the Lexington Opera House, Lexington Avenue and Fifty-first Street. In response to recent reports from the West, the statement particularly added that "Among the stars announced for appearance in the second week at the Lexington are Mmes. Melba and Galli-Curci and Riccardo Stracciari."

Mascagni's "Isabeau" will open the company's visit East, as it did the ten weeks in Chicago; it will be sung by Rosa Raisa as the Lady Godiva, with Giulio Crimi and Baklanoff. The Wednesday opera will be "Romeo and Juliet," with Genevieve Vix and Muratore; Thursday, "Thais," Mary Garden, Dalmores, Dufranne; Friday, "Jewels of the Madonna," Raisa, Crimi, and Rimini; Saturday matinee, "Manon," Vix and Muratore, and Saturday night, Jan. 26, Henry Hadley's "Azora."

GERMANS IN 'BEHIND WALLS'

Nathansen's Drama Has Its American Premiere at Irving Place.

Marriage between Jew and Gentile is the theme of Henri Nathansen's drama, "Behind Walls," which, under the title of "Hinter Mauern," had its first performance in this country last night at the German Irving Place Theatre. The play is one which has attracted considerable attention in Germany and Austria, and is largely responsible for the reputation of its author, a Dane. It treats its subject interestingly and vigorously, and is paricularly excellent in its character drawing.

Anni Rub-Foerster and Hanns Unterkirchner gave good performances as the lovers of opposite creed, and among others in the company were Heinrich Marlow, who directed the production; Richard Feist, and Clairette Clair. "Hinter Mauern" will be the program at the Irving Place for the balance of the week.

Miss Anglin in 'Electra' and 'Medea.'

The Symphony Society of New York, Walter Damrosch conductor, announces two special performances of "Electra" by Sophocles and "Medea" by Euripides in Carnegie Hall, with Margaret Anglin and her company, and with special music composed by Walter Damrosch, to be played by the entire New York Symphony Orchestra. Miss Anglin will portray the title rôles in both plays.

"Electra" will be given on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 6, at 2:20 o'clock, and "Medea" on Friday afternoon, Feb. 15, at the same hour. These performances will be similar to those given by Miss Anglin in the Greek Theatre at the University of California.

Philharmonic Gives Special Concert.

The orchestra of the Philharmonic Society gave a special concert last evening in Carnegie Hall, playing Tschaikowsky's Fourth Symphony and other numbers of Weber and Smetana, with Mendelssohn's violin concerto, for Sergeant David Hochstein, and an air from Massenet's "Thaïs," for Maggie Teyte.

"Aida" Sung for Fourth Time.

Verdi's "Aida" was sung at the Metropolitan last evening for the fourth time this season, and to a large and brilliant audience. The cast was a familiar one, including Muzio, Matzenauer, Martinelli, Amato, Mardones, and Moranzoni conducted.

Dies at Automobile Show.

While visiting the Automobile Show in the Grand Central Palace last night Miss Ella Elliott, 65 years old, of White Plains was seized with a heart attack and died before medical help arrived.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Hour Glass," by William Butler Yeats, is announced as one of the short plays which will be on the next program of the Washington Square Players. The others will be "Suppressed Desires," by George Cram Cook and Susan Glaspell; "The Sand Bar Queen," by George Cronyn, and "Pokey" by Philip Moeller. The new bill will be offered at the Comedy on Jan. 21.

Mrs. Mannheimer will give the first of a series of three weekly readings tomorrow morning at 11 at the Waldorf-Astoria. She will read Brieux's play, "False Gods."

Margot Kelly, seen here in "Pierrot, the Prodigal," is soon to enter vaudeville in a pantomime.

Only four cities outside of New York will be visited by Mrs. Fiske this season in "Madame Sand." They will be Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, and Cincinnati.

The first of a series of five addresses and dramatic readings by Butler Davenport will be given Sunday afternoon at the Bramhall Playhouse.

Performances of "Over the Top" on the roof of the Forty-fourth Street Theatre will begin at 8:45 o'clock hereafter, instead of 9.

DRY LAWS REDUCE STATE'S REVENUES

Controller Travis Estimates That Excise Tax Will Be Cut to $5,750,000.

REFORM IN ROAD WORK

Whitman Recommends That State Employ Laborers Direct—New Committees Named.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 9.—The State's income from the excise tax during the next fiscal year will be cut almost one-half, according to an estimate furnished by Controller Travis and transmitted to the Legislature by Governor Whitman in a special message tonight.

The State's revenue from the excise tax during the current fiscal year, which will end on June 30, estimated in part, is placed in the Governor's message at $10,850,000. This is a decrease of $1,835,228 from the amount collected during the preceding fiscal year, which was $12,685,228. According to the Controller's estimate the revenue from the liquor tax during the fiscal year beginning July 1 will be $5,750,000 in round figures.

This, the Governor states in his message, will be due in part to new "dry" territory to be created after the cities have held their first election under the Hill local option law.

The estimated resources and revenues during the next fiscal year available for general budget appropriations by the present Legislature, are:

Cash balance July 1	$11,084,423
Stenographers' tax	431,607
Excise tax	5,750,000
Corporation tax	20,000,000
Incorporation tax	1,400,000
Inheritance tax	14,000,000
Stock transfer tax	6,100,000
Investment tax	2,500,000
Mortgage tax	1,180,000
Motor vehicle tax	2,375,000
Canal maintenance receipts	150,000
Other revenues	4,554,159

These revenues, in round numbers $58,000,000, represent a falling off of approximately $8,000,000 in receipts from the preceding year.

Points to $20,000,000 Levy.

The cash balance and the income from sources of indirect taxation as enumerated would furnish $69,525,189 toward meeting the requirements of the budget approved by the Governor and embodied in his tentative budget bill, of which the grand total is $78,458,209. This amount includes $13,017,805 for the various sinking funds. It is proposed to levy a direct tax to meet the debt service demands for the next fiscal year, and on the strength of the Controller's figures it would appear that necessity calls for a levy of approximately $20,000,000 to provide a sufficient cash balance for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1919.

One recommendation in the Governor's special message which aroused considerable discussion in the Capitol corridors had reference to the work of the Highway Department, of which Governor Whitman's close personal and political friend, Edwin Duffy of Cortland, is head. The Governor recommended that the present system of having road construction and maintenance done by contract labor be abandoned and that laborers on the public highways of the State be employed by the State direct. In other years a force numbering many thousands of menhas been at work for the various highway contractors.

The Committees.

Assemblyman Raymond T. Kenyon, Republican from Essex County, heads the new War Committee of the Assembly. This committee ranks in importance second to the Committee on Ways and Means. To it will be referred every piece of war legislation that comes before the lower house this Winter. Other members are Machold, Jefferson; Kasson, Fulton-Hamilton; Welch, Albany; McGinnies, Chautauqua; Everett, St. Lawrence; Zimmerman, Erie; Wiltsie, Cortland; Showers, Greene; Freuchot, Niagara; Davis, Montgomery; Mead, Erie; O'Hare, Queens; Seeselberg, Richmond; Goldberg, New York.

THE INCOME TAX DELAY.

It is said that the blanks necessary for making income tax returns will be ready "next week." Half of the first month of the period for making the returns will have passed by then before a single return is made, and the period was none too long at best. Millions of tax money is tied up until this uncertainty is past, and the labors of taxpayers and taxcollectors are increased in intensity. None of the various explanations are convincing.

It is said that the blanks were prepared, and were recalled to correct errors, and that the work is all to be done over again. The suggestion that the errors were in the blanks is less likely than that they were in the law. Daily interpretations are announced for which there is no basis in the words of the statute, but without which the law could neither be worked nor commend itself to the taxpayers.

The last consideration is important. Enthusiasm about making these tax payments had been worked up in the manner of floating a Liberty Loan. There were bands and lectures, and the feeling was encouraged that these taxes were less for the support of government than for the support of the defenders of democracy and of the ideals to which the country rallied as soon as the President raised the standard. Now this fine feeling is chilled, and disrespect is growing for the law, and for the well-meaning officials who are not to be blamed for the faults of the lawmakers. Congress could not have taken a better way to convince the country that all the talents and virtues are not concentrated in itself.

There is no firm basis for the suggestion that the delay with the blanks is due to the hope that Congress can be induced to reconsider its resolution not to improve upon its efforts to enact a workable statute. The reference to the Attorney General of the legality of the interpretation of the Treasury regarding valuations under the excess profits tax involves millions of taxes, and is more important in its implications. If a beginning is made by the Treasury in casting into doubt the findings of its own officials, where shall the ending be if affronted taxpayers assume a like privilege by taking the law into court? The Treasury is not imprudent in taking into account the reckoning between itself and those who must account to it in none too good temper on account of the work of the lawmakers. Congress itself might well imitate the Treasury in considering what lies ahead if it persists in the errors which have been pointed out so numerously and authoritatively. The Smoot substitute is in some quarters considered to be an improvement at least. If a better substitute can be found, Congress will not be excused for not finding it. The blanks cannot be prepared or issued or executed until Congress itself has definitively made up its mind. But already a beginning has been made in the process of change, and the public mind is receptive of more. Meanwhile Congress is in a state of indecision, and cannot determine whether to go ahead or to take a chance on what may be the result of brazening it out.

SELF-DISPOSITION OF PEOPLES.

Chancellor VON HERTLING, that impulsive young Bavarian democrat, is all for "the principle of the free disposition of peoples" and the plebiscite, the latter, of course, in the hands of men who know how to work it successfully. It is really affecting to hear, it would draw tears down BISMARCK's iron cheek, were he alive to hear the Chancellor say that:

> The question of the restoration of the departments of Northern France [is] to be determined on the principle of the rights of the people to dispose of themselves.

Wondrous fine! Let the Poles of Silesia, West Prussia, Posen, Ermland, and Masuria dispose of themselves. Let the Danes of Schleswig-Holstein dispose of themselves. Let the people of Hanover, Hesse-Cassel—we believe that Dr. HERTLING is a Hessian by birth—and of Saxony, which took the side of Austria in 1866 and were promptly invaded by Prussia, dispose of themselves. Take a vote in Nassau and Frankfort, which Prussia swallowed with Hanover, Schleswig-Holstein, and Electoral Hesse.

The deep love of the Saxons for the Prussians is notorious. How is it with the South Germans, with democratic Baden, and Württemberg, with Bavaria itself, Prussianized and annexationist as the royal and ruling class is? The South German is a different animal from the Prussian, more kindly and human. There is no love lost between them. Let the German and Slav "tribes" in Germany dispose of themselves!

THE SUFFRAGE AMENDMENT.

The House of Representatives is to vote today upon the woman suffrage amendment. The serious spirit with which a far-reaching change in the American polity is approached by Congress has been evident all along. At the last moment the seven-year limit, retained in the prohibition amendment, has been stricken out of the suffrage amendment. What did Congress care whether the form of the amendment, doubly curious in the case of the prohibition amendment, was constitutional or not? A determined minority cried for the prohibition amendment. Let them have it. "The votes in it" are the lofty consideration of the politician. If the amendment won't hold water, so much the better.

Apparently the woman suffrage leaders are more severe or suspicious. So the changed amendment comes to a vote today. The Republicans think they see "votes in it." They decided yesterday to give it the party support. Then the Democrats took fright. The Southern Democrats, who know that grave dangers for the future in their States are in this amendment, have all along been implored by their brethren to plump for it and save the Democratic Party. The action of the Republicans forced their hand. In alarm they went to the President and persuaded him to abandon his preference for State suffrage and say a favoring word for the Federal amendment. With his powerful backing they felt that they could go back home and hold their shaking knees reasonably rigid as they faced the anti-suffrage constituencies who by their votes they will misrepresent today. Pro-German socialism gave the women the vote in New York; the chicken-heartedness of Democratic Congressmen who put the saving of their seats above all conviction and principle will give it many votes in the House.

That members of Congress are invested with a grave duty, responsibility, and discretion in the matter of submitting constitutional amendments; that they should not be weakly persuaded or frightened by an artificial clamor into that submission; that no merely doubtful permanent change of the Constitution should be encouraged—these considerations seem to occur to too few Congressmen. "The Congress, whenever two-"thirds of both houses shall deem it "necessary, shall propose amend-"ments to this Constitution." "Shall deem it necessary" doesn't mean "shall think it advisable politically out of fear for their seats."

The war is more than an ample, it is an imperative, reason, why this controversy should not be forced upon the country now. Do the Southern members in particular believe that Federal woman suffrage will help to "insure domestic tranquillity"? Does anybody think that it will "provide for the common defense"?

Just at the moment when the majority of the New York Representatives are willfully misinterpreting the chance vote of New York for State suffrage as a mandate to vote for Federal suffrage, the Anti-Woman Suffrage Association, representing, as it believes, the majority of the women of New York, is working for the submission to the people by the Legislature of a male suffrage amendment to the State Constitution. The nimble gentlemen at Washington will need all their agility.

THE BACKWARD SHIPBUILDING PROGRAM.

A sensation seems to have been caused by the testimony of President FERGUSON of the Newport News Shipbuilding Company before the Senate Commerce Committee that the Government's program of 6,000,000 tons in 1918, including requisitions, could not be carried out because housing facilities for shipyard workers were not available. "You cannot get ships," said Mr. FERGUSON, "unless houses are provided for workmen," and he added that it was idle to talk of even double shifts under present conditions. Referring to his own yards, he made this statement:

> We have not enough men to work one shift, and in one house I know of eighteen persons are living in five rooms. We have not the money to build houses, and it is the duty of the Government to put them up. We are ready to furnish the land.

This moved Senator MARTIN to say that "if housing is so badly needed "the Government can get the money "within forty-eight hours for the pur-"pose." Indignation with this state of things is natural. Whether there would be relief if it were generally known that housing for workers has for some time been a concern of the Shipping Board would depend upon the point of view. On Dec. 30 Chairman HURLEY wrote a letter to Senator FLETCHER of the Commerce Committee asking for an appropriation of $35,000,000 for the erection of houses at shipyards. An elaborate bill has been drawn to effect that purpose. The creation of boards within boards is a habit of the Council of National Defense. Mr. HURLEY, in his letter to Senator FLETCHER, said that the War Industries Board had appointed a Committee on Housing, with OTTO M. EIDLITZ as Chairman, to investigate and advise on the situation. It had recommended adequate housing facilities, but, wrote Mr. HURLEY:

> Owing to the fact that this problem had not yet reached a critical stage at the time Congress adjourned at its last session, and that no request had been made to Congress for an appropriation to provide necessary houses, Mr. EIDLITZ was unable to do more than suggest.

In other paragraphs of his letter Chairman HURLEY admitted that the problem had become critical long before the adjournment of Congress. He named yard after yard where conditions were very unsatisfactory, among them the plant at Newport News. On Nov. 1 he appointed J. ROGERS FLANNERY "to see what could "be done to help the housing facili-"ties at the shipyards." Congress did not adjourn until just before Christmas. In closing, Mr. HURLEY said that "housing facilities must be ob-"tained for the large army of labor "that must live where the Govern-"ment's operations are being con-"ducted on such an enormous scale."

Yet Chairman HURLEY wrote over his own signature that the problem "had not yet reached a critical stage "at the time Congress adjourned." Mr. FERGUSON declared in his statement to the Commerce Committee that his company had asked the Government to advance $1,500,000 for the construction of workmen's houses at Newport News, but "no action has been taken, we are simply ignored." He had talked about the matter with "General GOETHALS and Admiral CAPPS "and Chairman HURLEY of the Ship-"ping Board," and after nine months of effort was "sick of the subject."

When has housing for shipyard workers not been a problem? The original trouble was, of course, the failure of the draftsmen of the United States Shipping Board act to visualize the obvious necessity and provide an appropriation. That was during the month of August or earlier. It is a pity that a practical shipbuilder like HOMER L. FERGUSON was not consulted. The blunder might have been remedied long before the adjournment of Congress. Probably it would have been if the boards and committees had not made confusion by duplicating effort and getting in the way of one another. A pressing reform is elimination and co-ordination. The Government is tangled in a maze of these agencies. But no time should be lost by Senator FLETCHER in pushing his appropriation bill for the relief of shipyards to passage. The Emergency Fleet Corporation has planned a town for workers in the Government shipbuilding plant at Hog Island on the Delaware, having funds for the purpose, but if new construction is to be speeded at the private shipyards they must also have housing facilities. Of all things necessary to win the war ships indisputably hold first place.

STOCK DIVIDENDS NOT INCOME.

The Supreme Court adopts the homely analogy of Mr. HUGHES in his argument against the taxation of a stock dividend as income. Mr. HUGHES said that the recapitalization process was like changing a $2 bill for two $1 bills. The property represented was not changed by the words on the bills. Justice HOLMES's way of stating the same thing is this:

> A stock dividend really takes nothing from the property of the corporation and adds nothing to the interest of the shareholders. Its property is not diminished and their interests are not increased. In short, the corporation is no poorer and the stockholder is no richer than they were before.

That is important regarding the tax payment, but is more important in other relations. Some $100,000,000 of capital is freed from the tax, but that concerns nobody with income below $20,000, the minimum paying the tax. The broader application of the decision lies in its bearing upon pricemaking. It ought to end the notion held by many people and some officials that printing shares of stock gives power of extortion to corporations. Nobody is capable of thinking that because of this decision the price of the goods made by the company is or can be increased. If doubling the shares doubled the productive capacity of the plant, there would be such a superfluity of capacity of production that prices could not be maintained. Markets would be flooded, and consumers would be benefited. But, as the court points out, increasing the number of shares alters nothing except the rate of dividend. The sum to be divided is not increased because the capital is increased. The dividend total depends upon the productive capacity and market conditions. Corporations are paid only for the work they do. They are not paid according to their capital, whether it is real or nominal, nor according to whether their shares are in dollars or cents, or whether they are many or few. A corporation selling products makes profits by economies of production and sales. The profits depend on prices fixed either by the market or by Government regulation. Flagrant recapitalization did not alter freight rates at all for Chicago & Alton, any more than this decision altered the price of hardware.

Yet ideas to the contrary persist and color legislation to this day. There was no greater fault in regulation of railway rates than the notion that the watering of shares in some way affected the rates fixed by a Commission for thirty years without knowledge of what railway facilities cost. In the physical valuation proceeding somewhere between fifty and a hundred millions are now being spent upon this delusion.

DELIBERATION IN MISSISSIPPI.

The Mississippi Legislature has bathed itself in glory. It has harvested the imperishable renown of being the first State to ratify the prohibition amendment, and it has treated its envious neighbors to the spectacle of a great deliberative body giving its consent to the alteration of the fundamental law only after pondered and long discussion. In exactly fifteen minutes Mississippi decided to part with her right to regulate or prevent the manufacture and sale of liquor within her borders. In exactly fifteen minutes she did all in her power to fasten prohibition forever upon unwilling as well as willing States.

Doubtless a really momentous question such as an alteration in the fee for licensing dogs, if license of any kind is permitted in so stanch a prohibition State, would have given rise to days of debate among the Jackson statesmen. A trifle like a constitutional amendment can be put through almost as quickly as a serious person changes his clothes.

THE INSTANCE OF MR. PURDY.

Mr. LAWSON PURDY, for ten years President of the Tax Board, with whose services the new Municipal Administration was graciously pleased to dispense, has been elected General Director and Secretary of the New York Charity Organization Society, a new and important place combining functions hitherto intrusted to two officers of the society. There is nothing unusual in this; in fact, it is quite an old story. When Government, National, City or State, for political reasons rejects ability and experience, private organizations, for solid business reasons, very often invite them to posts of responsibility.

The occasion for comment, for surprise, almost even for doubt as to the perfect wisdom of men whom the votes and the enthusiasm of the people sometimes raise to power, is to be found in the alacrity and eagerness of public administrative heads to deprive themselves of the service of tried and valuable men. Beyond all doubt or any possibility of question, Mr. LAWSON PURDY was the best-qualified man in the City of New York to be at the head of the Tax Board. His long experience gave him a knowledge no other man possesses, and in an office where any departure from the rule of impartial justice, any yielding to improper influence or the impulses of favoritism, any evidence of incapacity, would have invoked loud public protest, Mr. PURDY won the entire confidence and respect of the tax-paying community. The City Government lets him go, the Charity Organization instantly seizes upon him.

Yet there are blind, deluded men who still cherish the hope that some time the administration of City affairs will be treated as business, not as a political plum-tree. The case of Mr. PURDY shows that the wheels of O Time can roll backward as well as forward.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Ireland Learns a Lesson. Some astonishment, strangely enough, seems to be mingled with the grief and anger felt in the Irish city of Waterford at the sinking by German submarines of two steamers owned and manned by Irishmen and carrying Irish passengers. The astonishment must be due to the existence there, hitherto, of the belief, so laboriously cultivated by one Irish class, that any enemy of England must necessarily be the friend of Ireland, and that German friendship has the ordinary implications of the same quality or emotion in other people.

This pathetic illusion no longer exists in Waterford, for such affection as Germany feels for Ireland as a troubler of British policy did not prevent her submarine commanders from attacking the two Irish vessels and sending them to the bottom with all on board. The only effect it had, apparently, was that the commanders made a special effort, in the case of one ship successfully, to render the destruction complete—in other words, to carry out the advice which the now famous LUXBURG gave with respect to the ships of Argentina, another object of German friendship. This amiable intention was foiled by the drifting ashore on the Welsh coast of some wreckage that has been identified as coming from the second of the two Irish ships.

As Waterford knows that the crews and passengers of British steamers are usually allowed to row ashore if they can, with only a little desultory shelling, after they have been set adrift, her people are revising the faith they formerly had in the value of German friendship and have reluctantly come to the conclusion that, dangerous as is German hostility to sailor folk, it is preferable to its opposite. To some such view, according to report, several other even more efficient vassals of Germany, including Turkey, Bulgaria, and Austria-Hungary, are coming, or have already arrived. Germany is for Germany, ruthlessly and wholly, and she has, not friends, but tools, to be used, worn out, and broken as fast as her own interest demands.

Annoying as Well as Useless. In the magazine Printers' Ink there appears an elaborate protest, made by the advertising manager of a Boston shoe manufactory, against the vast amount of paper that is daily wasted in this country by the mailing of so-called "business literature," the usual destination of which is the recipient's wastebasket. He tells what he has himself thus thrown away from a single mail, and it makes a list that would be amazingly long if almost everybody did not receive a considerable quantity of these troublesome appeals and was not therefore able to imagine how many more of them must go to people from whom more in the way of business could be hoped or expected.

Just how much of this "literature" is read before it is destroyed nobody could tell. Some of it, no doubt, even when uninvited, accomplishes the designed end of exciting interest and getting orders, but this fraction is small, and the huge remainder is not only worse than a waste of the sender's money; it produces something of irritation or animosity, and therefore hurts business rather than helps it.

With paper now scarce as well as costly, the waste involved in sending out uninvited appeals for custom is reprehensible as well as injudicious. When requests for information as to goods or prices are made as a result of seeing advertisements in public print, responses in the form of well-prepared and written circular letters sent by mail are easily defensible and they are then effective as well as legitimate.

Are They Preparing a Retreat? Reports from Belgium are to the effect that the Germans, not satisfied with the heavy taxes laid on the inhabitants of that unhappy country and regularly collected under pretense of meeting the natural expenses of any administration, are now systematically completing the process of removing to Germany portable property of every kind. The ascribed purpose of the robberies is the utter ruin of the Belgians in order that for many a year after the war they may not be industrial competitors of their present masters.

The theory is entirely plausible, if any be needed beyond that of a characteristic desire on the part of the Germans to take from non-Germans whatever they have that Germans want. But the stripping of Belgium may have another significance—it may mean that the Germans think or fear that at no remote date they may withdraw from that country under military compulsion and that they are determined, as much as they can, to deprive their present enemies of advantages that might be derived from a chance of more or less speedy restoration to prosperity. They may be doing, that is, exactly what they did in France before withdrawing to the so-called Hindenburg line—creating a desert for the never-to-be-forgiven foe to occupy after themselves.

The utter ruin of Belgium is hardly compatible with an intention to remain in it permanently, or even long.

Another German Illusion. Among the many queer orders issued to the German newspapers by the Kaiser's industrious and ingenious board of censorship, about the most puzzling is the one forbidding "publications which permit to be recognized the effectiveness of geology or kindred sciences in the service of the army." This prohibition applied, it seems, to technical journals as well as to the papers giving, or pretending to give, general information to ordinary, unspecialized readers.

It takes some thinking to arrive at a plausible explanation of this ban, and the best that can be imagined is not entirely satisfactory. Perhaps, however, the basis of the order was a naïve belief that without a suggestion from Germany it would not occur to the other nations to exploit the military possibilities of the sciences, like geology, that are not directly and obviously applicable to the conduct of war.

Such a notion would harmonize with the opinions entertained in Germany as to the intelligence of her neighbors. As a matter of fact, however, the Allies, from the very beginning of the war, have made much use of scientists of all sorts, and the geologists, French and British, have been of great assistance in the laying out of trenches and the placing of cannon, just as meteorologists have been of enormous assistance in the work of the aviators.

ART NOTES.

A Collection of Chinese Art Objects —Some Modern Paintings.

The Barton collection of Chinese bronzes, lacquers, and embroideries, and the Barnes collection of Chinese porcelains are on view at the Anderson Galleries prior to their sale by auction next week. The early bronzes ascribed to the Shang dynasty, which runs back almost as far before the birth of Christ as the present century is after that date, will, of course, arouse the most interest among collectors and experts. The itinerant critic cannot attempt to disentangle the complicated system by which the Orient places its art product in the various divisions of time markings its long history. The old bronzes are interesting enough in themselves with their dense patina and vigorous shapes; and the pieces attributed to the dynasties before the Ming claim the admiration of a public now thoroughly awakened to the force and stimulating quality of primitive design. The technically excellent work of the Ming artisans and those of subsequent periods are charming in refinement and delicacy of execution, but their appeal slackens in comparison with the earlier art. The collection includes a group of pottery figures and a sculptured stone head that is given to the Han dynasty.

A Group of Modern Painters.

At the Montross Galleries this month is a group of modern painters not quite cryptic enough to fall under the popular classification of "modernist," although one or two have passed through that stage to return to the more familiar traditions. Henry Fitch Taylor's "The Grist Mill—Cornish" is an excellent example of the treatment of a familiar subject with modern method and without losing sight of objective reality. Middleton Manigault's "Still Life" is another picture in which the spectator sees a natural representation of plant life and the ordinary furniture of an ordinary room, while the experienced gallery visitor notes also an expressive linear construction in the drawing of the long sensitive leaves, a planned artistic effect in their contrast with the short lines and sharp angles of the cane-work of the stand on which the plant is placed, and a general interplay of all the lines and shapes in a pattern as subtle as it is bold. Other exhibitors are George Bellows, Guy Pène Du Bois, Edwin Grossman, Robert Henri, Leon Kroll, Max Kuehne, George F. Of, Walter Pach, Maurice Prendergast, Morgan Russell, and S. MacDonald Wright.

Deportation for Pro-Germans.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

While the drastic punishment meted out to the New Haven lawyer who proclaimed his contempt for our country and his desire to see Germany win was deserved, it would seem better to have the Government take a hand in such cases and insist upon the deportation of these pro-Germans. Give them no assistance, but order them to leave the country and see that they go. L. B. S.

A VICTORY IN THE FIELD.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I most favorably approve the editorial article in THE TIMES of Monday, Jan. 7, commenting on the unfortunate necessity for the restatement of the peace terms by Lloyd George. It cannot be insisted too strongly that the way to win the war and establish the peace we all long for is to stop the discussion of supposed peace terms. We must have a positive success on the field to terminate the German militarism, and we only weaken our condition and put this off by giving the weak-hearted the occasion to talk about peace.

The Place of Our Chief Interests.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The writer feels most grateful to THE TIMES for the publication of the series of articles now appearing on your editorial page over the signature of "An American Jurist."

The broad apprehension displayed in these articles of the unique world position and independent interests of the United States renders these articles most timely and gives them great permanent value.

I wish to suggest that the second paragraph in the article appearing in your issue of Jan. 8 ought certainly to be read in the light of the concluding paragraph of the same article. The second paragraph begins: "The interests of America most concerned in the final treaties which will embody the consummation of this greatest of modern wars may be classified as (1) Mexican, (2) Canadian, (3) West Indian, (4) Asiatic and Pacific."

Of course, the writer of the article has not for a moment overlooked the truth that for every nation those interests are greatest which concern domestic tranquillity, industry, and progress, but it is feared that not every reader will apply the necessary modification. One is reminded of the teacher of political economy who, at the close of a "problem" course in which he had put a large share of enthusiasm, asked his students what three things would be most essential to a group of individuals cast upon an isolated land. He hoped, of course, to hear the answer—a fertile soil, a favorable climate, and some of the implements of husbandry. But so easily is the controversial emphasized and the obvious slighted, his students answered as with one voice—free trade, sound money, and universal suffrage.

The purpose of the foregoing is to emphasize the hope that Americans will realize during the perilous discussion which will attend the close of the European war that their chief interests are still within their continental boundaries. If it had not been considered and were not still considered that these interests were endangered, America would not be, at this moment, a participant in the struggle. Yet the absorption of interest by armies and events located on European soil tends temporarily to dwarf the importance of domestic affairs and exaggerate that of foreign relations. It is important, therefore, at every stage to note how little permanent interest the people of the United States can have in questions of national boundaries or forms of government in other continents.

A Changed Policy.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The dawn of a new economic conception is breaking. Conceive an Attorney General sworn to oppose and prosecute wrongs petitioning the Supreme Court to defer hearing and adjudicating a case of alleged wrongdoing. If a condition is wrong in peace time it is worse in war time, because a "stifling monopoly" has easier going and less opposition in time of stress than when "business" is running normally. It is no sign of weakness to be mistaken and less so to admit it. Why does not the Attorney General courageously admit his theory is wrong and abandon the harassing if not destructive policy? Our pressing needs at the moment indicate that centralization, instead of having gone too far, has not gone far enough, and the Government has stepped in to accelerate the movement irresistibly tending in that direction.

Insolent Enemies at Home.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a naturalized citizen but with the feeling of a real and true American I would like to put this question: "How long are we going to tolerate those miserable scoundrels who live and prosper under the protection of our flag, and at the same time work for our destruction?"

A new example of their boldness reported in your news columns from New Haven, Conn., is a German-American's impertinent reply on his draft questionnaire with the words of "Deutschland ueber Alles" written across it, and hopes for Germany's victory, also alluding to us as big bluffers, and saying that we could not bluff Germany nor him. In order to win this war and help win democracy, it is my opinion that it is even more important to fight the enemies within than those without, and unless we punish some of them their crimes will become so great that it may bring demoralization to all our forces and doom us to failure. Division of the Moslems.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Permit me to make a criticism of the word "Moslems" instead of "Turks" when speaking of the allied advance in Palestine. The use of this word would make it appear that the war in Palestine was a war between Moslems and Christians instead of between the Allies and the Central Powers. When one considers that Turkey had 15,000,000 Moslem subjects which have ceased to pay her allegiance, while Great Britain has 95,000,000, France 22,000,000, and Russia 13,906,972, and we ourselves a few in the Philippines, it is plain that this is not a crusade. When one remembers that the Turks are allied with Christian powers it is equally plain that it is not a jehad.

More War Savings Stamps.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am a resident of the upper west side. I find it almost impossible to secure war savings stamps in any considerable amount. There is a State bank in my neighborhood, but to my frequent demands for stamps comes the reply, "We are out of them." At most they sell me five or six. Cannot the banks and drug stores purchase these stamps in large quantities, thereby encouraging the spirit of thrift on the part of citizens who are anxious to avail themselves of the opportunity the Government offers?

THE WAR MAP.

Between the black and dotted line
Our world's encompassed—yours and mine—
And all the rest
Seems territorial to that space.
There, paths through sky and sea converge!
And in the solemn urge, peril's forgot!
Sons of the air, fly fast, fly far!
Speed, men of the sea, our forces where
The dew is red—
The nations' sign—
Between that black and dotted line!

Between the black and dotted line
Our freedom's measured—yours and mine.
Here is the test,
So purposeful, the waste.
Hope of all peoples here is merged,
And, in the onward surge, self is forgot!
Through battle cloud, fly high, fly low—
On, hero-brothers, how ye crowd
Where vision's clear
And cause enshrined

America After the War

Public Attention Will Be Directed Toward Mexico For Military and Commercial Reasons—An Orderly, Independent Neighbor Our Aim.

By AN AMERICAN JURIST.

CHAPTER V.—MEXICO.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

AFTER the general peace, ending the present great war, the American Government will be compelled to pay closer attention to the disturbed state of Mexico. The great increase of America's national debt, her increased taxation, and the artificial limitations placed on her ability to cope with either England or Germany in world commerce will compel America to promote better conditions of trade and intercourse on her own continent. To this end Mexico must be pacified and the Government made more stable. Stability and security are pressing needs, not only of the property classes in Mexico, but of the Mexican laborers as well. Without prosperity in Mexico, humanitarians should not overlook that the condition of its lower classes cannot be ameliorated. Not only this, the safety and the freedom of Americans' trade is directly involved in the Mexican problem. After the general peace the American Government will not long be suffered to continue a policy of inaction and indifference to the internal conditions of Mexico.

Other and more peremptory motives will ultimately lead America to a revision of its policy of inaction. No scheme of defensive warfare can be complete for the United States of America which omits a reference to Mexico. Its northern boundary, as fixed by the Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo in 1848 and the Gadsden Treaty of 1853, extends along the southern frontier of the United States for nearly 2,000 miles. The occupation of Mexico by a European or Asiatic power of the first rank at war with the United States doubtless would and should be prevented. At the first sign of such a possibility the seaports of Mexico would be a subject of serious consideration by the military authorities of the United States. That Mexican ports should not offer a harbor for the enemy would be a matter of as much concern in Washington as that the harbors of the Chesapeake or of San Diego and San Francisco Bay should not offer them a safe landing. If Mexico were then neutralized the neutrality of Mexico would inevitably be subordinated to considerations involving the safety and the integrity of a great and populous nation. America has a high and commendable moral conception of the effect of a country's neutralization; but in the last resort it cannot deliberately permit itself to be destroyed. The world would not expect that America should allow itself to be overrun from Mexico.

It is not only the military significance of Mexico which makes it of serious importance to the United States, but its trade, and the unlimited possibilities of its greater development under a stable Government. Properly governed, Mexican commerce with its nearest neighbor, the United States, would be of incalculable value not only to the Mexicans themselves, but to America. The fertile areas, the valuable mines, and the unlimited resources of Mexico would, if properly developed under a competent and orderly Government, add prodigiously to the riches and the foreign trade of the United States. The configuration of Mexico in reference to the United States makes it certain that Mexico and the United States are destined to some closer commercial association and some defensive alliance. Had the mountain chains of North America run east and west instead of north and south, the future history of the countries, now under separate and distinct Governments, would be very different from what it is destined to be. The configuration of the territory of a nation with reference to that of bordering nations is a most important factor in both its economic and its political development. We have only to glance at the histories of Greece and Italy to be convinced of the truth of this statement.

The history of Mexico since its escape from Spanish domination in 1821 shows a lamentable defect in the capacity of Mexicans for self-government. Since its virtual independence of Spain, with the exception of the régime of Porfirio Diaz from 1884 to 1911, the history of Mexico is a tale of almost continuous warfare, in which Maximilian's empire is a mere episode. During all this long period life and property have been insecure and the misgovernment such as no neighboring power of the first rank other than the United States would have suffered to endure so long in any country contiguous to it. Instead of receiving commendation for its toleration of Mexico's misgovernment, the Government of the United States has been censured by all the older political communities of Europe. That the Washington Government is largely responsible for the disorder of Mexico is believed in Europe. The Monroe Doctrine prevents any foreign nation taking the place of Spain in Mexico, and it morally obligates the United States to do that which it will not permit any foreign Government to do. Unless something is soon done by America to set the Mexican house in order it is reasonably sure that some sort of foreign intervention will be suggested at no distant time after the general peace. European activities in this hemisphere will not subside with the general peace. They can be regulated only by the prompt action of America in the interest of tranquillity in Mexico.

It is within the power of the Washington Government to bring about a better state of things in Mexico. Nor need the exercise of this power imperil the independence of Mexico. This would be deplored in America. The hegemony of the United States in North America can, if desired, be asserted as effectually in Mexico as in Cuba, and with as favorable results. It is the conviction of any real necessity for action which has been lacking at Washington and it is the want of conviction which is receiving the censure of the rest of the world. The Government at Washington is constituted for the purpose of promoting the safety and the highest development of the United States. The Government cannot always wait for popular mandates concerning every detail of the foreign policies. The people expect their Government to govern and they have a right to expect that it will govern well. As yet the great mass of Americans have not seen fit to intrude their opinions on the Mexican question. But this state of things is unlikely to last.

Ignoring the defects of the Spanish administration of three centuries, it must be conceded that the great and interesting cities of Mexico were founded under Spanish rule. The admirable architecture of Mexico, which bids fair to be so influential in the future of California from San Diego to San Francisco, is also due to Spain. Any permanent excellence in the laws of Mexico is derived from Spain. It has been lately remarked in an influential American journal that the population of Mexico, like that of other countries, is composed of three classes, "upper, middle, and low" ("Tragic Story of Martyred Mexico.") Under Spain the upper class of Mexicans was perhaps more highly refined than that of any other part of North America. He who would have a correct idea of high society in Mexico a century since must turn to the pages of Mme. Calderon de la Barca, the wife of the first Spanish Minister accredited to Mexico after its independence ("Life in Mexico.") It is a document of no little value, published at the instance of the historian Prescott. At the present day the general refinement of the upper class of Mexico remains quite equal to that of the more intelligent classes of the United States. This fact Americans are apt to ignore. Few Americans who adventure into Mexico come to know the inner life of the Mexicans.

It is the orderly upper class of Mexico who would most welcome the security which the United States is alone able to afford to Mexico. That the life of the lower classes of Mexicans, the Indians and the Mestizos, could be ameliorated by the friendly and proper intervention of the United States there can be no question. That the present state of things in Mexico will be allowed by America to continue indefinitely it is counter to the course of history to suppose. It is the duty of the Government of the United States to undertake the pacification and reorganization of Mexico very soon after the general peace, and to see to it that there is set up in that unfortunate and superlatively beautiful country, so close to the United States, a Government worthy of its potentialities. It is only in this way that the United States can fulfill on this continent its natural responsibilities and its high destiny. When it is the national will that peace and security shall be brought about in Mexico by Washington, it can be accomplished with no impairment of Mexican independence. This the history of American intervention in Cuba demonstrates. That intelligent Americans would deplore the loss of independence by Mexico is certain. Only a few American adventurers desire its annexation by the United States. The intelligent classes of America recognize clearly the natural limitations imposed by their form of government, and it is the intelligent classes of all countries who in the end frame its policies. The continuation of an independent but a more orderly and safer Mexico is the only wish of the people of the United States at the present time.

Under the auspices of a patriotic and eminent American, Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul, has very lately been given to the world a brief but powerful picture of the degraded political conditions long prevailing in Mexico. The sketch of the revolutionary Governments since the expulsion of Spain is concise and accurate. The rapine, the murderous conduct, and the general disorder and insecurity of the Mexico of a century past are there given with substantial accuracy and without exaggeration. It makes a sorry picture.

Constant revolutions in Mexico mean that there can be no stability either in public or private affairs. The insecurity of the property of American nationals in Mexico, the American Government has the power to ignore. But no great Government can persistently neglect such interests without condemnation in the end. Action will follow the more spirited condemnation which must soon exhibit itself after the general peace. In view of the established foreign policy of America, formulated in the "Monroe Doctrine," it is not safe for America to continue to ignore the Mexican depredations committed against foreign subjects and citizens. America must either act in Mexico or allow other nations to intervene. There is no third choice left to America. That America will patiently suffer foreign intervention in Mexico would be counter to her history. Therefore it is reasonably certain that the Mexican problem will be taken up by Washington soon after the next general peace.

The inconvenience suffered by American citizens, the perils of their commercial intercourse, the jeopardy of American and foreign capital invested in Mexico, make it unwise and impolitic for the Washington Government to continue a policy of inaction and indifference to Mexico. It would seem almost unbelievable that for years past no return transportation can be purchased between the commercial capitals of America and Mexico. There is at a time of peace between the United States and Mexico no certainty that an American landed at Vera Cruz or Laredo will be allowed to reach Mexico City or to return from there. What other Government besides the American would so patiently endure such a condition of things for so long a period?

Now that ententes between America and other powers are in order, it would seem that a better entente between Mexico and the United States, the most desirable of all ententes for America, will not be much longer delayed. The construction of the Panama Canal makes it expedient and even imperative for the safety of the rapidly increasing population and wealth of the United States that the future joint foreign policy of the United States and Mexico should be definitive and uniform. The protection of the Panama Canal against foreign aggression makes it equally imperative that America should come to a speedy understanding whereby American troops and munitions may be forwarded by land routes to Panama. Only in this way can "American liberty" be effectually safeguarded against the inevitable foreign aggressions which time in the ordinary course of events will surely develop. After the episode of Maximilian, Americans have no further justification for believing that never again will Mexico be the subject of foreign attempts at her regeneration or even her domination. All history is one long record of mere repetitions whenever similar conditions again develop.

SMOOT FIGHTS RESOLUTION

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Attacks on the News Print Manufacturers' Association for the alleged combination to keep up the price of paper, for which several of the associations have been indicted, were made in the Senate today in debate over the resolution offered by Senator Smith of Arizona, authorizing the President to put control over the entire news print output in the hands of the Federal Trade Commission. The resolution would give the Trade Commission authority to distribute the paper output, at a price based on the cost of production plus a fair profit.

Senator Smith alleged that the News Print Manufacturers' Association—or members of it—had conspired to foist extortionate prices upon the market. As a result, he said, many smaller publications throughout the country, including newspapers and magazines, would be unable to continue in business. The International Paper Company and others that, with it, contorl nearly the entire news print market, Senator Smith asserted, made more than $105,000,000 profit in 1917, an increase of 50 per cent. over the preceding year. Of that amount, he said, $17,500,000 represented profit gained through the increase in price forced upon the market.

The Arizona Senator referred to President Wilson's recent order, through the Federal Trade Commission, by which the Government was to be charged 2½ cents a pound for paper. That price, he said allowed the manufacturers ample profit.

One feature of the resolution provides for payment to the manufacturers of 75 per cent. of the aggregate of a contract in the event that they decline to accept terms fixed by the Federal Trade Commission and seek redress in court. Whatever balance is due the manufacturers would be paid after the courts had passed on the matter. Senator Fletcher, who had caused the 75 per cent. clause to be inserted in the resolution, accepted a suggestion today that the payment be raised to 90 per cent. of the total of a contested contract.

Senator Smoot of Utah opposed the resolutions "a most vicious measure," contemplating "special legislation for one industry." He argued that the anti-trust laws reached any price-fixing combination of news print or any other manufacturers.

Senator Hardwick of Georgia assailed the resolution with an attack on newspapers and a declaration that regulation of the newsprint paper situation was no more necessary to winning the war than control of the cotton or potato fields.

Senators King of Utah and Sherman of Illinois asked Senator Smith why it was any more necessary to have Government control of print paper, for public safety and defense, than of any other business. Senator Smith replied that the print paper industry was trust controlled, and that the Government should intervene if the President believed it desirable.

The measure was vigorously defended by Senator Owen, who said such a step was necessary to break the power held by the alleged paper monopoly over the press. He charged that the papermakers now could dictate to the press of the country by withholding supplies.

Senator Gallinger, the Republican leader, urged that no effort be made to rush the measure through the Senate.

News print paper jobbers told the Federal Trade Commission today that they would be forced out of business if the commission undertook to supply small publishers with paper, as was done last year, and asked that their status in the trade be defined when the commission fixed prices under an agreement by the manufacturers with the Department of Justice.

The commission's hearing was adjourned until Feb. 9 to allow the jobbers to produce data as to the cost of distribution.

MISS RAND TO WED AVIATOR

Daughter of Mrs. H. T. Jacquelin Engaged to Lieutenant Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ten Broeck Jacquelin of Saddle Brook Park, Hohokus, N. J., and 1,155 Park Avenue, New York, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eugenia Oakes Rand, to Lieutenant George Valentine Smith of the Aviation Section of the Signal Corps, and son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rudolph Smith of Philadelphia. Lieutenant Smith is now stationed at Kelley Field, Texas. He is a member of the Rittenhouse, Racquet, and St. Anthony Clubs of Philadelphia and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania.

Miss Rand, who is a daughter of Mrs. Jacquelin by her first husband, came out about three years ago with her sister, Miss Margery Oakes Rand, and both were members of the Junior League.

WEDS W. G. SCHMITTBERGER.

Miss Teresa M. Giblin a Bride in Church of St. Vincent Ferrer.

The marriage of Miss Teresa M. Giblin, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Giblin of this city, and William G. Schmittberger, son of the late Chief Inspector of Police, Max F. Schmittberger, took place yesterday morning at the Church of St. Vincent Ferrer, Sixty-seventh Street and Lexington Avenue. The Very Rev. George I. Conlon, prior of St. Dominic's Convent, Washington, D. C., officiated.

John Giblin gave his sister in marriage, and George C. Schmittberger was best man for his brother. Miss Mary V. Giblin acted as maid of honor.

After the ceremony and nuptial mass, a breakfast was served to the bridal party and immediate families at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Schmittberger are to spend a three months' honeymoon in Southern California, and will reside in this city on their return.

Fall Fatal to Fire Lieut. Murphy.

Lieutenant Charles Murphy, who was attached to Engine Company 26, in West Thirty-seventh Street, died yesterday in Bellevue Hospital as the result of injuries he suffered when he fell from the second floor of the fire station to the floor below on Dec. 31, while responding to an alarm. Lieutenant Murphy missed his footing as he was about to slide down the emergency pole and landed heavily, fracturing his spine. He was forty-five years old and lived at 487 West Thirty-fourth Street.

RAISE FIRE INSURANCE HERE BECAUSE OF WAR

Advance of 10 Per Cent. Will Mean Additional Outlay of $3,000,000 for Entire City.

Influenced by the numerous incendiary fires in this city during recent months, the New York Fire Insurance Exchange voted yesterday to increase fire insurance rates in the five boroughs by 10 per cent. Collateral reasons for the increase included general war conditions, which have caused higher costs for making repairs, both for materials and labor.

The premium advance will mean an outlay of about $3,000,000 more for fire insurance taken out this year than the same amount of protection cost in 1917. Of this, the records show, Manhattan will pay approximately $2,000,000. The increased rate is to remain in effect, according to officers of the exchange, only for the period of the war.

NO PROTEST BY LANSING.

Secretary Denies That He Opposed Mrs. Whitehouse's Mission.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Secretary of State Lansing today authorized the statement that there was no truth in the statement, printed in THE NEW YORK TIMES this morning to the effect that he opposes the sending of Mrs. Norman De R. Whitehouse of New York to Switzerland on a special mission by George Creel of the Committee on Public Information." The Secretary said that he did not oppose the sending of Mrs. Whitehouse on this mission and that he had made no protest against her appointment. He requested that a denial of these statements be printed.

Secretary Lansing is a member of the Committee on Public Information, of which Mr. Creel, who made the appointment, is Chairman. Mr. Lansing said that Mrs. Whitehouse has been furnished such State Department credentials as were necessary. When he was asked whether she was going to Switzerland in an official or unofficial capacity, the Secretary replied that her mission was official since she was going for the Committee on Public Information, which is an official Government organization. He did not deny, however, that he had not been consulted with regard to the appointment of Mrs. Whitehouse.

The Committee of One Thousand Women sent a letter to Mr. Creel yesterday asking that a delegate representing the working women of America be sent on a mission similar to that of Mrs. Whitehouse. The letter said:

"The Committee of One Thousand Women of New York State wishes to express to you its gratification over the fact that you have sent to Switzerland a woman to explain to the peoples of Europe the war aims of the United States. As the war progresses, however, it becomes more and more evident that the democratization of Germany, which the President so earnestly desires, must come through the efforts of the men and women of the German working class, influenced by the example and propaganda of the working classes of more democratic countries.

"We, therefore, urge you to send, in addition to Mrs. Whitehouse, a woman who represents the interests of the working women of America, and who can carry to the toilers of Europe the message of the sacrifices and of the aims of the workers of the United States, as they aid in this fight for democracy."

MRS. M. A. DREXEL WEDS BRITISH OFFICER

Divorced Wife of A. J. Drexel, Banker, Marries Lieut. Col. Brinsley Fitzgerald in London.

LONDON, Jan. 10.—The Daily Sketch says Mrs. Margarita Armstrong Drexel, who last year divorced her husband, Anthony J. Drexel, the Philadelphia banker, was married quietly in London Saturday to Lieut. Col. Brinsley Fitzgerald, Private Secretary to the Commander in Chief of the home forces.

Mrs. Drexel obtained her divorce on statutory grounds and for cruelty in London, on May 25, 1917. Her husband did not defend the action. She had entered into a separation agreement in 1918, two years after she had established a residence in Philadelphia, with the intention of starting a divorce action. It was said at that time that she had been dissuaded by her children from prosecuting the case.

Under the terms of the separation agreement Mrs. Drexel was to receive the sum of $50,000 annually. In August, 1915, when the payments ceased, to compel her husband to continue them she had to file her domestic history in the Chancery Court in London in the form of affidavits. In these she related that her married life had been unhappy since 1907.

Before her marriage to Mr. Drexel she was Miss Margarita Armstrong of Philadelphia. She was married in 1886 when she was 18 years old. By her marriage she had four children, Anthony, Lady Maidstone, John Armstrong Drexel, and Louis C. N. Drexel.

Lieut. Col. Fitzgerald is the fourth son of the late Sir Peter Fitzgerald. He was born Sept. 25, 1859, and was educated at Rugby and at University College, Oxford.

MISS BRIDGMAN A BRIDE.

General's Daughter Weds Octave A. Alvarez in Heavenly Rest Church.

The wedding of Octave A. Alvarez, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Alonzo Alvarez of Mobile, Ala., and Miss Anna Kirk Bridgman, the only daughter of General Oliver Bridgman and Mrs. Bridgman, of 883 Park Avenue, New York, was solemnized at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Church of the Heavenly Rest. The Rev. Herbert Shipman came from camp to officiate and was assisted by the Rev. Mr. Matthews.

The bride, who is General Bridgman's daughter by his first wife, walked with him. Her soft white satin gown had panniers and long sleeves of point lace, worn by her mother, and the tulle veil was held with a diadem of lace and gathered at the back, where it was held with orange blossoms. She carried lilies of the valley and wore a large heart-shaped corsage ornament of diamonds.

Miss Agnew Smyth of Philadelphia, a cousin of the bride, was her only attendant, in rose colored charmeuse with sleeves and drapery of pale gray net, topped by a huge round gray tulle hat with touches of rose color. She carried pink roses.

Harold Tobey was Mr. Alvarez's best man, and the ushers were Colonel Selden E. Marvin of Albany, Major Alfred R. Whitney, Jr., Captain William H. Carpenter, Captain David Conrad, Captain Alan W. Perry, William B. Boulton, Jr., Ward Smith, and Edward Irwin Martin. There was no reception, but the two families went to the Bridgman residence for an informal supper.

WED ENSIGN GEO. W. LOFT.

Daughter of John F. Ahearn Marries Son of ex-Congressman.

Former Borough President John F. Ahearn and Mrs. Ahearn yesterday announced the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth A. Ahearn, to Ensign George W. Loft, son of ex-Congressman George W. Loft. The wedding took place at Washington on Monday.

Mrs. Loft was graduated from the Sacred Heart Academy in this city and is a member of several charitable organizations on the east side, where she passed most of her life at her parents' home, 296 East Broadway. Ensign Loft was graduated from the United States Naval Academy and is at present on duty in Washington.

MORE SCHOOLHOUSES URGED UPON BOARD

President Somers Suggests Plan for Elimination of "Makeshift Gary Plan."

CHILDREN CHIEF CONCERN

New Body Not to Take Up Details of Administration, but to Make Policies, He Says.

President Arthur S. Somers, at the meeting of the Board of Education yesterday, called the attention of its members to some of the important problems they must undertake to solve. The organization of the schools, he said, to the end that they may render the best possible service to the children, should be their chief concern. The demand for the speedy completion of buildings was pressing, as was also the need for economies in construction. There were funds available for a large number of new buildings and additions, and it was important that they be made ready as speedily as possible as part of their program for the elimination of the makeshift duplicate school organization that had been masquerading in this city as the Gary plan, and the substitution of some workable plan.

In undertaking this work they would find it necessary to call to their assistance the superintendents, principals, and teachers, the local school boards, familiar, as they were, with local needs; and the parents, concerned, as they always were, that their children were properly accommodated and instructed.

The mass of unimportant matters and detail, he said, that came before the preceding board because a system of standing committees encouraged it, they would not set out to consider. They would be a policy-making board. They would not undertake to run the schools, but would make it their duty to see that they were run properly. They must work through a committee of the whole, rather than through standing committees, but when occasion demanded it, or a particular problem was to be solved, it might be necessary to call upon a smaller number as a special committee to study the proposals. They must hold their paid officials, all of them, to a strict responsibility for results. It would soon develop whether such policies were to be continued or changed.

"This suggests," he said "the need for a reorganization of our supervisory staff. We are tending rapidly to increase the overhead cost. In the last year or two, while our school population has increased less than formerly, we find a record of unusual additions of positions in the supervising staff. Apparently we are losing sight of the imperative need of exercising that rigid economy in our educational system that we have all been compelled to exercise in our daily life. This is a time when we must protect our schooling from impairment, but it is also a time when we must not increase cost of schooling unless there is no other way to guard against impairment and lessened efficiency. We ought not to add a single new position that we can get along without. We ought not to increase our staff in any particular unless positive need for it is demonstrated."

He suggested that the members of the Board of Superintendents be assigned to particular problems, rather than the certain parcelled out branches of the service. The District Superintendents had become, he declared, too much examiners of details of organization and too little leaders in the solution of school problems. The tendency was to become more expert in rating teachers and classes than in improving the teaching of children. He believes that much time was spent in examining and rating teachers who were fully qualified. If that were so why should not the principal's rating be sufficient? One problem to which a group of Superintendents should be assigned was the organization of the schools. In planning schools for all grades in the elementary course they were ignoring the demonstrations in their own system and the progress reported in other systems. The present combination of experiments in the schools was unfortunate and confusing, and they might see whether it should be continued.

For the first six years of the elementary school course all children, he said, might well be taught uniformity. Then the course of study should be modified in recognition of the varying needs of the children. Without undertaking to direct them along particular lines the school should offer opportunity for study in academic, commercial, or vocational subjects."

TRY MODEL MEAL IN SCHOOL

Underfed "Food Scouts" Are Used in the Experiment.

An experiment in scientific nourishment for school children was begun at Public School 40, on East Twentieth Street, yesterday. Twenty-five children, victims of malnutrition, sat down to the first of a series of model meals which will be served to them daily for the next three months. The children took to the experiment, which is being conducted under the direction of the People's Institute, with keen delight. The "Food Scouts," as the children are to be called, are between 9 and 12 years of age and all more than 5 per cent. under weight for their height. The following is the first luncheon, aggregating to 900 calories:

Barley Soup and Vegetables
Spaghetti and Cheese
Rye Bread and Nut Butter
Ice Cream and Cookies.

The luncheons will have no wheat bread and meat, but in their stead will be rye bread, cheese, and lima beans. Among the officials present were State Commissioner of Education John H. Finley, Dr. Morris Stark of the New York Post Graduate Hospital, Dr. Josephine Baker of the Child Hygiene Bureau of the Board of Health, and Dr. Mary Schwartz Rose of Columbia University. It was estimated that more than 125,000 school children are underfed.

Dr. Olin Alfred Curtis.

LEONIA, N. J., Jan. 9.—Dr. Olin Alfred Curtis, emeritus professor of systematic theology in Drew Theological Seminary since 1914, and the author of several works on theology, died of heart disease at his home here last night, aged sixty-seven years. He was born at Frankfort, Me., and was graduated from Boston University. He had held Methodist pastorates in Milwaukee and Chicago, and had been professor of systematic theology in Boston University before going to Drew Seminary.

Bishop Jones of Newfoundland.

ST. JOHN'S, Jan. 9.—Lewellyn Jones, who retired last September as Lord Bishop of Newfoundland and Bermuda, died today. He was said to have been the oldest Bishop of the Episcopal Communion in the British Empire. Bishop Jones, who was 77 years old, was forty years at the head of the Diocese of Newfoundland. He was born in Liverpool, where he received his early education at the Collegiate Institute, later attending Cheltenham College, Harrow, and Trinity College, Cambridge. He was ordained in 1864.

Colonel Silas A. Ilsley.

Colonel Silas A. Ilsley, a retired can manufacturer of Brooklyn and a veteran of the civil war, during which he was promoted to be Lieutenant Colonel of Volunteers, died yesterday at his home in Middlebury, Vt., where he had lived since his retirement. He was a son of the late Rev. Silas Ilsley, who was at one time pastor of the First Baptist Church of Brooklyn. Colonel Ilsley erected a Baptist Church in Middlebury in memory of his father. He also built a soldiers' monument in Middlebury.

Steel Corporation Gives $75,000 and Standard Oil of New Jersey $25,000.

George W. Perkins yesterday made the first report of the Men's Committee in the drive of the Young Women's Christian Association for $1,750,000, and apologized for having only two contributions. One was $75,000 from the United States Steel Corporation and the other $25,000 from the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. These were the largest contributions of the day, and brought the day's total to $145,620, and the grand total to $805,938.

Mrs. Henry P. Davison reported receipts of $14,675 for the Executive Committee. Mrs. John E. Aldred gave $5,000; "Anonymous" gave $8,000, and $1,675 also came anonymously. The greatest applause of the meeting was over the announcement by Mrs. B. K. Cutter of the Business and Professional Woman's Division that $394 had been received from 105 subscribers. Mrs. Herbert Lee Pratt for the Women's Division reported $29,555. Among the donors were Mrs. William D. Sloane, $10,000; Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, $7,000; Mrs. R. Fulton Cutting, $1,000; Mrs. Dunlevy Milbank, $5,000; George D. Pratt, $5,000, and Mrs. George D. Pratt, $1,000. Mrs. William Henry Hays for the Committee Women's Division reported $5,395.

JEWS PLAN FOR FUND DRIVE.

Leaders in Campaign to Raise $4,500,000 Instruct Their Aids.

Colonels who are to work under the direction of Felix M. Warburg, President of the Federation for the Support of Jewish Philanthropic Societies in the campaign for 50,000 members and a fund of $4,500,000, which starts next Monday, met their captains at the respective homes of the colonels yesterday and received instructions regarding their part in the drive. Commencing today, the captains will enlist at least ten lieutenants each to serve on their teams. Each of the twenty-five colonels has ten captains.

Dr. I. Edwin Goldwasser, Executive Director of the Federation, said last night:

"This great army of volunteers is to go forth next Monday to interview every Jew who can be reached within a week and to enroll all non-members as subscribers to the Federation. For the trades we have prepared as prospects the names of all firms engaged in the trades. For the women we have prepared on cards the names of all former women contributors to affiliated societies who have not become members of the Federation. In addition, we have listed the names of all residents of apartment houses in selected residential districts."

Why Beefsteak is Not Twice Its Present Price

A QUARTER of a century ago a steer was just a steer—narrow-backed, lean and slab-sided—running largely to hoofs and horns. The dressed beef yield was as low in quantity as it was inferior in quality.

YOU would scorn such coarse, tough meat today. But if livestock conditions were now as they were then, this would be the only kind of beef you could get.

And not only that, but you would be paying a great deal more for it!

Meeting Present Day Needs

FOR the amount of meat per head furnished by these low grade cattle would not begin to supply present-day needs.

Though present prices, caused by an abnormal war-demand, seem high, they would shrink into insignificance compared with what they would have become, had not Armour and Company long ago begun the work that has been responsible to a considerable degree for the raising of the broad-backed, high-grade beef steers of today.

By establishing receiving and killing plants close to the sources of supply, by developing and operating a chain of refrigerators on wheels, by perfecting a system of over 400 branch-house distributing stations, Armour has provided selling outlets and certain markets for the producer for twelve months in the year.

It has become profitable for the livestock grower to grade up his cattle standards!

These beef-producing cattle furnish more meat and a larger proportion of better quality meat at practically the same feeding cost as that of the scrub cattle of former years.

Helps Growers and Users

THIS has resulted in better returns for the grower, while heavier yield and improved quality in turn has held down prices to consumers.

It is in such fundamental ways as this that Armour and Company are rendering a broad, economic service to the American public.

And because Armour service directly relates to the prices you pay for meat, when you specify Armour meats and other food products for your table you are making it possible to extend this service still farther.

The Woman Voter

About the Working of the Legislative Wheels in Congress, With Some Reasons Why Congressmen Don't Show to Better Advantage as Legislators and a Note on "Pork" Legislation.

NINTH ARTICLE—SHE IS TOLD OF THE LEGISLATOR'S HARDSHIPS.

"Congressmen must be a pretty weak-kneed lot."

Anna said it with considerable heat, and when the ex-Congressman turned toward her a look of pained inquiry she blushed a little and laughed.

"I can't help it," she said. "That's the impression that you have left on my mind. You have told me how I can get reforms enacted by simply organizing my friends to bully legislators, and now you explain why the courts have to work at smoothing out the kinks in laws by telling me that the laws are kinky because the men who pass them are trying to please organized minorities. Now doesn't that show that Congressmen, and State legislators too, are a weak-kneed lot?"

"If you knew how many fool laws they refuse to pass," said the ex-Congressman with some warmth, "you'd think they were a pretty stiff-backed lot. I'm afraid our friend the Lawyer has told you so much about what can be done by organization as to create the impression in your minds that all you have to do is to organize and Congress will do anything you say; that it's a kind of magic wand that you wave over the Legislature, to turn it into a Sleeping Beauty's Court."

"Oh, I didn't mean that," said the Lawyer hastily. "I meant that the way to get things is to organize; not that by organizing you'd necessarily get everything you want. Suppose there are two organizations, one to get a law passed and one to oppose it; of course they can't both get what they want. No, I meant that without organization you can't do anything at all, and that with it you have the means to get something."

"Anyhow," said the ex-Congressman, without paying much attention to this explanation, "Congress refuses to pass a lot more wrong-headed legislation than it passes. It's all very well to call Congress weak-kneed, but Congress is merely a considerable number of human beings of different characters, aims, and temperaments. It is not the élite of the land, nor the scum of it either. It is a pretty fair representation of the average human being. It is elected under all sorts of conditions, by all kinds of voters, for all manner of reasons.

"Each member of it, naturally, is ambitious and wants to make a record that will get him re-elected or promoted to a higher office. And most of them will legislate with that fact in mind. Don't flatter yourself that woman suffrage will make any great difference in that respect. Even if a man wants above all to serve the people, he can't serve them very long if they don't re-elect him, and before he has been in Congress long that fact will assume large proportions in his eyes. And don't for a moment suppose that any man ever goes to Congress with the idea of betraying the people or doing them any disservice. He may do them the worst kind of disservice, but the fault is more likely to be with his head than his heart."

"He can't serve them long if they don't re-elect him," snorted Tom. "He can serve them for two years, that being the length of his term; and that's long enough for a man to make a record that is good enough to re-elect him without his voting for fool legislation to avert the vengeance of some fly-by-night organization."

"You're entirely wrong," retorted the ex-Congressman. "Instead of being two years, the time allotted to him is generally from five to seven months, and the difficulties in his way are such as to make it impossible for him to make a record that he can stand on in that time. You've put your finger on the main cause why Congressmen, especially new Congressmen, are open to the temptation to act without regard to the real interest of the public."

"Isn't two years the term of office of a Congressman?" demanded Tom.

"Yes, but that has nothing to do with it. We elect our Congressmen in November of the even numbered years. But the Congress to which our Congressman is elected does not meet until December of the next odd numbered year—that is, it is thirteen months after he is elected before he takes his seat.

"When the new Congress does finally meet, which is on the first Monday in December, the House organizes by electing a Speaker and other officers and appointing committees, does a little unimportant work and then adjourns until perhaps the second week in January. By that time the committees are supposed to be in fair shape to tackle the business of the session. So that our Congressman, elected in November of 1918, will find that his term really begins in January, 1920.

"When he comes to that realization, it will also be borne in upon him that if he is to make any record at all his time for it is almost gone. He inquires of older Congressmen how much time is left to him, and is horrified to learn that Congress usually adjourns in June or July. (Lately it has been staying in session longer, but these are abnormal times and don't count.)

"He knows that the nomination of his successor will come immediately after that, perhaps even before; for in many districts they nominate candidates in the Spring. More than half his term of office has passed over and he hasn't turned a wheel or burned a rocket. He hasn't even made a speech. He hasn't done anything for his district, and the home papers give him the disconcerting information that his old rival, Bill Smythe, is making speeches demanding to know whether his constituents propose to keep him in Congress as a Wordless Wonder.

"He bestirs himself frantically. He finds, however, that Congress is jammed with people in the same fix as himself, and that each one of them wants to make a speech seven hours long. He finds that the House organization has that matter in hand, and when he applies to the proper magnate that gentleman tells him that he can squeeze in five minutes for him when the debate on the Indian Appropriation bill comes up. He learns that that bill is due some time in May.

"He makes further efforts; and if he is a vigilant man and willing to spend all his time waiting for crumbs of time, he can prevail on this or that committee chairman to give him a minute here or three minutes there until he has managed to get in a respectable number of speeches. You can't say much in a minute; but he gets the permission of the House to extend his remarks in the Record, which is a polite euphemism. What it really means is that he can print in the Congressional Record a speech he never delivered, for the purpose of fooling the folks at home.

"He feels pretty good by this time, when he glances around at his fellow-beginners and hears their complaints. Some of them have no chance to speak at all, and haven't even been able to get permission to 'extend their remarks,' the remarks they did not make. But he isn't accomplishing anything or getting anywhere; the wheels of legislation go monotonously grinding on under the guidance of the old engineers who have been in Congress for years, and he is having nothing whatever to do with it. And Bill Smythe is asking the voters of his district if they elected him to be a Sleeping Beauty.

"He tries to get one or two bills through that he thinks will make him solid with his constituents. He finds, however, that introducing a bill is a mere formality. It consists of dropping the bill in a hopper, where hundreds of other men are at the same time dropping theirs——"

"What figure of speech?"

"About the hopper; what process do you intend to describe by that metaphor?"

"It isn't a figure of speech at all. I'm talking about a real, honest-to-goodness hopper."

"Do you mean," said the College Woman, aghast, "that there is nothing more to it than dropping it in a box?"

"I certainly do, and, what's more, that's not only the beginning but the end of it so far as most bills are concerned. Nobody ever sees or hears of them again. They are taken out of the hopper by clerks, who send each bill to the committee which seems appropriate. You read, 'Mr. So-and-So introduced such-and-such a bill, and it was referred to the Committee on This-and-That,' and you get a mental picture of Congress gravely inclining its ear to Mr. So-and-So's bill and deciding, after mature consideration, that it would be well for the Committee on This-and-That to take it up. Nothing of the sort, I tell you. Congress never sees or hears of the bill. Mr. So-and-So walks up to the hopper, drops the bill in, and it is sorted out by the clerks and sent, with a bushel of others, to the Committee on This-and-That.

"Well, as I was saying, our Congressman presently wants to find out what has become of his bill, and he goes to the committee and finds that it hasn't even looked at it, being engrossed in several hundred other measures of much more importance. Then he haunts the committee, trying to get action. Maybe he gets it and maybe he doesn't; but all the time it's drawing nearer to Summer and adjournment, and Bill Smythe is writing letters to the local editor inquiring if our Congressman was elected as a Congressman or as a Vacuum.

"Literally, all of our Congressman's time at the Capitol has been spent in this way; not in legislating, but in working like a beaver to get a chance to get his name in the Record. Outside of the Capitol he may have been able to make more of an impression, by getting jobs or doing other favors for his constituents. Since this is the only way he can make any sort of record whatever, he is pretty likely, in despair, to forget all about the great things he intended to do and buckle down to this one thing that promises immediate results. For, he will say to himself, it is all very well for me to desire above all to perform great public services, but what great public services can I perform if I'm not re-elected, and how can I get re-elected if I don't make a record?

"There is one thing that he has a chance to do to retrieve all his disasters. His district wants a new Post Office, or an enlargement of the old. If he can get that it will wipe out all the slurs Bill Smythe has been throwing on his inaction. It's his only chance to win the renomination; and the primaries in his district are only a few weeks away. Do you wonder if he forgets for the time all about that great speech on social justice that he was going to electrify the world with, and that bill he was going to enact abolishing poverty, and just devote himself tooth and nail to the Post Office? For the Chairman of the Indian Affairs Committee has just told him that he finds he can't give him that five minutes to make the great speech in, and the Committee on This-and-That has informed him that his bill abolishing poverty will stay in its pigeonhole till the next session. He can't do anything with them, but he can get the Post Office.

"So he works for it, as I said, tooth and nail. He haunts the Public Buildings Committee, and finally gets those great men to put his Post Office in the general appropriation. Then he hears that a member from the State of Kentaska has denounced his Post Office appropriation as an infamous job and a robbery of the people, and is going to move to strike it out. He knows that it isn't an infamous job at all; that his town really needs the Post Office, but the time is short and he can't convince the man from Kentaska. In sheer despair he hunts up the bill and finds that the man from Kentaska has an item in the bill making an appropriation for a Post Office in his own district. He denounces the Kentaska man's Post Office as a scheme for plundering the people. The man from Kentaska weakens, withdraws his objection, our man withdraws his, and the Public Buildings bill goes through with both these items in it."

"Is that what they call the Pork bill?" asked Anna.

"Yes, that's the nickname given to the Public Buildings bill; and you can see that it's not only pork, but a whole dinner, for many a despairing Congressman who is at his wits' end. The pork isn't for him, but for his district. The imaginary controversy I have given you between our Congressman and the man from Kentaska is an example of what we call log-rolling. You roll my log and I'll roll yours, that's the idea."

"I think it's perfectly shameful," said Jane indignantly.

"Human nature, nothing more," returned the ex-Congressman. "You will see that there isn't any corruption in anything I have described, even the log-rolling. It certainly isn't in the general public interest; there is nothing high or noble about it. On the contrary, it's rather mean and petty. But the fault doesn't lie with the men, it lies with the system and with us."

"How with us?" demanded Anna.

"Because we want the Post Office; we want the pork. It has such a sinister sound, when we use the ugly work 'pork,' that we get the impression that something dishonest is implied. But what good is a Post Office to a Congressman? He can't use it any more than any one else. Why does he log-roll to get it? Because his constituents want it; that is, you and I want it, and will be sore if he doesn't get it, and will pat him on the back if he does get it.

"It's the same thing with widening rivers, deepening channels, and the hundred and one other public improvements that cities and towns want from Congress, as it is with Post Offices. Here in New York, where the need of such things doesn't come home to us as it does to the country districts, we are disposed to be scornful of them and to plume ourselves on our superior virtue. But plant a public improvement in a New York district and see how long we keep this high superiority, and if you don't believe me ask some Brooklyn Congressman how he can most surely lose his chance of renomination, and he will tell you, 'By neglecting to look out for the boys in the navy yard.'"

"But when women vote——" began Anna.

"When women vote," said the ex-Congressman, "I hope Mrs. Mulcahy, whose son wants a job in the navy yard, will be so public-spirited that she won't vote against the Congressman who refuses to get it for him. And who can tell? Maybe she will be."

RECEIVERS ARE NAMED FOR CLARENCE PAYNE

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in the Federal Court yesterday against Clarence Payne, who came to this city from his home in California a few years ago with a reputed fortune of $25,000,000, enjoyed a noteworthy career in real estate, and for a long time was a noted figure in the business world.

The petitioners were Tiffany & Co., whose claim is for $23,571 for jewelry purchased within the last two years; Black, Starr & Frost, jewelers, with a claim for $22,272, and Stern Brothers, with one for $2,015. Judge Manton appointed Robert C. Knapp and Henry Brady receivers. Gould & Wilkie and Charles J. McDermott are counsel for the creditors. Mr. Payne's office is at 52 Vanderbilt Avenue, but it was learned that he had not been there for some time and that his telephone had "been temporarily suspended." Inquiry brought forth the information that he and his wife were with his mother at her home in Menlo Park, Cal.

Mr. Payne is said to have inherited $25,000,000 from his father, Theodore F. Payne of California, who was connected with the Standard Oil interests. His grandfather was among the first of those who sought treasure in the California gold fields. His mother is the niece of William O'Brien, who also grew to be one of the first millionaires in California.

On March 18, 1915, Clarence Payne, who is now about thirty-one years old, attracted considerable notice by suddenly marrying Mrs. Estelle Thomas Sargeant, formerly the wife of Harry Brooks Sargeant. The marriage took place in the City Hall. On May 14, 1915, Mr. Payne, it was learned, had paid $650,000 for the new twelve-story apartment houses at 383-87 Park Avenue, and that in part payment he gave two five-story buildings at 63-65 West Thirty-sixth Street. In September of the same year he bought the big office building that was to be erected at the southeast corner of Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street for $2,750,000. But he paid only $150,000 to bind the bargain, and shortly afterwards sold his contract to the Postal Life Insurance Company and made a reported profit of more than $700,000.

Another real estate venture of Mr. Payne's occurred on June 1, 1917, when he bought the Verona apartment house at Madison Avenue and Sixty-fourth Street, of the heirs of Francis S. Leland, for $800,000. About the same time he also bought the Sonoma apartments at Broadway and Fifty-fifth Street. He made other essays into the real estate field, and according to report, he made money in all of them.

Nobody could be found yesterday who was able to give any guess why Mr. Payne had permitted bills which he had contracted to appear in public in bankruptcy proceedings. The papers filed in court stated that he had left the city, that he had made certain transfers, and that there was danger of foreclosure proceedings against his real estate which might wipe out his equity, estimated at $100,000. His liabilities were placed at $300,000.

Chamber of Commerce Dues Exempt

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Daniel C. Roper, Internal Revenue Commissioner, rules that members of Chambers of Commerce are exempt from the tax imposed by the War Tax act of Oct. 3, 1917, as to dues or membership fees to any social, athletic or sporting club or organization where such dues are in excess of $12 a year.

ROBINS GIVE PIRATES TWO PLAYERS FOR THREE IN BIG TRADE

MAMAUX OBTAINED BY ROBINS IN DEAL

TWO OTHER MEN INCLUDED

Burleigh Grimes, Another Twirler, and Chuck Ward, an Infielder, Will Also Play with Dodgers.

Al Mamaux, the brilliant though erratic young pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, for whom Manager McGraw of the Giants, Manager Mathewson of Cincinnati and Manager Fred Mitchell of the Cubs, have been dickering for many months was traded to the Brooklyn Club yesterday in the biggest deal involving Dodger players in many years. Mamaux, Burleigh Grimes, another pitcher, and Church Ward, an infielder, were traded to Brooklyn for Second Baseman George Cutshaw and Right Fielder Casey Stengel.

The deal has been under way since President Ebbets and President Dreyfuss talked the matter over at the National League meeting here in December. The draft left the Dodger flinging staff a complete wreck for Ed Pfeffer, Leon Cadore and Sherry Smith, as promising a trio as there was in the league, are all in the Government service. One of Brooklyn's promising reserve infielders, Malone, was also taken in the draft and his services are not available for next Summer. So Brooklyn was desperately in need of pitchers and an infielder and have completed what looks like a good deal in getting Mamaux, Grimes, and Ward.

There has been some dissatisfaction among the Brooklyn players since they won the World's Series two years ago. Stengel threatened to be a hold-out last Spring and Cutshaw wasn't entirely content with his Brooklyn contract. The Brooklyn Club's showing last year was a bitter disappointment to Manager Robinson and President Ebbets after winning the National League pennant in 1916. The club was badly in need of a shake-up and the deal yesterday should prove advantageous to both clubs.

Brooklyn's greatest loss is Stengel, who is not only a good batsman, but a high class fielder and has a wonderful throwing arm. Always a fighter, Stengel was an aggressive influence on the Brooklyn club, and his hitting is sure to be missed by the Dodgers. Stengel was always a dependable hitter, swinging a powerful bat, and was the most likely man of the Brooklyn troupe to break up a ball game.

The case of Mamaux drew the attention of the baseball world last Summer when his season with the Pirates was a failure. When he broke in with Pittsburg he was a sensation and fairly set the league agog with his speed. In 1916 Mamaux won twenty-one games and lost fifteen on a sixth place club. But last season both Manager Callahan and Bezdek had trouble controlling Mamaux, as he had little or no regard for the club rules of discipline. First he was suspended and then dropped from the club because of his failure to stay in shape. He only won two games last season and lost eleven and was last in the average on the basis of earned runs per game.

Mamaux was not content with his place in Pittsburgh and had an ambition to play in New York. Manager McGraw tried to get Mamaux just as soon as he got into trouble with the Pittsburgh club last season, but Dreyfuss turned down New York's offer. Mamaux's next choice was Brooklyn, so the Pittsburgh club gratified his wishes about placing him with another club. If Mamaux shows the kind of pitching that he is capable of he will be a valuable acquisition to the Dodger staff.

Grimes won nine games last season and lost sixteen, but is regarded as a first class boxman. Both he and Mamaux should benefit greatly by the change. Young Chuck Ward is a flashy fast infielder, but while he was with the Pirates he was weak at the bat.

After the way in which both Cutshaw and Stengel worked last season, Brooklyn fans will undoubtedly be pleased over the change. The prospects of the Dodgers look much brighter with the two new pitchers in line, and they will be ordered to report to the training camp at Hot Springs with the other boxmen and catchers.

Ward may have a chance to fight it out with Frank O'Rourke for the third base position with the Dodgers, and it will go to the player who shows the better batting ability on the Spring training trip.

It is likely, however, that with the dearth of infield material which now confronts Manager Robinson, he will use one of these players at third and the other at second, as he depends on Olson for the shortstop berth again next season.

Dr. Fred Anderson of the Giants has sent his signed contract for next season to the New York offices, and so has Sterling Stryker, the elongated flinger of Atlantic Highlands. Anderson spends the Winter practicing dentistry at his home town, Stateville, S. C.

In spite of the fact that Anderson's record last season was eight games won and eight lost, he was unusually effective as a pitcher, and his average of earned runs per game was better than that of Alexander, who led the league. Anderson permitted only 1.44 earned runs per game, as against 1.85 by Alexander. Although Anderson took part in thirty-eight games, he pitched only eight complete games. He suffered through poor support in many of the games he started.

Stryker was with Rochester and Montreal last season, and he showed so much improvement that he may get a regular assignment with the Giants next Summer.

BASEBALL MEETING ENDS.

Major League Schedules Will Be Prepared Later.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 9.—After disposing of questions of minor importance in a brief session, the annual meeting of the National Baseball Commission came to a close today. A number of magnates and managers of clubs were on hand, but nothing in the shape of deals or exchange of players was announced here. The Schedule Committee held a brief preliminary session today and discussed dates for the coming playing season. A member of the Schedule Committee said that the failure of William Harridge, Secretary of the American League, to arrive here prevented the arranging of a schedule at this time. It was announced the committees of the two major leagues would meet in joint session shortly at Dover Hall, Ga., to complete the schedule.

Lavan Joins Medical Corps.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 9.—Dr. John C. Lavan, former member of the St. Louis Americans, who with Bert Shotton, was recently traded to the Washington Americans, announced here today that he had been named a first lieutenant in the Medical Reserve Corps, and that it was practically certain he would not be able to play with the Washington Club next season.

Cochran and Gallagher Divide.

There was another even break yesterday in the three-cushion billiard match which Thomas Gallagher and Welker Cochran are playing at Maurice Daly's Academy. Cochran defeated his veteran rival by 40 to 20 in the afternoon game, completing his string in fifty-three innings. Both men made high runs of 4. In the evening Gallagher held the upper hand in a close contest. He defeated Cochran by 40 to 36. Gallagher has now won four games and Cochran two.

HARVARD ATHLETES BARRED

I. C. A. A. A. A. Rule Bars Individual Entries at Games.

The athletic colors of Harvard University will not be worn in competition at the annual Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. outdoor track and field championships, which will be held on May 31 and June 1, probably at Philadelphia. This fact became practically a certainty yesterday when it developed that the constitution of the I. C. A. A. A. A. would not permit the entrance into the competitions of the Cambridge students as unattached or "informal" athletes. It had been the plan of the Harvard track and field stars to compete in such a capacity, as was announced recently when the dates for the meet were made public.

The possibility of the I. C. A. A. A. A. agreeing to cancel the championship series in favor of a patriotic or other series is not even thought of, according to an opinion from an authoritative source yesterday, and since the constitution of the association rules against the proposed plan of the Harvard athletes, it becomes evident they will not be permitted to enter the games.

Some of Harvard's athletes will participate in the Boston Athletic Association games which will be held in Boston on Feb. 2. The Crimson colors will be seen in the relay events in which 'Varsity teams have been entered for distances of 390 and 780 yards. A freshman team will also participate in the relays. It is likely also that the Cambridge University will have representation in the Irish-American A. C. games in Boston, and the Lawrence Light Infantry games which will follow the B. A. A. meet.

NAVY WILL PUSH SPORTS.

New Athletic Secretary Says Activities Will Be Continued.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 9.—Athletics are to boom at the Naval Academy this year, as far as war conditions will permit. Lieut. Commander Charles S. McWhorter, U. S. N., the new Secretary of the Navy Athletic Association, states that every effort will be made to carry on the athletic work of the Naval Academy to the full extent of its former schedule. The midshipmen are, however, hampered by the haste of their hurried preparations for active service and by the buildings in progress at the academy. The tennis courts have nearly all been occupied by the improvements, and there will be few meets in this line.

The Navy, however, will have full schedules in baseball, and arrangements are being made for three track meets. Baseball and track work are now tentative and the programs of events are not yet completed. The Navy has under consideration races for its crews in May or April, but nothing definite has developed. Training will proceed as usual, and there will be in any event contests among the crews of the academy.

MORROW NAMED COACH.

Succeeds Sol Metzger as Mentor of W. and J. Eleven.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Penn., Jan. 9.—David C. Morrow of Washington, former star centre, has been named head coach of the 1918 football team at Washington and Jefferson, succeeding Sol Metzger, who was not an applicant, having entered war Y. M. C. A. physical work. The return of Morrow is a return by W. and J. to the graduate coaching system after six years under former Pennsylvania tutors. Morrow was the last coach prior to this period, having had charge of the Washington and Jefferson teams in 1906, 1909, 1910, and 1911. He was also line coach of the 1917 team under Metzger, the splendid work of the forwards being due to his efforts.

YALE WILL ENTER MEETS.

Eli to be Represented at B. A. A. and Meadow Brook Games.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 9.—According to an announcement made by the Yale track management, Yale University will be represented in the B. A. A. and Meadowbrook indoor track meets to be held this Winter. Trials for the university and freshman relay teams will start immediately.

The first of the three numeral meets for the field events will be held on Saturday. These meets will be held once a week. Three places will count in each meet, and that man who has the highest total score in each event will receive his numerals.

BERRY TO RUN FOR ARMY.

Pennsylvania Athlete Will Represent Camp Dix at Millrose Games.

Howard Berry, the noted all-around track athlete and football player of the University of Pennsylvania, is one of the candidates for the team that will represent Camp Dix in the one-mile relay race for army men at the games of the Millrose A. A. on Jan. 23. Among the other prominent athletes likely to make the team, which will be picked by Athletic Director R. S. Walton, are: Lieutenant William F. Kelly, the Prudential Insurance A. A. crack; Corporal Phillip Keating, formerly of the Irish-American A. C.; Lieutenant William Anderson of the 71st Regiment and New York A. C., and Lieutenant George H. De Kay, a member of the winning relay team at the Pennsylvania relay meet.

TENNIS PLAY ADVANCES.

Finals Reached in Both Men's and Women's Tourneys at Pinehurst.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., Jan. 9.—The semi-finals of the men's and women's singles in the midwinter tennis tournament were completed today at Pinehurst. In the men's singles Christian Mack of Ann Arbor beat Charles Horton of Rye, 6—0, 6—0, and will meet Hugh G. Whitehead of the Norfolk Country Club for the trophy. Mrs. Jay V. Hall of New York defeated Miss Louise Patterson of Plainfield in the women's singles, 6—3, 6—4. Mrs. Hall will meet Miss Florence Ballin in the final.

Entries for Race Close Today.

Entries for the Yorkville Athletic League's four-mile novice road race, the league's biggest event of the year, which will be held next Sunday afternoon, will close today. The officials report only a fair number of entries thus far, but are expectant that there will be a considerable increase before the lists are closed, inasmuch as the event is open to all registered A. A. U. athletes who are novices. The event will start and finish at the Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A., and the start is scheduled for 2:30 P. M.

Tremont Rink Races Tomorrow.

The weekly handicap races will be held at the Tremont Rink, Westchester and Tremont Avenues, tomorrow night, and will consist of a half and one mile handicap, and half-mile novice race. Entries include the entire teams of the New York A. C., Verona Lake S. C., Riverside S. C., and Peerless S. C., as well as most of the best-known individual skaters in the vicinity of New York.

Moore Beaten at Angle Game.

Gus Copulos of Pittsburgh defeated George Moore of this city last night in an Interstate Three-Cushion Billiard League match game at Thum's by the score of 50 to 48 in ninety-one innings.

ICE YACHTS CRASH AT START OF RACE

Ingenue Finishes Contest, Beating Gull, but Say When Is Unable to Continue.

Special to The New York Times.

RED BANK, N. J., Jan. 9.—A few seconds after three ice yachts had started in a ten-mile race for the Commodore's Cup John Bates's Ingenue and T. Irving Brown's Say When, which will meet the Princeton and Silver Heels in the State championship races tomorrow afternoon, were in collision and the three skippers in each boat narrowly escaped injury. Mart Haviland, Captain of the Say When, lost control of the boat when a puff of wind struck her and raised the rear runner.

The craft, which was sailing down the river to the windward of the Ingenue, slanted into the latter boat, the bowsprit striking the Ingenue in the keel near the mast and the runner plank splitting a shot bag used as ballast. Had it not been for the clever handling of the Ingenue by Reuben White, who turned his craft about quickly and sailed in the opposite direction up the river, a much more serious accident would have resulted. Neither boat was badly damaged and both will start in tomorrow's race.

The Say When withdrew from the race, but the Ingenue continued and soon caught and passed the Gull, winning the ten-mile race, easily covering the course in 22 minutes.

The Ingenue was double-reefed, and White, the captain, had his two brothers, William and Ensley, with him. The Ingenue showed plenty of speed in the brisk northwest breeze. Robert S. Johnson was unable to keep his yacht to the ice and when the Gull was not flying on a single runner she was spinning on the ice like a top. Andrew White and Lester Pierce were Johnson's sailing mates.

The Zero II had her sail so badly torn in a trial spin before the race that she was unable to start. The challengers and defenders are now on the river and everything is in readiness for the start of the championship races tomorrow.

LONG SCHEDULE FOR ARMY.

Thirteen Games Listed for West Point Hockey Team.

WEST POINT, Jan. 9.—The army hockey schedule for this Winter was announced today. Thirteen games are on the card, all of which will be played at home. Williams, Massachussetts "Aggies," Dartmouth, and Boston College are the headliners.

The schedule:

Jan. 9, New York Military Academy; 12, Stevens Institute of Technology; 16, New York State College (Albany); 19, Naval Reserves; 23, Colgate; 26, Williams; 30, Nassau Hockey Club.

Feb. 2, Massachusetts "Aggies"; 4, Dartmouth; 6, Springfield Y. M. C. A.; 9, Rensselaer Poly.; 13, Camp Upton; 16, Boston College.

SAILOR FIRST IN SWIM.

Moeller Captures N. Y. A. C. Event by Narrow Margin.

The New York Athletic Club extended its program of catering to soldiers and sailors last night with a 50-yard novice swim, open only to men in the Federal service. This event, as well as the 100-yard open handicap, was hotly contested in the club's tank, and the honor of winning the first prize of the series fell to Herbert Moeller, a member of the United States Naval Reserve Force. There was a desperate race for the trophy, with E. W. Loew of the New York State Naval Militia in the lead for the first turn of the tank. Both swimmers made good turns, and twenty yards from the finish were on even terms. It was only by a touch that Moeller defeated Loew, with the third man, K. W. Troensegaard, a couple of yards back. The time was 29 2-5 seconds.

In the 100-yard event Ensign Hayford was the favorite, but met with unexpected opposition from Leonard Du Brul, an unattached swimmer. Hayford was more adept at the turns than his rival and held the lead by less than a yard after making the turn for the last lap of the tank. The sailor tired half way through the stretch, and in the last few strokes Du Brul managed to capture the honors.

The summaries:

100-Yard Swim, Handicap.—Won by Leonard Du Brul, unattached, (0:12;) Ensign M. F. Hayford, U. S. N. R. F., (0:12,) second; Kenneth Sutherland, New York State Nautical School, (0:07,) third. Time—1:04 3-5.

50-Yard Swim, Novice, for Enlisted Men in the Federal Service.—Won by Herbert Moeller, U. S. N. R. F.; E. W. Loew, New York State Naval Militia, second; K. W. Troensegaard, New York State Naval Militia, third. Time—0:29 2-5.

Fancy Diving, Handicap.—Won by F. N. Sponberg, New York A. C., (6 points,) with 96 6-10 points; George W. Dahm, unattached, (18 points,) second, with 92 9-10; F. N. Mullen, U. S. N. R. F., (7 points,) third, with 90 4-10.

FOUR JOCKEYS ARE INJURED

Accidents Mar New Orleans Racing—Two Horses Killed.

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 9.—Four jockeys were injured and two horses were killed in accidents during today's running races at the Fair Grounds track. None of the riders is seriously hurt.

In the seventh race J. Cruise, J. Williams, and W. Kelsay received painful bruises when their mounts fell in a tangle at the six-furlong post, Checks, Williams's mount, being killed. Cruise, Williams, and Kelsay will be able to ride tomorrow, it was announced, but Johnson may be out of the saddle for several days.

File Plans for New Clubhouse.

That there will be a new clubhouse for the opening of the Aqueduct race track next Spring is assured. The officials of the Queens County Jockey Club announced long ago that this improvement would be made and they have now filed plans with the Building Department for the erection of a building to cost $25,000. The new house will be a three-story structure, 35 by 88 feet.

Play-Off of Tie Another Tie.

When Louis Kreuter defeated George Clark in the New York State pocket billiard championship tournament at Lawler Brothers' Academy last night a three-cornered tie was created in the event for the second time. After the completion of the regular game Kreuter, Clark, and Joseph Concannon were tied for the lead. On Monday the play-off of this tie began, with the result that instead of solving the riddle, another tie was established. Kreuter defeated Calrk last night by a score of 100 to 27.

COLLEGES CURTAIL FENCING

Only Three Likely to Compete for Intercollegiate Title.

S. Valentine, a member of the Senior class and Captain of the Columbia University fencing team, has entered the Naval Aviation School at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He has resigned as Captain of the Blue and White team. His successor is H. W. Forster, a sophomore. M. J. Bloomer, another sophomore, will take Valentine's place as Secretary of the Intercollegiate Fencing Association.

At a recent meeting of representatives of Yale, Pennsylvania, and Columbia, it was decided to hold the intercollegiate fencing championships in the Columbia University gymnasium. This means that the Hotel Astor, which has been the scene of many of these annual contests, will be abandoned for 1918. It seems probable that the three colleges named above will be the only ones to enter the championships. Annapolis will not compete, and Harvard, usually a strong contestant, will have bayonet work instead of fencing. Yale will be represented, even though the members of its squad will have to pay for their own coach. It was suggested at the meeting that bayonet combats be made intercollegiate, but serious discussion of this feature was left for future consideration.

Certificate of Registration Scotch Mist trade mark

The trademark "Scotch Mist" is ours exclusively. We speak of it because, with lots of folks, the name "Scotch Mist" has now come to be an everyday synonym for smart, woolen raincoats. Rather a nice compliment to our "Scotch Mists"; but as we are the sole makers of these attractive, serviceable, rainproofed overcoats, we feel it's rather up to us to give publicity, now and then, to the fact that "Scotch Mists" are constructed after a formula all our own—and that the trademark's registered.

What Does Your Blood Lack?

Across the conference table and in the shop; at the desk and on the platform—everywhere—iron-blooded health conquers. The world holds its richest rewards for the man whose bodily strength equals his soul's ambition. For the weak it has only pity and sympathy.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan
"The Red Blood Builder"

Restores the vitality by recharging the source of vigor—the blood—with the elements that make for strength. If your endurance is below par, and you are frequently languid and listless; if you are pale and anemic and these symptoms are not indications of a serious organic disease, a course of Pepto-Mangan will prove highly beneficial.

Pepto-Mangan invigorates the body by supplying the blood with liberal quantities of digestible iron—which adds to the blood millions of new, rich, red blood cells. Thin, sluggish blood becomes enriched, and the circulation improves. A stream of iron-rugged vitality flows through the system bringing rejuvenation to its overtired organs.

Pepto-Mangan is a desirable tonic for the anemic, the overworked, the aged, and the convalescent. Its taste is exceedingly agreeable, and it cannot injure the teeth nor disturb digestion.

Friendly Warning: Gude's is the only true Pepto-Mangan. It is sold only in bottles and packages as pictured here. It is never sold in bulk. Reject substitutes—there are many. Read circular around bottle. For sale by all druggists.

A Sound Car for Unusual Times

Heavier dependence will be placed by Americans on the motor car as a means of transportation in the months to come, than ever before.

In unusual times such as these, the need is distinctly for a sound car—a car that will serve capably and without failure over sustained periods and under adverse conditions, at the minimum of operating and upkeep costs.

No car more ably meets the requirements of such service than the Oakland Sensible Six, as proved by its unusual performance in the hands of more than a hundred thousand users.

The simple and enduring chassis on which all models of this high-power, lightweight and economical car are built—together with the overhead-valve Oakland engine which delivers 44 horsepower at 2600 r. p. m.,—is shown at the Automobile Show as part of the Oakland Sensible Six exhibit.

Oakland occupies Space A-30 at the Show. The models displayed are: the Touring Car, at $990; the Roadster, at $990; the Roadster Coupe, at $1150; the Sedan, at $1190; the Sedan (unit body), at $1490; the Coupe (unit body), at $1490.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Prices Make Further Recovery, Though Activity Dwindles—Awaiting New Developments.

In what was decidedly a traders' market yesterday prices moved forward rather vigorously in the forenoon, underwent a reaction, and closed higher with gains general, many issues showing advances of from 1 to 3 points. Activity was much reduced and outside of half a dozen issues the transactions were down to the minimum. Steel supplied just 35 per cent. of the day's dealings on the Stock Exchange. The Street is very much interested in the probable action of the Directors on the dividend which comes up for settlement on the 29th of this month. Sentiment in brokerage circles is divided as to whether the board will do away with the extra at this meeting in order to make up the deficiency in the sum so far set aside for the excess profits tax, or continue the present liberal rate.

The President's message continues to engross the thoughts of bankers and traders. It has received more careful reading and re-reading than any previous utterance since the declaration of war. On sober second thought the market followers were inclined to the view that unless the forces working within the German Empire against the military leaders are much stronger than can be assumed on the reports reaching this country through roundabout channels the war aims so clearly ennunciated by the President must mean protracted fighting. Against this view it is argued that unless the German Army can demonstrate in the next few months its ability to make more headway against the allied line the pressure from the civil population for peace, even at the sacrifice of all the objects for which the Kaiser plunged his people into war, will hasten the date at which the open discussion of peace terms demanded by the President may be begun.

The stock market is showing signs of uncertainty over the realization of hopes on which the recent advance was built up, and unless new factors are supplied shortly it will not be surprising to see dealings contract still further. It is essentially a traders' market at the moment, and as such is not inviting much outside commission business. Any important new development in the war situation would, however, find an immediate response through a fresh outburst of activity.

A serious situation in the Pittsburgh district was emphasized in the weekly review of The Iron Age, which states that weather and coal difficulties have brought operations of blast furnaces and steel works to the verge of complete demoralization. Scores of furnaces have been banked, and steel works are running to but 50 or 75 per cent. of capacity. Not only is the industry badly crippled, but the prospects of early relief are poor.

GOOD TONE IN LONDON.

Shipping Shares Lead on Reports of New Government Rates.

LONDON, Jan. 9.—There was a moderate turnover on the Stock Exchange today and the tone was good. Shipping shares were leading features on reports of a forthcoming advance in Government rates.

Cunard stocks were further assisted by reports of a reissue of capital. Russian securities were firm, City of Riga bonds gaining four points. Eastern Kaffirs were strong. The other sections were dull throughout.

Money was in better demand and discount rates were firm.

Little Trading on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, Jan. 9.—Trading was flat on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes 58 francs 25 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 20¼ centimes. Five per cent. loan 88 francs 45 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Tobacco Shorts Trimmed.

The shorts in American Tobacco shares have found hard sledding ever since the company announced that earnings would be drawn upon to provide additional working capital and that the newly authorized Class B stock would not be issued. The net advance of 10½ points on Tuesday apparently represented some hurried covering, and the shorts who failed to get under shelter then had to bid still higher yesterday. The gain in yesterday's dealings was 9⅝ points, and at the maximum price of 165 the stock stood about 15 points above its level when the December decline started. There have been rueful readjustments of opinions in respect to the future trend of American Tobacco. When the management first announced the plan to convert $50,000,000 common stock into a non-voting issue, speculative pencils figured that the company's dividend would have to be reduced if the stock was sold, and this, they argued, should cause a decline below 120. The quotation went down to 123 on Dec. 20 and refused to go lower when the general market turned upward.

Scrip at a Premium Bid.

On the Curb yesterday a bid of 125 was reported for $50,000 of the scrip to be issued by the American Tobacco Company in lieu of dividends in the current year. The bid meant that the $24 was offered for a $20 dividend, the quarterly rate which the company has intimated will be continued in scrip. The paper bears interest of 6 per cent. and may be converted into Class B common stock at the end of three years. The premium presumably was influenced by the convertible feature of the scrip, although the terms of conversion have not been made public in detail. As the scrip-dividend plan immediately preceded the abrupt rise in the shares, it was assumed in brokerage offices that a "bull argument" was contained in the plan. Whether this was the case or not, bidders found very little stock about when they went into the market. American Tobacco common has always been closely held, an unfortunate situation for heedless short sellers.

The Denver & Rio Grande.

It now appears that the conferences in Washington between Judge Payne, counsel for the Director General of Railroads, and representatives of both parties to the Denver & Rio Grande-Western Pacific suit were extremely brief. Judge Payne made it clear at once that Mr. McAdoo was interested in only one thing—that nothing should be done to interfere in any way with the efficient operation of the road as an integral unit of the mobilized transportation system. Neither the Western Pacific bondholders nor any of their representatives have ever had any intention of permitting such a thing, and they were able to assure Judge Payne of the fact immediately. That ended the Government's interest in the matter. Since then there have been conferences, and yesterday afternoon there was to have been a Directors' meeting of the Denver & Rio Grande, which, it is understood, failed for want of a quorum. Apparently the conferences have come to nothing, and the Equitable Trust Company, as trustee for the bondholders, is determined to press for judgment. The manner in which the settlement is to be worked out without disturbing the operation of the road is apparently to be left to the court to decide.

The Stock Dividend Decision.

The recent decision of the Supreme Court that stock dividends are not liable to income tax seems destined to place another difficulty in the way of interpretation of the income tax law of 1917, which was hardly necessary, in view of the fact that no one has been able to make head or tail of much of the law in any case. The case of Henry R. Towne, upon which the decision was rendered, was brought under the law of 1913, but it is the general opinion downtown that the decision applies with equal force to any other income tax law. George Welwood Murray, who has been as intimately associated with the case as any attorney, yesterday declined to express an opinion as to the applicability of the decision to the 1917 law, but he took pains to point out that the court's opinion rests, not upon anything in the particular statute, but upon basic principles, which are, presumably, as applicable to one law as another. The Towne case, moreover, was taken to the Supreme Court as a test case, on the general principle, and it was this fact which brought Mr. Murray into the litigation, he having been counsel in several parallel cases held in abeyance for the Towne decision.

Government Control and the Broker.

One effect of Government control of shipping in England has been the practically complete extinction of the ship broker. The result of the requisitioning of virtually all English tonnage afloat at Blue Book rates, and direct operation by the Shipping Controller, has been to leave no business save the relatively small volume of neutral tonnage upon the market, and this has not been sufficient to keep brokerage firms alive. Ship brokers in New York are beginning to feel the danger of a similar result here from the operation of the Shipping Board's control of American tonnage, and yesterday a meeting of the fraternity was held upon the floor of the Produce Exchange to consider the situation. It is, so far, precisely similar to that in England—by requisitioning the bulk of American tonnage, and returning to the owner to be operated for Government account under berthing rates, the Shipping Board has left the broker no market save the narrow one of neutral, small American, and sailing tonnage.

Keeping the Broker Alive.

The brokers' contention is that if Government control and operation is to endure after the war, they must, of course, put up the shutters, but if, as is indicated by the very language of the act creating the Shipping Board, the settled policy of the United States calls for a return, after the present emergency is passed, to a free competitive market in shipping, with full scope for private enterprise, it will be impossible to attain that end unless the brokers are kept alive now to recreate it. There is a general feeling in the shipping industry here that England will suffer after the war for the mistake of having put her brokers out of business, and a desire that this country may avoid the same mistake. There is good hope, however, that the Shipping Board will also see the matter in this light.

PLEA FOR TRAINED BANKERS

Albert Breton Sees Unlimited Opportunities for Americans.

The great need of the United States in the foreign operations of its bankers is for more trained men, according to Albert Breton, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, who spoke before the New York Chapter of the American Institute of Banking last night.

"We have plenty of capital," he said, "and must have a greater number of men, trained and prepared for the tremendous expansion in American foreign banking, which is now taking place and will continue. Opportunities for the country's financial extension have become practically unlimited as the result of the war."

JAPANESE TO OPEN AGENCY.

The Sumitomo Bank, Limited, Will Have Branch Here.

The Sumitomo Bank, Limited, an influential Japanese institution, has perfected arrangements for the opening of a New York agency at 149 Broadway. The bank's capital and surplus amount to more than $12,000,000 and it has total resources in excess of $127,000,000. Its head office is at Osaka, in Japan, and it operates twenty-two branches in the cities of Tokio, Yokohama, Kobe, Osaka, and other Japanese cities where most of the important foreign business of Japan is transacted. The bank has already established branches in San Francisco, Seattle, Shanghai, Hankow, and Bombay; and through the Sumitomo Bank of Hawaii, in Honolulu, it has extensive banking connections in the Islands of the Pacific.

The House of Sumitomo, of which Baron K. Sumitomo is now the head, besides controlling the Sumitomo Bank Limited, is widely interested in copper mines and smelters, copper works, coal mines, steel works, cable and wire works, and other manufacturing and industrial enterprises in Japan. V. Yampashita, the manager of the Sumitomo general head office, is now in this city as a member of the Japanese Finance Commission.

MANY CHANGES IN BANK.

N. Y. County National Retains Only Three of Old Board.

The New York County National Bank announced yesterday that at a meeting of its stockholders only three members of the old Board of Directors had been retained, namely: James C. Brower, W. H. Noyes, and Lewis L. Pierce. The new Directors elected are Oscar Cooper, the new President of the bank; Guy Cary, Owen B. Huntsman, Robert Morrison, Jr., Richard C. Storey, and George R. Walker. The retiring Directors are F. R. Leland, who represented the Leland estate, O. G. Smith, G. L. Shearer, Jesse I. Straus, and C. F. Tietjen.

At the annual meeting of the Market and Fulton National Bank, G. M. Olcott, A. S. Swan, and F. B. Fiske were retired as Directors.

B. D. Riegel has been added to the Board of Directors of the Coal and Iron National Bank.

The retiring Directors of the New York Trust Company, the Lincoln Trust Company, the Union Exchange National Bank, the Lincoln National and the Harriman National Bank have been re-elected.

Stockholders of the Franklin Trust Company of Brooklyn elected as trustees yesterday Charles A. Dana, President of the Spicer Manufacturing Company; Archibald Douglas, Treasurer of the United Verde Extension Mining Company, and Franklin D. Asche, Vice President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. The new members will fill vacancies caused by enlistments in the military service. Retiring trustees were re-elected.

Facing 1918

Great tasks confront the nation in 1918. The war must be conducted, industry and commerce must proceed at full speed and preparations must be made for the reconstruction period after the war. Banking must keep pace with these needs.

If we face these tasks with vision the beginning is good—and well begun is half done.

THE COTTON MARKET

New High Record Made All Down the List—Net Gain 28 to 35 Points.

Better weather conditions in the Southwest, rumors of an easier spot basis, and a Government ginning report somewhat larger than expectations proved unequal to the task of checking the advance of cotton prices on the local market yesterday. The chief feature of the market was the report, on good authority, that the French Government is preparing to make heavy purchases of spot cotton in the South in the near future. All indications are that there is increasing anxiety in Europe as to cotton supplies out of the present crop. New high records were made all down the list, with October contracts selling above the 30-cent level. The close was near the top for the day, with net advances of 28 to 35 points.

As has been the case repeatedly on the present advance, the opening was strong, 6 to 18 points up, on over-night orders, and was followed immediately by a temporary reaction under profit taking. The census report showing 10,450,401 bales ginned up to Jan. 1 was a bit better than had been expected, and helped hold the market down for a time. The trade demand continued as insistent as ever, however, extending all through the list, and during the rest of the session the market was active and strong.

It is understood the French Government will be in the market in the South for approximately 200,000 bales of cotton within a few weeks, and this report is supported by earlier announcements that total importations into France would reach 850,000 bales this season, and the fact that importations so far have amounted to only about 300,000 bales. Southern spot markets, as officially reported, continue to advance, being generally 25 points above Tuesday. Exports for the day were 18,643 bales, a total of 2,160,171 for the season. The War Trade Board has suspended its requirement of individual export licenses for cotton to allied nations, but it is doubted whether, with the present famine in cargo space, this will help the export trade much.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Aside from the Southwestern sections of the Winter wheat belt, where there has been a deficiency of moisture throughout the season, the Winter wheat crop is apparently well protected by an ample snow covering. This has given rise to a more optimistic feeling regarding crop prospects. Receipts at interior points continue light, and some mills are complaining of difficulty in securing wheat to grind. The car situation in the West showed some improvement, but the efforts seemed to be directed more particularly toward moving soft corn.

CORN.

The corn market was quiet, but prices were steady, closing with net gains of ⅛c to ½c. The firmness in oats had a stimulating influence on the market and sellers were inclined to be cautious. Advices from Chicago said that the question of changing the maximum price has not been abandoned. The local cash market was steady, kiln dried No. 3 yellow being quoted at $1.81; No. 3 mixed, $1.79, cost and freight New York, prompt shipment; Argentine corn, $1.95 to $2.05, cost and freight to arrive.

OATS.

The oats market was again firm, with active covering by those who had sold on Tuesday afternoon. Exporters were again in evidence, and sales were estimated at fully 150,000 bushels, with intimation that the total business had been larger. Receipts at primary points were only moderate and the impression prevails that preference will be given to corn on account of its low quality. The cash position in the West was steady to firm, and there were no further evidences of increased pressure from the country. The local cash market was firmer; standard quoted at 92½@95c; No. 2 white, 95c; No. 3 white, 94½c; No. 4 white, 93½@94½c; fancy clipped, white, 94@96c; ordinary clipped, white, 92@94c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for provisions was again very quiet, as there was little incentive to trade either way. Smaller receipts of hogs than expected and a slightly firmer tone to the hog market had a sustaining influence on values, however, and prices were higher throughout the list, closing at the top. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 20,000, estimated for Thursday, $30,000; Kansas City received 15,000 and Omaha 9,800 hogs.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The market for cottonseed oil was lifeless. No business occurred, and at the close values were nominal at unchanged to 3 points higher. Tenders on January contracts were 800 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The reactionary feeling which has been more or less evident in the coffee market here for the past two or three days seemed to grow stronger yesterday, and there was quite a sharp break in prices. In addition to realizing by old longs, there was selling attributed to the trade, and the decline was accompanied by reports of an easier tone in the cost and freight market and more optimistic talk as to the prospects for importations. March contracts sold off to 8.20c, and September to 8.72c, with the market closing at a net decline of 14 to 20 points, or at the lowest point. The local spot market was reported quiet, with Rio grades an eighth lower at 8⅝c for 7s, while Santos grades were unchanged on the basis of 10⅝c for 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

Further business has been reported done in raw sugar through the committee at the equivalent of 6.005c, duty paid New York. The sales included 11,000 bags Perus, afloat, at 4.749c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York; 5,000 bags Peru molasses, afloat, at 3.875c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York, and 88,000 bags Cubas, prompt shipment, at 4.925c, cost and freight, New Orleans. Arrivals of sugar at Cuban ports continue liberal, but the scarcity of freight room is allowing only moderate quantities being shipped to United States Atlantic ports. There are about 143 mills now grinding and private advices report favorable weather in Cuba. In refined sugar there was little fresh news. Arbuckles were said to be taking a little business, but the Federal and Warner refineries continued out of the market owing to a lack of raw supplies.

Later there were additional sales reported to the committee, consisting of 60,000 bags of Cubas, at 4.985c, cost and freight; 8,000 bags Porto Ricos, at 6.005c, cost, insurance, and freight, and 5,000 bags Perus, at 4.749c, cost, insurance, and freight, New York, afloat, due, and prompt shipment.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 12,084 packages. The larger part of the stock consisted of delayed goods, both fresh and held. Market opened a shade easier, but steadied up later and closed at much the same prices as ruled Tuesday, except ladles and packing stock, which gained another half cent. Creamery, higher than extras, 51½@52c a pound; extras, (92 score,) 50½@51c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 47½@50c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 43½@46½c; thirds, 41@42½c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 53½@54c; extras, 52½@53c; firsts, 48½@52c; seconds, 45@48c; creamery, held, extras, 46c; firsts, 45½@46c; seconds, 43@45c; thirds, 40@42c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 50@50½c; good to prime, 47@49½c; common to fair, 40@46c; renovated, extras, 41½@42c; firsts, 40½@41½c; lower grades, 38@40c; ladles, current make, firsts, 38@38½c; seconds, 37@37½c; lower grades, 35½@36½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 37@37½c; No. 2, 36½c; lower grades, 34@36c.

EGGS.—3,264 cases. Fresh gathered eggs continue in small supply. Demand is sufficient to absorb the offerings at fully sustained prices. Some of the receipts are still more or less frozen, and these sell at a very wide range, according to the extent of the damage. Nearby eggs of strictly fancy quality are generally rated steady, but medium grades and average good stock move slowly and values are somewhat irregular. Storage eggs firm and still tend slightly in sellers' favor. Fresh gathered extras, per dozen, 67c; extra firsts, 66c; firsts, 65c; seconds and moderately frosted, 55@64c; thirds and poorer, including more seriously frozen, 30@54c; refrigerator, special marks, fancy, 45c; firsts, 43½@44½c; seconds, 42@43c; lower grades, 37@41c; refrigerator, checks from local candling, 30@34c; State Pennsylvania and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 72@75c; ordinary to good, 65@71c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 65@72c; State Pennsylvania and nearby whites, pullets, 60@65c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 64@70c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 67@68c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 62@67c.

Brass

Comparatively few people outside of New England are acquainted with the magnitude of the brass industry, the importance of it in connection with present world conditions, and the enormous profits that have been and are now being made by the brass manufactories in the State of Connecticut.

In the City of Waterbury, Conn., alone (the brass centre of the United States) more than 100 brass plants are in operation.

The subject, which is a very interesting one, is fully described in a special booklet which we have prepared and which, among other things, shows how investors may participate in the profits of this giant industry.

Ask for Booklet E. P., which will be sent without obligation or expense.

STEEL CO. ISSUES NOTES.

Wharton Concern Consolidates Floating Debt and Mortgage

The Wharton Steel Company, which was bought last year from Philadelphia interests by J. Leonard Replogle and associates, is consolidating its floating debt and a mortgage of $750,000 through an issue of $1,200,000 two-year 6 per cent. notes. The banking firm of Chandler & Co. is offering about $200,000 of the notes at 94, a basis which brings the purchaser a net income of 9¼ per cent. on the money he puts into them. The balance of $1,000,000 notes has been placed.

The Wharton Steel Company with its large ore holdings in Northern New Jersey had lain idle for four years before Mr. Replogle acquired the property. The blast furnaces were put into operation last Spring and heavy tonnages of pig iron were turned out, of which a large part went to Japan. Earnings in 1917 are estimated at $800,000.

Stock Exchange Firm Suspends.

The Stock Exchange firm of Kerr & Co., 71 Broadway, made an assignment yesterday to Thomas G. Smith, being unable to meet their obligations. The house was active in the Street a few years ago, but had been conducting only a small business for some time preceding the suspension. The failure had no effect on the day's transactions on the Exchange. The firm consists of Robert B. Kerr and Louis S. Kerr, the latter being the Exchange member. The partnership was formed on Dec. 30, 1893. Mr. Smith said yesterday afternoon that the investigation of the books had not gone far enough to disclose the amount of assets and liabilities.

Equitable Plan Goes to Phillips.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society has submitted to Jesse S. Phillips, State Superintendent of Insurance, its plan for mutualization, which has been approved by the Directors, policyholders and stock owners. Mr. Phillips announced yesterday that a hearing upon the matter would be held at his office in Albany on Jan. 16 at 2 o'clock P. M. The policyholders recently approved the plan by a heavy vote.

UNITED STATES GOVT. BONDS

Inasmuch as the bulk of the business in United States Government bonds is done over the counter, and not on the Stock Exchange, THE TIMES gives the following quotations, obtained from bond dealers:

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

Profit-taking in volume brought about irregularity in the afternoon dealings on the Consolidated Stock Exchange, but the undertone continued good. In the forenoon strength had characterized the market, with the demand for United States Steel common a feature. That stock led the list in its early forward movement. Overnight favorable opinion had evidently crystalized regarding the President's message to Congress, in which he specified the terms that would form a basis for world peace.

Total Loan, $250,000. Valuation of direct security, $660,000.

The valuation of the direct security is over two and one-half times the amount of the loan.

The building is a fireproof structure erected for a milk pasteurization, bottling and ice plant. It is designed to be the world's largest, most modern and best equipped milk pasteurization plant.

The mortgage is a first lien on both land and building. The loan is further secured by an assignment of a ten-year lease executed by the Sheffield Farms Company, Inc., for an aggregate net rental of $400,000, at the uniform rate of $40,000 per annum, thus providing unusually strong commercial backing for the loan.

The Sheffield Farms Company, Inc., is an old-established, successful business, well known in New York. Its average annual sales for the past three years were $11,900,285.02. Its average net earnings, after depreciation, for the same period, were $472,887.04 per annum, an amount nearly twelve times the sum annually due on the lease.

The mortgage is held by the Equitable Trust Company of New York, as Depositary. Authentication of the Depositary will be endorsed on each mortgage certificate.

We offer at par the unsold balance of these 5½ per cent. first mortgage certificates with our guarantee of principal and interest. Denominations of $100 or multiples thereof in various maturities, as above listed.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

Southern Pacific Railroad Company First Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds

Notice is hereby given that, pursuant to the provisions of Section 10, Article Fourth, of the mortgage and deed of trust executed by this Company to The Equitable Trust Company of New York, as Trustee, dated January 3d, 1905, to secure its First Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds, this Company has set apart out of the net income derived by it from the lines of railroad subject to the lien of said mortgage and deed of trust the sum of $12,000 in the year 1917, in trust to be used to redeem said bonds, and that bonds will be redeemed therewith. Bids are hereby invited for the surrender of such bonds at prices to be named by the bidders to the amount of $12,259.26, in the sinking fund. Such bids should be presented to this Company at its office, 165 Broadway, in the City and State of New York, on or before the fifth day of February, 1918, at 12 o'clock noon, and should be endorsed "Bids for surrender of Southern Pacific Railroad Company's First Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD CO.,
By G. L. KING, Secretary.
Dated January 8, 1918.

GREAT FALLS POWER COMPANY.
First Mortgage dated May 1, 1911.

Bankers Trust Company, as Trustee under the above Mortgage, gives notice that it will receive at its Trust Department, No. 16 Wall Street, New York City, up to 12 o'clock noon, on February 7, 1918, sealed proposals for the sale to it, at a price not exceeding 107½% and accrued interest, of sufficient bonds secured by said Mortgage to exhaust as nearly as practicable, the sum of $131,203.44. Such proposals should be made in sealed envelopes and must reach the said Trustee not later than 12 noon on February 7, 1918. Notice of purchase of bonds will be mailed on February 8, 1918, and the bonds so purchased should be delivered to the Trustee before the close of business February 11, 1918, on which date interest thereon will cease. In case more bonds are offered at the same price than the Trustees can purchase, it will be determined by lot which bonds shall be taken. The right is reserved to reject any proposals in whole or in part.

BANKERS TRUST COMPANY, Trustee.

LEGAL NOTICES.

AT A SPECIAL TERM, PART II OF THE Supreme Court of the State of New York, held in and for the County of New York, at the County Courthouse, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 31st day of December, 1917.—Present: HON. M. WARLEY PLATZEK, Justice.—In the matter of the application of HENRY EPHRAIM, For a Voluntary Dissolution of the Gotham Sporting Goods Co., a Domestic Corporation.

On reading and filing the petition of HENRY EPHRAIM, the Secretary and Treasurer, and the owner of one-half of the capital stock of the Gotham Sporting Goods Co., a domestic corporation, having its principal office located in the County of New York, and the schedule thereto annexed, duly verified the 26th day of December, 1917, from which it appears that the case is one of those specified in Section 172 of the General Corporation Law, and on reading and filing the notice of this application dated December 26th, 1917, with due proof of service thereon of said petition and schedule, and of a copy of this order, on the Attorney General, and after hearing MEYER BOSKEY, counsel for the said petitioner and the representative of the Attorney General;

NOW, on motion of MEYER BOSKEY, attorney for petitioner, it is ORDERED that all persons interested in said corporation, show cause before Special Term, Part I of this Court, at the County Courthouse, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, on the 18th day of February, 1918, at 10:15 o'clock A. M., why the said corporation should not be dissolved, and it is further ORDERED that a copy of this order be published at least once in each of the three weeks immediately preceding the said 18th day of February, 1918, in Journal of Commerce and New York Law Journal, newspapers published in the County of New York.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday....5¾ per cent. for the best names
Tuesday......5¾ " " " " "

These quotations are for six months' paper.

Prices Still Going Up.

With the almost constant rise in cotton, prices on fabrics in the local gray goods market continue to rise and sellers get less willing to trade. Sheetings and other coarse goods are especially firm. Sales of four-yard 48-square sheetings were reported yesterday at 15 cents for May shipment, while 5.50s brought 11½ cents for delivery as far ahead as June. Not many mills are willing to trade that far ahead, from all accounts, which may have something to do with the present high range of prices. For 40-inch 2.85-yard sheetings, which, with all other sheetings of that width, are very scarce, were quoted yesterday at 20¾ to 21 cents for nearbys. Forty-inch 4.25s were held at 15 cents.

Salesmen Are Hard Hit.

This promises to be a hard year for a great many salesmen, for, in addition to the discomforts of their calling in normal times, developments of the war have made it even harder. Not only have train schedules been cut, but salesmen must pay an increased excess baggage charge, as well as taxes on railroad and Pullman tickets. In addition to this, the baggage transfer companies are advancing their rates all the time, and the sample carriers are demanding more money for their services than ever before. The high cost of eating has become even more marked in hotels than in homes, and the cost of sleeping in hotels is rising also. Sample rooms have developed the habit of getting more expensive. Yet in spite of all this, salesmen say, commissions and salaries are still largely of pre-war proportions.

Building Service Curtailed.

Under the present unusual conditions the downtown district is being treated to new experiences every day. Yesterday many of the large office buildings ran only a few of their elevators because of the impossibility of getting a sufficient supply of coal. In one of these buildings, which has six elevators, five were kept idle except during the rush hours of the early morning and late afternoon and for a short time in the middle of the day. In several buildings the tenants on the second, third, fourth, and fifth floors have been asked to walk down, and elevator stops have been discontinued on the down trip below the sixth floor. In one of the largest buildings in the Twenty-third Street district the management has even found it necessary to shut off all lights except for an hour or so in the late afternoon.

Men Buying Wool Scarfs.

Though earlier in the season there were indications that silk would replace wool in scarfs for men, the severe weather that has prevailed almost since the Fall season started has resulted in a greater call for the wool than for the silk scarf. Especially during the last few weeks some of the heaviest weaves have been among the best sellers. In colors various dark shades have been well taken, with olive drab, navy blue, and very dark green the most sought. Some of these were in solid colors, though combinations of contrasting and harmonizing shades have been most in demand. Stripes and checks vie with each other for the lead, from all accounts. Black and white has been unusually popular also, and is offered in a number of large and small stripes, checks, and other designs.

Millinery Officers Chosen.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Millinery Chamber of Commerce of the United States, held yesterday in the Hotel McAlpin, the following officers were unanimously elected: President, Frederick Bode of Gage Bros., Chicago and New York; First Vice President, M. W. Amberg of the New York Millinery and Supply Company; Second Vice President, Julius Lyons of Frankel, Frank & Co., Kansas City; Third Vice President, E. B. Knowlton of William Knowlton and Sons, representing the New England hat interests; Treasurer, Samuel Kanrich of Kanrich Bros., who is also President of the Ladies' Hat Manufacturers Protective Association. E. H. Alofsin was appointed secretary by Mr. Bode, and his appointment was confirmed by the board. The headquarters of the Millinery Chamber of Commerce will be at 280 Madison Avenue, this city.

Printcloth Sales Fair.

All things considered, a pretty fair business was done on printcloths in this market yesterday. Few sales were of real importance, due to the unwillingness of most of the mills to do business in a large way, but in the aggregate a fair volume of cloth was disposed of. Further business was reported on 38½-inch 64-60s for February-March delivery at 12 cents, with many of the mills holding these positions, as well as January, at 12¼ cents. A limited quantity of spot 38½-inch 60-52s was reported sold at 10⅞ cents, though some houses are holding them at an eighth higher. For 60-48s 10½ cents was paid. In the finer yarn goods there were sales of carded lawns, while warp sateens were in good demand and scarce. Printcloth quotations follow:

For Cloak and Suit Exports.

The War Trade Board is co-operating in every way possible to help the export business of the cloak and suit industry, according to Eugene L. Lezinsky, general manager of the Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers Protective Association of this city, who recently returned from Washington, where he was in consultation with Government authorities. Everything possible will be done to expedite the issuing of export licenses, the only requirement being that exporters fill out as accurately as possible the application forms in accordance with the law. "I found the War Trade Board extremely anxious to help us out in every way," said Mr. Lezinsky, "and when the exporter complies with the requirements of the law he will experience no difficulty whatever in obtaining export licenses for his shipments."

WOOL MARKET IS QUIET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Jan. 9.—The American Wool and Cotton Reporter will say tomorrow:

"More interest was evident in the wool trade in the last week. The trade is gradually recovering from the shock of the Government regulation announcement. The market is quiet, but very strong. Auction sales of Australian wool held on Jan. 8 tended to make the market firmer.

"Various factors in the cotton market contributed toward an extraordinary rise of price. The strong position of sellers is now becoming more evident. The offering of overcoating fabrics, while possibly less general than expected, shows that the supply of merchandise is not large.

"Few of the sellers who have offered goods have had to wait more than a few days before all their available goods were taken up by buyers. The woolen goods market has never appeared stronger.

"The cotton goods market appears stronger than during the previous week. Many believe that the trend in prices will be upward rather than downward. If raw material holds up, goods will probably advance. The outlook is for still further speculative profits upon goods contracted for at recent or at somewhat lower quotations."

COPPER YIELD $510,000,000.

Output in 1917 Less Than in 1916, but Worth $38,000,000 More.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9. — Copper valued at more than half a billion dollars was produced in the United States in 1917. Production was slightly less than in 1916, the Geological Survey announced in statistics for the year. Production from domestic ores amounted to 1,890,000,000 pounds, or 38,000,000 pounds less than 1916. Output from primary sources, domestic and foreign, was 2,362,000,000 pounds, an increase of 103,000,000 pounds over 1916. Domestic production was valued at $510,000,000, an increase of $35,000,0000 over 1916.

Stocks of refined copper at the beginning of 1917 were about 128,000,000 pounds, making the year's available supply, exclusive of secondary copper, about 2,490,000,000 pounds. Exports for the first ten months were 953,876,000 pounds, and for the year well beyond the billion-pound mark, although no figures are yet available. The supply for domestic consumption in 1917, assuming no change in stocks, was materially less than the 1,430,000,000 pounds available in 1916, the report states.

BUSINESS NOTES.

S. Hirsch, who was formerly merchandise manager of the W. & A. Bacon Company of Boston, has bought out the ready-to-wear departments of Dimond's, Providence, R. I. He will make his New York office with the Munzer-Lyon-Kahn Company, resident buyers, 1,133 Broadway.

Hillman & Israel, 200 Fifth Avenue, who control various fibre silk and Shetland sweater mills, have obtained the sole selling agency of the Shafter Knitting Works, Brooklyn, makers of Shetland goods. The products of this mill, instead of being confined to the jobbing trade as heretofore, will now be offered to retailers who can purchase in case lots.

L. S. Mayer Son, Inc., importers and exporters of fancy goods, 200 Fifth Avenue, who for some time were sole representatives of the Champs Elysees, manufacturers of French bags, are now representing the line of M. B. fabrication.

At the annual meeting of the Eastern Millinery Association, held at 200 Fifth Avenue, yesterday, all officers of the association were re-elected with the exception of the Secretary. Theodore I. Sturtz was chosen for that position. The following new Directors were elected: Paul H. Isler of Isler & Guye, Rufus Davis of Searle, Dailey & Co., William Knowlton of William Knowlton & Sons, and M. Blumenthal of F. Blumenthal & Co.

RULES ON FORTIFIED WINES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—The interpretation by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue of the War Tax act of Oct. 3, 1917, in regard to spirits has caused some confusion as to the use of fortified wines in the manufacture of cordials and various compounds. Where fortified wines are thus used there is a tax. Therefore, all containers of such fortified wines will be required to be conspicuously marked to that effect. Commissioner Roper's regulation follows:

"It has been brought to the attention of this office that many rectifiers have difficulty in determining whether wine used by them in the manufacture of cordials and similar compounds has been fortified under the act of Sept. 8, 1916. It is of primary importance that rectifiers be furnished with this information, for the reason that cordials made with wine fortified under the act of Sept. 8, 1916, are subject to a tax as cordials.

"Therefore, all casks, tanks, or cases of wine foritfied under the act of Sept. 8, 1916, hereafter removed from bonded premises, must be conspicuously marked or labeled with the following legend, in addition to the information called for by regulations: 'Fortified Under Act of Sept. 8, 1916.'

"Such mark or label should be in reasonable proportion to the size of the container. Where a label is used, it shall be pasted to the cask or other container, and secured thereto by five tacks, one in each corner and one in the middle of the label. Where the wine is contained in metal packages, the use of tacks will not, of course, be required.

"If after removal from bonded premises such wine is transferred to other containers, the new containers must also bear a similar legend."

COTTON GINNING REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Cotton ginned prior to Jan. 1 amounted to 10,450,401 running bales, counting round as half bales and exclusive of linters, the Census Bureau announced today. Round bales were 184,510 and Sea Island 86,813 bales. Last year to Jan. 1 ginnings amounted to 11,039,491 bales, including 188,052 round bales and 113,343 bales of Sea Island.

Title & Mortgage Co. Nets $207,449.

The New York Title and Mortgage Company earned a net income in 1917 amounting to $207,449, according to the report presented by President Harry A. Kahler at the annual meeting on Tuesday. Undivided profits at the end of the year totaled $283,258. The aggregate of guaranteed mortgages outstanding on Dec. 31 was $40,273,710, an increase of $2,420,000 during the year.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Deal On for the Kenilworth—Active Trading in Moderate-Priced Properties.

Negotiations are pending for the exchange of west side properties having an aggregate assessed valuation of $1,120,000. If the deal is closed Max N. Natanson will acquire from the Kenilworth Holding Company, in which Jacob A. Zimmerman and Emil W. Klappert are interested, the twelve-story apartment house known as the Kenilworth at the north corner of Central Park West and Seventy-fifth Street.

The structure covers a plot 102.2 by 128.9, adjoining the Church of the Divine Paternity, and is directly opposite the Hotel San Remo. It is assessed at $790,000.

The buyer will give in exchange the two five-story tenements and one two-story building forming the northeast corner of Broadway and Eighty-third Street, on a plot with an avenue frontage of 102.7 feet and a street frontage of 114 feet. The corner is assessed at $320,000.

Jules Realty Company Buys Harlem Flats for Investment.

The Jules Realty Company has purchased for investment from the Depositors Assets Corporation, A. L. Kass, President, 572 and 574 Lenox Avenue and 66 West 139th Street.

The property consists of two six-story new law tenements, the Lenox Avenue building occupying a plot 50 by 85 feet on the southeast corner of 139th Street and the adjoining building in the side street a plot 40 by 100 feet.

They were held at $125,000, the buyers paying all cash. The corporation is liquidating the realty holdings of the A. L. Kass bank, which failed in 1914, for the benefit of the former depositors. W. S. Baker negotiated the sale.

Resale of Murray Street Loft.

The five-story store and loft building at 25 Murray Street on a lot 25 by 88, located 50 feet east of Church Street, has been resold to an investor by the Manbroquin Corporation, James J. Moore, President. The sellers purchased the property several months ago from Elizabeth A. Underhill. William A. Whiting & Co. were the brokers.

Operator Buys East Side Dwelling to Remodel

James H. Cruikshank, operator, purchased from Cornelia F. Pinkham the four-story private dwelling, 41 East Twenty-ninth Street, between Madison and Fourth Avenues on a lot 21 by 98.9, assessed by the city at $47,500.

This is the first sale of this property in more than sixty years. Plans are being prepared to alter this dwelling, installing a store on the ground floor and bachelor apartments above.

Tenement Investors.

Gustave Pick purchased from Bertha Unger 1,334 First Avenue, a five-story tenement, on a plot 27 by 85, located 75 feet south of Seventy-second Street.

The five-story tenement, on a plot 40 by 61 by irregular, at 235 and 237 Avenue B, has been sold by Gertie Halpin to Pearl Niles.

The Land Estates, Inc., associated with the New York Title & Mortgage Company, has sold the five-story apartment house at 263 West 139th Street, on a lot 25 by 99.11.

Buyers for Private Dwellings.

B. W. Smith sold for Catherine B. Hobbs to Levinia Henery the three-story private dwelling at 222 West 136th Street, on a lot 17 by 79.11.

An investor has purchased from the estate of Ellen S. Jones 60 West Ninety-fourth Street, a four-story and basement private dwelling, on a lot 25 by 135.3.

Tenement Assessed for $17,000 Sells for $6,600.

Leonard Weill, an operator, picked up a realty bargain in the Vesey Street salesroom yesterday when he purchased for $6,600 the four-story tenement with stores at 143 Washington Street.

The property, which is assessed by the city for taxation purposes at $17,000, occupies a lot 18.9 by 53.5 by 55, located 18.10 feet south of Cedar Street. It was sold at the plant of Henry Brady in a partition action brought by William Hickey against Mary Porter and others.

Costly Dwelling Gift.

Reginald G. Barclay has presented as a gift to his wife, Bertha F. Barclay, the six-story residence at 5 East Seventy-eighth Street, on a lot 25 by 102.2, beginning 185 feet east of Fifth Avenue. There is a mortgage of $125,000 on the house, which is assessed at $170,000.

Bronx Sale.

Sadie Gersten sold to the Charlotte Street Holding Company 1,433 Charlotte Street, a five-story tenement, on a plot 40 by 100.

Enlarge Palisades Park.

The Palisades Interstate Park Commission has purchased through S. Osgood Pell & Co. a considerable tract of land along the Palisades to be added to the park. The property was bought from Mrs. L. S. Danforth, M. E. Driscoll, the estate of Admiral Mahan, and other holders.

The commission has now acquired all the land along the west bank of the river for a distance of about twelve miles, running from a point not far north of the Edgewater Ferry opposite 129th Street through the towns of Fort Lee, Englewood Cliffs, Tenafly, and Alpine into New York State.

New Jersey.

Frederick Klein purchased from the Lerner Construction Company 84 and 86 Romaine Avenue, Jersey City, an apartment house occupying a plot 50 by 100. In part payment the buyer gave 84 and 41 Mercer Street, Jersey City. This property will be improved by the Lerner Company with a four-story brick tenement.

Lawrence Fagan sold to the Manufacturers' Realty and Construction Company, Jersey City, six flats, 1,028 to 1,034 Washington Street, 100 by 75, and 1,033 Washington Street, 22 by 110, for $72,000.

Ten New Dwellings for Mount Vernon.

The South Side Construction Company has filed with the Mount Vernon Building Inspector plans for the construction of ten houses to be erected in the vicinity of South Sixth Avenue and Eighth Street, to cost $6,000 to $8,000 each. Construction will be frame.

Commercial Leases.

The Harris Company, textile converters, leased the entire building at 380 and 382 Broadway, corner of White Street.

L. Tanenbaum, Strauss & Co. leased for Joseph L. Buttenweiser the entire building at 32 Greene Street to the Semefelder Lithograph Stone Company for a term of years.

New York Building Interests in Washington Conference.

An important conference will be held on Friday at Washington, between representatives of the Council of National Defense and a special committee of the recently organized Association of Building and Allied Interests of New York.

The meeting of the association scheduled yesterday in the assembly hall of the Building Trades Employers' Association, 30 West Thirty-third Street, was indefinitely postponed on account of the request from Washington that a committee be selected to take up with the Federal authorities the matter of better co-operation between the building industries and the Government. The discussion is expected to concern itself with constructive suggestions and action whereby New York building interests will render the best possible service to the Government in emergency construction work and other allied projects necessary to the successful prosecution of the war.

Senator William M. Calder, Walter S. Gifford, Director of the Council of National Defense, and Otto M. Eidlitz, Chairman of the Housing Committee of the Council of National Defense, will be at the conference. Members of the New York Committee include G. Osgood Andrews, Eastern representative of the National Plate Glass Manufacturers' Association; H. H. Murdock of Jardine, Hill & Murdock, architects; Elliot Smith, President of the Building Material Exchange; E. A. McDougall, President of the Queensboro Corporation; Allen E. Beals, Secretary of the Dow Service Building Reports, and Frank N. Quinby of the Brooklyn Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Brooklyn Realty Board Increases Brokerage Rates.

Following the recent action of the Real Estate Board of New York increasing real estate brokerage rates in Manhattan the Brokerage Board of Real Estate Brokers yesterday announced the following rates for the Borough of Brooklyn:

Sales 2½ per cent. instead of 1 per cent. The rate for country property will remain at 5 per cent., while the commission for rentals will take an upward stride. For the first year the rate will be 3 per cent., instead of 2½, and for the second year 2½ per cent. instead of 1 per cent., and 2½ for the third year instead of 1 per cent., and 1 per cent. for each additional year.

For the management of property, such as collecting rent, care of repairs, &c., the rate will remain at 5 per cent.

Income Tax to be Explained to Realty Owners.

Mark Eisner, Collector of Internal Revenue, will explain the complex provisions of the income tax law at a meeting of the Real Estate Owners' Association of the Twelfth and Nineteenth Wards called for Friday evening at Turn Hall, Eighty-fifth Street and Lexington Avenue.

"Own-Your-Home" Meeting.

Suburban developers and brokers are invited to attend the meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Waldorf-Astoria. Final action will be taken to launch the "Own-Your-Home" campaign, inaugurated several weeks ago to encourage and stimulate home buying in the suburbs.

Realty Notes.

Instead of the big annual dinner, which has been for years one of the leading real estate events, the Real Estate Board of New York will conduct a benefit performance at the Hippodrome on the evening of March 3.

The net proceeds will be given to the War Camp Community Service of the City of New York and to the New York Auxiliary of the Navy Relief Society.

A meeting of the West Side Taxpayers' Association has been called for this evening at 267 West Thirty-fourth Street.

J. Clarence Davies, who with Joseph P. Day has conducted in the last five years many large auctions of real property, has purchased a seat in the Real Estate Auctioneers' Association, under whose auspices all legal and public sales are held in the Vesey Street salesroom.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—A disturbance that moved in by way of the Southern California Coast is central tonight over southwestern Colorado, with a high pressure area of great magnitude to the northward, and snows have fallen generally in the Northwest and in the plateau region, attended by a marked fall in temperature.

Temperatures tonight range from 2 degrees below zero in northern Wyoming to 22 degrees below zero in Alberta. It is also considerably colder in the lower Mississippi Valley, and low temperatures continue elsewhere, except in Texas. In addition to the precipitation mentioned there were rains in the East Gulf and South Atlantic States, and snows in Tennessee and the Ohio Valley, and from the upper lake region eastward.

Except for scattered snows along the lower lakes the weather will be generally fair Thursday and Friday in the lake region, the Ohio Valley, the East, and South, without decided temperature changes, although it will be somewhat colder Thursday in the South Atlantic States and along the Gulf Coast.

Cold wave warnings have been ordered for Wyoming, southwestern South Dakota, the western portions of Kansas and Nebraska, and the Texas Panhandle.

Winds for Thursday and Friday along the North and Middle Atlantic Coasts will be moderate to fresh west, fair weather; South Atlantic Coast, moderate northwest, fair.

FORECASTS TODAY AND FRIDAY.

Eastern New York, New Jersey, New England, and Eastern Pennsylvania.—Fair Thursday and Friday; little change in temperature.

Western New York.—Partly cloudy Thursday and Friday; snow near the Lakes; little change in temperature.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

Education Notes.

The Board of Education approved yesterday the transfer of May A. Ingenthron, assistant to Principal, from P. S. 104 to P. S. 61, Manhattan.

The Civil Service Commission has authorized the employment of John Walker Harrington as publicity representative in the Bureau of Lectures.

The death of Miss Harriet L. Bogue, Principal of P. S. 41, Brooklyn, was reported to the Board of Education yesterday.

Plans for the erection of the new P. S. 29, Brooklyn, will go on with the elimination of the provision for a bowling alley, a rifle range, an art gallery, gardens, conservatories, and swimming pools. The shower baths, however, will be retained.

A parents' meeting will be held in P. S. 40, Twentieth Street, on Jan. 11, at 3 P. M., to discuss the work accomplished by the Department of Speech Improvement and to inform the parents how they may aid in improving and correcting the speech of their children. Judge Samuel D. Levy of the Children's Court, Dr. Frederick Martin, Director of Speech Improvement, Department of the Board of Education; District Superintendent Ruth G. McGray, and Principal Sol E. Du Bois will speak. Principal Franklin of P. S. 40 will preside. Parents and teachers of children suffering from speech defects are urged to atten.

George L. Egbert has been appointed a member of the local School Board of District 45 and James Talbot as a member of the local School Board of District 46, both in Richmond Borough.

The resolution adopted by the former Board of Education authorizing the Acting City Superintendent to assign temporarily to the Washington Irving High School Lucy B. Allen, a first assistant in the New York Training School for Teachers, was rescinded by the new Board of Education yesterday.

The State Commissioner of Education has rendered a decision in the appeal of Arthur D. Stetson against the former Board of Education. It directs the present board to transfer or assign him to a position on the teaching staff, which he is legally qualified to hold under his teacher's license and that the position of Principal of P. S. 104, Brooklyn, be filled by a teacher holding a Principal's license.

Leaves of absence without pay have been granted to Paul Goldman, a teacher in P. S. 50, the Bronx, and to Gerald Reynolds, a teacher in the Evander Childs High School, for the purpose of war service.

Classes in English to foreigners and industrial classes for the purpose of furthering the work in Americanization will be organized in the building of the Council of Jewish Women, 71 St. Mark's Place, Manhattan, as an annex to Evening Elementary School 79.

SPREAD WILSON'S SPEECH.

Security League Will Distribute It Among Foreigners in America.

The translation of President Wilson's message to Congress into foreign languages as a means of getting America's war aims before the foreign-born citizens of the country, was decided upon by the National Security League at a meeting yesterday. It will be put into German, Russian, Swedish, Dutch, Danish, Yiddish, Hungarian, and Polish for circulation in pamphlet form.

Colonel Charles E. Lydecker, as Chairman of the committee on the $1,000 prize being offered by the security league for the best suggestion as to a method for getting America's war aims before the German people, reported that the contest was being widely advertised, and that a large number of suggestions had been submitted.

NO MONEY NOW FOR WEST SIDE PLAN

Craig Tells Improvement Commission Funds Are Needed for School Purposes.

HAS A REFUNDING PLAN

Controller Says He Deplores City Debt Limit Talk—Favors Tube to Aid Freight Congestion.

Controller Craig, testifying before the West Side Improvement Commission yesterday, said he was in favor of a six-track subway under Tenth and Eleventh Avenues as far south as Canal Street, for the transportation of freight, and that it should be operated by the city so that all railroads would have equal access to it. If this plan was carried out, he said, he believed the city need not fear that the present congestion of freight would be duplicated.

Such a plan, he declared, would be sufficiently elastic to permit of its extension by a system of platforms and terminals, to meet the growth of the city's population and business. Eventually it might be found advantageous to connect this subway with various sections of the city by underground roads, he said. Asked how much a subway as the one proposed would cost, Mr. Craig said that his office was preparing a refunding plan which would permit an increase to $125,000,000 of the city's debt limit. He said the city's debt limit would ordinarily not be more than $65,000,000 in the current year.

This plan, Mr. Craig explained, would be submitted to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court by the Corporation Counsel for approval. To increase further the financial means of the city Mr. Craig referred to a plan, now under consideration, for exemption from the debt limit of all corporate stock. The Controller said he deplored the constant discussion of the city's debt limit, and declared that this talk was largely responsible for the fact that the city would not be able to borrow any more money for less than 5 per cent.

Much money was needed for educational purposes, he said, and this was the more pressing need, because, in his opinion, any person who would deprive the people of all possible educational advantages would be a public enemy.

In reply to questions, Mr. Craig said that the city should not give in fee any of its property to the New York Central Railroad or to any other corporation, but that a franchise should be granted to the railroad for a period of ten years, with the privileges of four renewals for the same term. Commenting on the present claims of the New York Central Company to the ownership of certain lands and rights, Mr. Craig suggested that in the event of the Government acquiring the railroad the company might demand compensation for lands and rights conveyed to it by the city.

Mr. Craig, in referring to the value of the waterfront, said he thought it should always remain in the possession of the city, and that piers should be built and leased to the railroads. Each pier, he stated, should yield an annual rent in normal times of $5,000. Mr. Craig did not think that at the present time the city could do more than to compel the New York Central Company to improve its method of handling freight by utilizing some of its unused land. Asked what he thought of a tunnel under the North River, the Controller replied that a tunnel or tunnels were desirable and would prove of great advantage.

No date was set by the commission for a future hearing.

The New York Board of Trade and Transportation yesterday authorized its President to appoint a committee to consider the west side situation. A former committee had considered the matter and reported, but since then it had assumed such a wider scope that the appointment of another committee was deemed advisable.

These Three Great Products from Corn enable you to help save the Nation's resources as urged by the U.S. Food Administration

INDIAN CORN and the products of corn will furnish food in more variety than any other grain and save sugar, save fats, save wheat and save money for every family in the land.

Karo Syrup spread on war bread is appetizing and nourishing. It takes a quarter of a pound of steak to equal in fuel value four good slices of rye bread spread with Karo.

Karo is the National Syrup for griddle cakes and waffles. Good for candy making and unequaled for preserving.

Mazola, the pure oil from Corn, is delicious and economical—takes the place of butter, lard and fats for cooking, and of olive oil for salads. It gives your cooking better flavor and it is easy to cook with. Can be used over and over again.

Duryeas' Cornstarch is the base of a hundred everyday desserts. You can use it with canned or preserved fruit, with jelly or with many a home-made sauce. A prime favorite in those days when desserts were expected to be nutritious as well as delicious.

Now is the time to revive them.

save
1-wheat use more corn
2-meat use more fish & beans
3-fats use just enough
4-sugar use syrups
and serve the cause of freedom

MAZOLA bought in larger quantities means a saving in price. It will keep indefinitely under all conditions.

KARO (golden brown) in the Blue Can The universal household syrup for waffles, hot biscuit, griddle cakes and bread.
